Many Killed in Anti-Semitic Riots in Old Rumania

Jews Shot Down and Beaten as Threat of War in Balkans Grows

Street Fighting Breaks Out Following Carol's Appeal To Axis Powers for Help against Russia

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, July 3 (Wednesday) — Anti-Semitic rioting, with Jews shot down and beaten, swept in a bloody wave overnight throughout old Rumania—harassed from within, shorn of two provinces, and threatened with Balkan war jeopardizing two more.

Street fighting broke out less than twenty-four hours after King Carol turned about from British alliances and appealed to the axis powers for help to save his kingdom.

The capital was blacked out for the first time. Ambulances sped to scenes of rioting. And from Soviet-seized Bessarabia and Bucovina the general staff rushed Rumania's full war strength to the frontiers of menaced Transylvania and Dobruja, facing Hungary and Bulgaria.

(Observers at Budapest reported increasingly violent anti-Jewish outbreaks and demonstrations generally through Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia. Reports reaching Budapest from Rumania told of beatings, persecutions and some killings.)

Wealthy Jews Flee

Wealthy Jews fled from their homes in cities to refuge in the country.

Some new disorders were reported at Galati despite the vigilance of heavy military patrols on duty since riots last Sunday.

Near the Prut river Jewish refugee women and children were said to have been dragged from trains and beaten. There were reports that some were hurled beneath the wheels of moving trains or shot in their seats in the darkness as the trains sped through tunnels.

Bucharest ambulances were called to several riots. The worst fighting was at Polytechnic High school where several were injured critically.

Tense Hour Arrives

The internal disturbances came at a tense hour when Rumania's armies were massed on her borders, where scattered fighting already has been reported and a major conflict is feared over the claims of her neighbors to Rumanian territory.

Hungary demands the vast, rich lands of Transylvania and Bulgaria wants southern Dobruja.

(Dispatches from Sofia said two Rumanian warplanes flew over the Bulgarian Danube port of Ruse and were fired on by ground batteries.)

Communists in Russian-occupied Bessarabia held protest meetings because Soviet authorities appointed three members of King Carol's newly-formed Rumanian Party of the Nation to retain their posts in the new Soviet territory. The men were named governor of Bessarabia, prefect of Chisinau and mayor of Chisinau.

Carol set up the party, with himself at its head, June 21, and commanded the whole nation to fall in step with the new totalitarian political system based on the Nazi pattern.

(Dispatches from Bucharest to Belgrade, Yugoslavia, told of a movement by Rumania's Fascist-inclined iron guard which Carol boosted to important leadership in his new party to compel the king to abdicate on the grounds he was

120 Casualties Caused by Nazi Raids on England

Three Northeastern Coastal Towns Bombed by Invaders

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 3 (Wednesday) (AP)—German bombs caused at least 120 casualties in raids on three northeastrn costal towns and in the open country of the southwest last night.

Early today, it was reported that at least ten persons had been killed and 110 injured.

It was not immediately known whether this represented the casualties of all three northeastern towns which were attacked, or only in one of them. The southwest apparently escaped casualties.

Many of the injured were cut by flying glass splinters.

It was the second successive time Nazi raiders took advantage of the long English twilight to bomb their targets on the mainland.

The harassment by German raiders echoed in the House of Commons where Maj. Albert Newby Braithwaite asserted it was the duty of the United States "to send their fleet and their boats to take our women and children across to their country."

The air ministry announced a major success of its own, declaring that another heavy attack had been made on Germany's great 26,000-ton warship Scharnhorst.

Wheeler Demands Big Parties Give Anti-War Pledge

Senator Addresses Convention of the Townsend Clubs

FAVORS THIRD PARTY IF ONE IS 'NECESSARY'

Will Not Support Any Candidate Who Does Not Oppose War

By OSCAR KAHAN

ST. LOUIS, July 2, (AP) — Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D.-Mont.), made a dramatic appearance before the Townsend National Convention late today, shortly after John L. Lewis had told the delegates Wheeler was the only Democrat who could defeat the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell Willkie.

With the bushy-browed CIO labor leader sitting on the speaker's platform—he had waited forty minutes for Wheeler's arrival—the senator made a vigorous plea for a "strong, liberal" peace movement, outside the two major parties if necessary. He declared he would not support any candidate who was not pledged to keep this country out of war.

"The Republicans have not only failed to go down the line against war but they have nominated a candidate who has said our first line of defense is in Europe," Wheeler said.

Would Protect Aged

"I do not subscribe to that. Our first line of defense is preserving democracy, seeing that the aged are protected, seeing that the 10,000,000 unemployed get work, and see that civil liberties are preserved."

Unless the Democratic party adopts a "progressive" platform and nominates a presidential candidate pledged to peace, the senator said there would be "no difference" between it and the Republican party.

"Then," he continued, "there will be a tremendous demand for a strong, liberal peace party which will give the people a chance to vote on war or peace."

Wheeler, in an interview, had announced his name would be presented to the Democratic National Convention, regardless of whether President Roosevelt sought a third term. He did not mention his candidacy directly in his brief speech.

Sees Defeat of F. D. R.

Lewis, in his address, made the prophecy that Mr. Roosevelt would be defeated "ignominously" by Willkie if the President ran for a third term.

The CIO chieftain asserted the Republican party had "failed to accept its opportunity to become a party of the people" and he declared its planks on old-age benefits and labor were "susceptible to any interpretation that any politician may desire to place on them."

Stimson Says U. S. Faces Great Peril

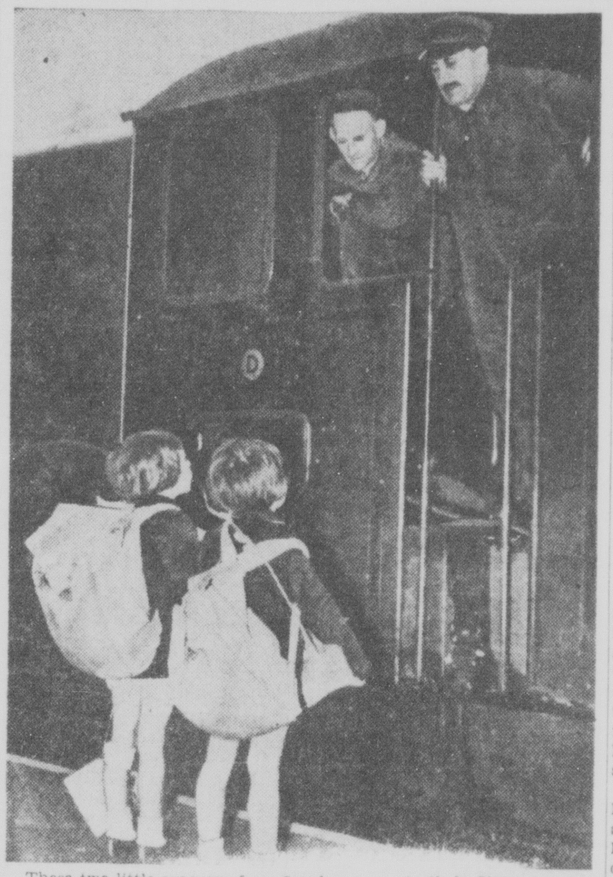

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson told the Senate Military Committee today just before it confirmed his appointment as secretary of war that the nation was faced with "unprecedented peril." No one, he said, wants to send American troops beyond the borders of the country, unless the protection of the nation makes such action necessary.

"On the other hand," he added, "I do not believe that the United States can be safely protected by a purely passive or defensive defense. I do not believe that we shall be safe from invasion if we sit down and wait for the enemy to attack our shores."

Because of the increased range of modern weapons, he continued, the distance which must be kept between a possible invader and the shores of the United States has increased. Consequently, the nation's line of defense includes Puerto Rico, Bermuda Newfoundland, and Northeastern Canada. "Because it is now recognized that if a powerful enemy secured a base at any one of these places it could launch a devastating air attack upon our Eastern seaboard."

"At the present moment," he added, "this line of our defense is critically affected by the fact that all of these places except Puerto Rico are involved in the present war and may be subjected to the hazard of a victory by the German dictator."

WILL WE BE SAFE, MR. ENGINEER?

These two little evacuees from London pause in their flight from the British capital to ask the engineer of the refugee train if there will be any air raids where they are going. Nearly a quarter of a million children have been evacuated from English cities in recent weeks as Britain prepares to repel Germany's expected invasion.

Cabinet Keeps Carol From Quitting Throne

Blamed for Troubles, He Comes Near Abdicating in Disgust

By The Associated Press

The cabinet of the crazy-quilt kingdom of Rumania was credited today (Wednesday) with having dissuaded Caroll II from quitting his uneasy throne in disgust and disappointment.

Carol already is blamed by some Rumanian factions for ceding back to Russia the rich territories of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina.

Meanwhile, the principal cities of Rumania were gripped last night in bloody anti-Semitic riots; Hungary and Bulgaria yere preparing, by means peaceful or otherwise, to get back their world war-lost provinces of Transylvania and southern Dobruja respectively.

There was spasmodic border fighting all around Rumania.

Carol, who yielded to Russia because he admittedly did not have a friend able or willing to support him, has thrown himself with Germany in a last hope of avoiding further petitioning of his kingdom.

Germany is interested in preserving the peace of the Balkans, but has made no apparently incisive move as yet.

Disheartened, Carol was portrayed in Balkan diplomatic circles as wanting to accede to abdication demands among extremnst members of the Facist-inclined iron guard and among leaders of the numerous parties which he recently outlawed in attempting to reorganize Rumania along German lines.

At any rate, the ruler who in his youth gained game as an interna-

Roosevelt Places Ban on Exporting Of War Materials

President Establishes Strict Control of Many Necessities

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt established strict control over the export of numerous vital war materials today to guard against a shortage in this country.

Immediately after signing a bill which gave him authority to do so, he issued a proclamation banning the export after July 5, except upon specific license, of rubber, silk, wool, hides, aluminum, asbestos and other materials and metals; and certain chemicals, aircraft parts and machine tools.

The proclamation enjoined "all officers" to exercise "the utmost diligence" in enforcing the restrictions and warned that violations "will be rigorously prosecuted."

The president designated Lt. Col. Russell L. Maxwell of the army general staff as administrator of export control. He will collaborate with the national defense commission and the state department, which issues export license.

Scrap iron, which has been going in large quantities to Japan, was not among the exports restricted. Mr. Roosevelt explained at his press

Stimson against Sending Troops Out of Country

NOMINATION FAVORED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Knox Closely Questioned Regarding His Views on War

By RICHMARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The Senate Military committee approved the nomination of Henry L. Stimson, Republican, as secretary of war today, after two hours of questioning which produced statements that the nominee opposed sending troops beyon American borders unless the protection of this country should make such action necessary.

At the same time, the Senate Naval committee fired question after question at Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for secretary of the navy; received a staunch denial that he ever had urged giving military support to the Allies, and deferred action on the nomination until tomorrow.

Both Knox, the Republican party's 1936 vice presidential nominee, and Stimson, secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet, told the committees that no anti-third term pledge by President Roosevelt was involved in the negotiations leading to their appointments.

The two were named to the cabinet on June 19, in a move which produced breathless surprise both in political Washington and in Philadelphia, where the Republican platform drafters were then meeting. The Republican National Committee promptly read the two out of the party.

Republicans Critical

While readily praising the abilities of the two, and generally taking the position that their appointment strengthened the cabinet, Republicans for the most part wanted to know more about what was involved, and so today's hearings were ordered.

The Stimson appointment was approved 14 to 3, and administration factions within the Naval Committee are of the opinion that when the Knox nomination comes to a vote tomorrow not more than five votes will be cast against confirmation.

In addition to the committee hearings, the day also produced action by President Roosevelt to clamp rigid restrictions upon the exportation of a long list of industrial, manufacturing and chemical products which are considered of vital importance to the national defense program. The items included may be exported only with special permission. The president appointed Lieutenant Colonel Russell L. Maxwell of the army to administer the program.

Germany Reports Damage Is Slight, but That Five Persons Were Killed in Kiel and Vicinity

By The Associated Press

A smashing aerial assault upon the German naval base at Kiel in which repeated bomb-hits were scored on the already-damaged Nazi battleship, Scharnhorst, was reported last (Tuesday) night by the British air ministry.

The raid on Kiel, carried out Monday night, was another attack in the continuing series between Britain and Germany. The British said the 26,000-ton battleship, twice before reported damaged by British arms, was hit by bombs as she lay in a floating dock for repairs.

Germany said damage in the Kiel raid was slight but that five persons were killed.

The Nazis kept up raids on Britain in the long English twilight yesterday. The British said at least twelve persons were killed and 123 injured in a German raid on northeast England—the second time in as many days that Nazi air warriors have taken advantage of the extended daylight for bomb forays.

Quarrel in Balkans

In southeastern Europe, where Germany wants to maintain peace to protect her huge economic stakes in Rumania, heavily-armed Hungary and Rumania exchanged bitter accusations in their quarrel over the rich province of Transylvania, now held by Rumania.

The Hungarian parliament heard deputy Kozi-Horvath charge that Rumanian military requisitions in Transylvania, which once belonged to the old Austro-Hungary empire, are "taking on the character of free looting of Hungarian property."

The Rumanian army worked overtime on defense against what its officers called "habitual Hungarian attacks" and in Bucharest Rumanian government sources charged that Hungary is trying to foment revolution among the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania to speed the eventual entry of the Hungarian army into the province.

May Recover Provinces

In Bucharest, where anti-Semitic rioting was reported, Rumanian Foreign Minister Constantine Argetoianu hinted that Rumania some day expected to get back possibly with German aid, the provinces of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, yielded to Russia last week on the Soviet's demand. Attacks on Jews were reported from other Balkan states.

He told the foreign affairs committee of the Rumanian chamber of Deputies that the lost lands "are still and will remain Rumania." The foreign minister said that one of the main reasons for consenting to Russia's demands "was that we found ourselves without friends and without support."

Now that Rumania has scrapped her Allied contracts and gone wholly into the Nazi sphere, Germany has indicated she will help avert a complete breakup of the Balkan nation.

Germany summarized her conquest of France with a high command report on "the greatest military victory of all times." The report said 27,074 German soldiers had been killed since the blitzkrieg

Lewis Endorses Senator Wheeler For Nomination

Willkie Names 12-Member Committee To Conduct His Campaign

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis endorsed Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for president yesterday (Tuesday) while the senator himself said definitely that his name would be placed in nomination at the Democratic convention regardless of whether President Roosevelt ran.

Meanwhile, Wendell Willkie in New York appointed a twelve-member Advisory Committee to conduct his Republican campaign, inviting Taft and Dewey campaign managers and Republican congressional leaders to serve with his own lieutenants.

Lewis, addessing the National Convention of the Townsend Pension Plan in St. Louis, said that Wheeler was the only Democrat who could defeat Willkie and that he stood "for peace at home and for non-intervention in European war."

Silent On Roosevelt

Wheeler was in the same city as the CIO president to address a "stay-out-of-war" meeting. He declined to say whether he would support Mr. Roosevelt if nominated, pending "assurance" that the Democratic platform and candidate would not "get us into war."

President Roosevelt was besieged with questions as to his plans at his regular semi-weekly press conference but he parried all the queries good humoredly.

Government Farm Enterprise Fails

JERSEY HOMESTEADS, N. J., July 2 (AP)—A government-sponsored cooperative farm enterprise came to and end today when 462 acres of growing crops six head of cattle, several thousand chickens and a large quantity of farm equipment were sold at auction for $34,899.59.

The sale was held to satisfy a $123,000 mortgage held by the farm security administration against the Jersey Homesteads Agricultural Association.

The FSA itself bought in all but six cows, two typewriters and an electric fan, for $34,364.09. Private persons bought the other items. Walter A. Simon, FSA administrative officer in charge of the project, said the land would be leased and the crops and equipment sold on credit to five farmers and three poultrymen who have been operating the farm for the association.

The FSA paid $16,000 for 250 acres planted in potatoes and $5,654.17 for 7,151 chickens.

When it began several years ago the cooperative community boasted a garment factory in addition to the farm. The factory was sold to satisfy another mortgage last year and is expected to begin operations again soon under the management of a New York concern.

French Losses Placed at 1,500,000; German Casualties Fixed at 156,492

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 2—Germany reckoned her total casualties in the western offensive which crushed the lowlands and France at 156,492 tonight.

Figures issued by the high command in a report on "the greatest military victory of all times" said 27,074 German soldiers had been killed since May 10, 111,034 wounded and 18,384 missing.

(General Charles de Gaulle, the die-hard French leader in London, figures Allied dead, wounded and missing up to the final surrender at 1,318,080. However, private estimates have placed dead, wounded and missing of France alone at 1,500,000 in the last month of the war.

(Hitler previously announced his total dead, wounded and missing in the Norway campaign as 5,296. In the Polish campaign, the total was placed at 44,298.)

Allied Air Losses

Allied air losses, the German high command said, amounted to 792 airplanes and twenty-seven balloons from June 4. Since the middle of May, the report said, 400,000 tons of merchant shipping have been destroyed by submarines, and since June 5 Allied shipping losses inflicted by German air forces totalled 299,000 tons.

Other German sources proudly cited trade figures to show that Europe is fitting itself quickly into

Republicans To Decide upon Head Of National Committee This Week

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—The eleven Republicans who with Wendell Willkie will decide upon a National Committee chairman will meet with their presidential nominee in New York Friday, Walter S. Hallanan announced today.

Hallanan, chairman of a subcommittee to choose a chairman after consulting with Willkie, said the meeting will be at 2 p. m. at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The meeting had been tentatively set for tomorrow when the subcommittee was appointed just after last week's National Convention which nominated Willkie.

In New York, where Willkie is arranging his affairs to get away for a short vacation, the nominee was considering a new type of setup for the campaign.

He was reported ready to name a committee of three men to direct activities one of them to be the campaign manager, another the national chairman, and a third Willkie's personal representative.

Willkie declined comment at his press conference, although it was considered probable one of the three men would be John D. M. Hamilton, present national committeeman chairman. Another might be Russell Davenport, former managing editor of Fortune who left his post to work for Willkie's nomination.

Hallanan in making his announcement of the meeting did not comment on the reports. The subcommittee, with Willkie's approval, has authority to choose, besides a chairman, an executive committee and other officers.

Transfer of American Fleet Is Reported Irritating to Japan

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — The Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard by NBC tonight, quoted the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi as saying of the transfer of the U. S. Fleet to the Hawaiian islands:

"No matter what measures the U.S.A. adopts in order to restrain Japan, they will prove ineffective in view of the present international situation. We intend to calmly observe the steps taken by the Americans."

The Moscow broadcast, in English, added that the Tokyo newspapers said:

"The Japanese fleet is ready for decisive action should friction arise between Japan and the U.S.A. and Great Britain on the question of establishing a new order in eastern Asiaa.

"The Japanese fleet expressed profound indignation in connection with the circulation of false rumors to the effect that it is allegedly trying to avoid friction with the United States and Britain.

The concentration of the U. S. fleet in the Pacific and particularly at the Hawiian islands greatly annoys and irritates Japanese naval circles who are of the opinion that this creates an obstacle to the realization of Japan's plans for a new order in eastern Asia and penetration to the south."

Stimson, Republican, as secretary of war today, after two hours of questioning which produced statements that the nominee opposed sending troops beyon American borders unless the protection of this country should make such action necessary.

At the same time, the Senate Naval committee fired question after question at Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for secretary of the navy; received a staunch denial that he ever had urged giving military support to the Allies, and deferred action on the nomination until tomorrow.

Both Knox, the Republican party's 1936 vice presidential nominee, and Stimson, secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet, told the committees that no anti-third term pledge by President Roosevelt was involved in the negotiations leading to their appointments.

The two were named to the cabinet on June 19, in a move which produced breathless surprise both in political Washington and in Philadelphia, where the Republican platform drafters were then meeting. The Republican National Committee promptly read the two out of the party.

Republicans Critical

While readily praising the abilities of the two, and generally taking the position that their appointment strengthened the cabinet, Republicans for the most part wanted to know more about what was involved, and so today's hearings were ordered.

The Stimson appointment was approved 14 to 3, and administration factions within the Naval Committee are of the opinion that when the Knox nomination comes to a vote tomorrow not more than five votes will be cast against confirmation.

In addition to the committee hearings, the day also produced action by President Roosevelt to clamp rigid restrictions upon the exportation of a long list of industrial, manufacturing and chemical products which are considered of vital importance to the national defense program. The items included may be exported only with special permission. The president appointed Lieutenant Colonel Russell L. Maxwell of the army to administer the program.

Government Farm Enterprise Fails

JERSEY HOMESTEADS, N. J., July 2 (AP)—A government-sponsored cooperative farm enterprise came to and end today when 462 acres of growing crops six head of cattle, several thousand chickens and a large quantity of farm equipment were sold at auction for $34,899.59.

The sale was held to satisfy a $123,000 mortgage held by the farm security administration against the Jersey Homesteads Agricultural Association.

The FSA itself bought in all but six cows, two typewriters and an electric fan, for $34,364.09. Private persons bought the other items. Walter A. Simon, FSA administrative officer in charge of the project, said the land would be leased and the crops and equipment sold on credit to five farmers and three poultrymen who have been operating the farm for the association.

The FSA paid $16,000 for 250 acres planted in potatoes and $5,654.17 for 7,151 chickens.

When it began several years ago the cooperative community boasted a garment factory in addition to the farm. The factory was sold to satisfy another mortgage last year and is expected to begin operations again soon under the management of a New York concern.

Battleship Scharnhorst Hit Repeatedly in Raid By the Royal Air Force

MIDSHIPMAN WILLKIE

This is the way Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the presidency, looked when he went to Culver in 1906 and was a midshipman in a naval class. Culver Military Academy, at Culver, Ind., is about 100 miles north of Willkie's birthplace at Elwood.

Germany Reports Damage Is Slight, but That Five Persons Were Killed in Kiel and Vicinity

By The Associated Press

A smashing aerial assault upon the German naval base at Kiel in which repeated bomb-hits were scored on the already-damaged Nazi battleship, Scharnhorst, was reported last (Tuesday) night by the British air ministry.

The raid on Kiel, carried out Monday night, was another attack in the continuing series between Britain and Germany. The British said the 26,000-ton battleship, twice before reported damaged by British arms, was hit by bombs as she lay in a floating dock for repairs.

Germany said damage in the Kiel raid was slight but that five persons were killed.

The Nazis kept up raids on Britain in the long English twilight yesterday. The British said at least twelve persons were killed and 123 injured in a German raid on northeast England—the second time in as many days that Nazi air warriors have taken advantage of the extended daylight for bomb forays.

Quarrel in Balkans

In southeastern Europe, where Germany wants to maintain peace to protect her huge economic stakes in Rumania, heavily-armed Hungary and Rumania exchanged bitter accusations in their quarrel over the rich province of Transylvania, now held by Rumania.

The Hungarian parliament heard deputy Kozi-Horvath charge that Rumanian military requisitions in Transylvania, which once belonged to the old Austro-Hungary empire, are "taking on the character of free looting of Hungarian property."

The Rumanian army worked overtime on defense against what its officers called "habitual Hungarian attacks" and in Bucharest Rumanian government sources charged that Hungary is trying to foment revolution among the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania to speed the eventual entry of the Hungarian army into the province.

May Recover Provinces

In Bucharest, where anti-Semitic rioting was reported, Rumanian Foreign Minister Constantine Argetoianu hinted that Rumania some day expected to get back possibly with German aid, the provinces of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, yielded to Russia last week on the Soviet's demand. Attacks on Jews were reported from other Balkan states.

He told the foreign affairs committee of the Rumanian chamber of Deputies that the lost lands "are still and will remain Rumania." The foreign minister said that one of the main reasons for consenting to Russia's demands "was that we found ourselves without friends and without support."

Now that Rumania has scrapped her Allied contracts and gone wholly into the Nazi sphere, Germany has indicated she will help avert a complete breakup of the Balkan nation.

Germany summarized her conquest of France with a high command report on "the greatest military victory of all times." The report said 27,074 German soldiers had been killed since the blitzkrieg

Lewis Endorses Senator Wheeler For Nomination

Willkie Names 12-Member Committee To Conduct His Campaign

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis endorsed Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for president yesterday (Tuesday) while the senator himself said definitely that his name would be placed in nomination at the Democratic convention regardless of whether President Roosevelt ran.

Meanwhile, Wendell Willkie in New York appointed a twelve-member Advisory Committee to conduct his Republican campaign, inviting Taft and Dewey campaign managers and Republican congressional leaders to serve with his own lieutenants.

Lewis, addessing the National Convention of the Townsend Pension Plan in St. Louis, said that Wheeler was the only Democrat who could defeat Willkie and that he stood "for peace at home and for non-intervention in European war."

Silent On Roosevelt

Wheeler was in the same city as the CIO president to address a "stay-out-of-war" meeting. He declined to say whether he would support Mr. Roosevelt if nominated, pending "assurance" that the Democratic platform and candidate would not "get us into war."

President Roosevelt was besieged with questions as to his plans at his regular semi-weekly press conference but he parried all the queries good humoredly.

French Losses Placed at 1,500,000; German Casualties Fixed at 156,492

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 2—Germany reckoned her total casualties in the western offensive which crushed the lowlands and France at 156,492 tonight.

Figures issued by the high command in a report on "the greatest military victory of all times" said 27,074 German soldiers had been killed since May 10, 111,034 wounded and 18,384 missing.

General Charles de Gaulle, the stout-hard French leader in London, figures Allied dead, wounded and missing up to the final surrender at 1,318,080. However, private estimates have placed dead, wounded and missing of France alone at 1,500,000 in the last month of the war.

(Hitler previously announced his total dead, wounded and missing in the Norway campaign as 5,296. In the Polish campaign, the total was placed at 44,298.)

Allied Air Losses

Allied air losses, the German high command said, amounted to 792 airplanes and twenty-seven balloons from June 4. Since the middle of May, the report said, 400,000 tons of merchant shipping have been destroyed by submarines, and since June 5 Allied shipping losses inflicted by German air forces totalled 299,000 tons.

Other German sources proudly cited trade figures to show that Europe is fitting itself quickly into

Transfer of American Fleet Is Reported Irritating to Japan

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — The Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard by NBC tonight, quoted the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi as saying of the transfer of the U. S. Fleet to the Hawaiian islands:

"No matter what measures the U.S.A. adopts in order to restrain Japan, they will prove ineffective in view of the present international situation. We intend to calmly observe the steps taken by the Americans."

The Moscow broadcast, in English, added that the Tokyo newspapers said:

"The Japanese fleet is ready for decisive action should friction arise between Japan and the U.S.A. and Great Britain on the question of establishing a new order in eastern Asiaa.

"The Japanese fleet expressed profound indignation in connection with the circulation of false rumors to the effect that it is allegedly trying to avoid friction with the United States and Britain.

The concentration of the U. S. fleet in the Pacific and particularly at the Hawiian islands greatly annoys and irritates Japanese naval circles who are of the opinion that this creates an obstacle to the realization of Japan's plans for a new order in eastern Asia and penetration to the south."

Continuing of Battle of Words May Lead to War

Hungary Appears Determined To Regain Lost Transylvania

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, July 2—Hungarian and Rumanian officials exchanged bitter words over Transylvania tonight, and Hungary gave every sign of determination to regain that old Magyar province in one way or another.

Mobilization went full ahead, notwithstanding Germany's increasingly urgent efforts to keep peace in the Balkans lest her own economic interests be smashed in war.

Responsible persons denied reports that a demilitarized zone had been set up on the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier.

To avoid a conflict, it was believed here, Germany might go so far as to make a definite military and political alliance with Rumania. German activity was described authoritatively as involving "the strongest pressure."

If this were achieved, and the Hungarian army were permitted to advance deep into Rumania through regaining all or part of Transylvania, Germany's position in southeast Europe would again be a solid one.

Seeks Peaceful Settlement

What Hitler's government is keenly striving for, it appeared here, was a peaceful settlement of Hungarian-Rumanian difficulties which would provide better protection for the Rumanian oil fields on which he so depends—fields now under the shadow of Soviet guns.

In Parliament, Hungarian deputy Kozi-Horvath dramatically declared that "military requisitioning in Transylvania by the Rumanian government is taking on the character of free looting of Hungarian property."

He asserted, too, that the Rumanians were taking hostages from among the Hungarian minorities in Transylvania, adding:

"The Rumanian government has distributed arms to the Rumanian peasants in Transylvania with instructions to massacre the Hungarian minority the moment the latter stirs."

Very similar accusations, pointed at Hungary, were made by official quarters in Bucharest. There is was alleged that to find a reason for sending its armies into Transylvania the Hungarian government was fomenting revolution amongst the Magyars. It was asserted, too, that Rumania was smuggling arms into Transylvania.

Asks King To Abdicate

In another illustration of the vast unrest in the Balkans, Belgrade reported the receipt of diplomatic advices from Bucharest which stated that some extremist members of the pro-Fascist Rumanian Iron Guard were fostering a movement aimed at compelling King Carol to abdicate for having ceded Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Soviet Russia.

Tonight, anti-aircraft guns bristled on bridges of the Danube river in Hungary and on high buildings here. Railway trains and buses were packed with military reservists. Civilian industrial preparedness was under way. Cars, trucks and horses were requisitioned.

The belief that under both military and diplomatic pressure Rumania might be willing now to discuss settlement of the Transylvania issue was heightened by the return to Budapest of the Hungarian minister to Bucharest, Laszlo Bardossy. He was believed to have brought an oral report of the extent to which Rumania might be willing to meet Hungary's claims.

King Carol's government—with much of its army equipment already lost in the Soviet occupation of Bessarabia and facing the threat of attack from Russia, from Hungary and from Bulgaria—is in a poor position either to bargain or fight it out.

Scharnhorst was heavily bombed, the ministry said.

Four direct hits on the vessel and on the floating dock in which it rested were claimed for one plane. Another dropped three bombs which exploded in a row across the battleship and started a fire.

The Scharnhorst, which the British had claimed to have damaged on two other occasions, was reported laid up for repairs.

The British raiders, the air ministry said, struck home through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire; one plane was repeatedly hit.

Fires on the naval base and ship were still visible to the crew of this crippled craft; it was added, when they were eighty-five miles away on their homeward journey."

The battleship and the dockyard were continuously attacked for nearly an hour.

A series of explosions, the ministry said, was followed by half a dozen fires through the dockyards which, from aloft, appeared to be "a solid mass of flame covering as much space as a big airdrome."

Appeals to U. S.

In his speech in Commons, Major Braithwaite declared that "with our Island in the front line trench, the U.S.A. has a responsibility in this matter.

"If they are our friends and I believe they are—they must immediately come to our rescue by sending their fleet and their boats to this country to take our women and children away."

In the same general discussion—a debate on plans for moving thousands of children to Canada and the United States — Labor Leader Josiah Wedgwood asserted that American generosity in offering sanctuary to these children had been "cold shouldered."

The transfer should be made through the foreign office rather than the dominions office, he said, because "the United States will not play second fiddle to the dominions."

Recalling that Britain had offered to France, just before her surrender, a close political union, he went on:

"The time may come when America may make a like offer to us or we to them. That day, when it comes, will mean both the winning of this war and the salvation of the race."

Clement Attlee, prime minister Churchill's deputy, told the House that Britain needed "not merely ships to carry the children, but also ships to protect them."

New labor outcries were heard against the presence in the government of men who have helped appease Adolf Hitler in the past.

Demands Removal

The powerful national union of railway men demanded by resolution the immediate removal of all officials "associated with the previous government's policy of appeasement."

The resolution was sponsored by labor leader A. H. Patton, who told a conference of the union at Morecambe:

"Our fifth column men who still are in positions of power ought to have been removed when the government was reconstituted."

He asserted that he feared these officials—whom he did not name—more than German planes or mechanized troops, saying:

"I want to see them put in a position where they cannot possibly betray this country in the way Marshal Petain (head of the surrender government) betrayed France."

During the day heavy explosions heard on the French side of the English channel signaled the probability of a new British bombing raid on the German-held French coast.

More German U-Boats

The admiralty acknowledged that German U-boats raiding British commerce had been operating in increased numbers, augmented by the work of Italian submarines in the Mediterranean and also possibly in the Atlantic.

It was disclosed that in the week ended June 23, 88,259 tons of shipping had been destroyed.

While these losses were officially described as "admittedly heavy," it was added that in actual tonnage started on May 10; 111,034 were wounded and 18,384 missing.

Private estimates put the French dead, wounded and missing at 1,500,000 in the last month of the war.

Stimson Approved

In the United States, the Senate Military Affairs Committee at Washington approved the nomination of Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war after hearing him assert that "the time the United States has for rearmament is very largely dependent upon the continuance of Great Britain's control over the north Atlantic."

At the same time, Col. Frank Knox, nominated to be secretary of the navy, told the Senate Naval Affairs Committee that he refused to believe "we will actively participate" in the European war to the extent of sending an army overseas.

Words of import for the United States came from the British House of Commons, where Maj. Albert Newby Braithwaite, conservative, declared it was the duty of the United States to "send their fleet and their boats to take out women and children across to their country; with our island in front line trench, the U. S. A. has a responsibility in this matter."

While Britain pushed preparations to resist invasion by the Nazis, new outcries were heard there against the presence in the government of men who once pursued the policy of appeasement toward Adolf Hitler.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Germany's efforts to avert a war in her Balkan storehouse share attention with a significant acceleration of the Nazi air and submarine attack in the battle of Britain.

More significant than German occupation of evacuated British channel islands off the French coast, are the daylight bombings of widely scattered targets in England and rising British shipping losses. While Berlin can claim actually to have achieved an "invasion" of British soil in setting foot unopposed on the islands of Jersey and Guernsey, that achievement has more propaganda value than military usefulness.

The islands were concededly indefensible for the British. They are almost indefensible in German hands unless British air and sea power can be overcome.

The esential fact is that the British withdrew the islands' populations, garrisons, and the valuable dairy herds for which they are famed, without interruption by an enemy well established on the nearby French coast. The "surprise" occupation occurred only after the British had officially announced the evacuation.

Nazi Press Boasts

It might have been designed by Nazi propaganda tacticians rather than military strategists. It permitted the Nazi press to chortle over Britain's "weakness" and inability, despite her boasted sea power, to protect her own sea outposts from invasion. Berlin spokesmen concede that the islands are virtually without military value as bases or stepping-stones across the channel.

It sems probable that the British air force will do little more than keep an eye on Nazi doings there, avoiding the bombing of British property. Military leaders are far more concerned with German preparations for attacking England from the French side of the narrow straits of Dover, and from bases in Holland, Denmark or Brittany.

The first German daylight air raids follow incessant night raiding of England. They may spell the opening phase of the widely heralded German offensive against England. Whatever the nature of that attack, intensive air bombing would seem the essential preliminary. Destruction of Britain's still powerful if outnumbered air force, now concentrated for home defense, must be the first German objective.

Situation in Balkans

As for the Balkans, it is plain that Russia, by establishing herself in Bessarabia and along the lower Danube, has put herself into a position to tighten an economic thumb-screw on the axis Allies. Actually or potentially she controls food and oil resources, the lack of which could destroy axis victory hopes in the fight with Britain. Moscow can have no serious doubts that Germany and Italy, if victorious in that battle, will turn to the Balkans to wrest that leverage from Russian hands.

If that is a true picture of the situation, and it is reflected in every dispatch from the Balkan theater, it follows that Moscow does not want to see such an axis victory. Yet the most opportune moment to avert it might be wait until Germany is fully extended in the battle of Britain, then renew the Red thrust on a scale that would mean a Balkan war and immediate choking off of all Balkan and Russian supply routes for the axis mates.

tion of contracts for Diesel engines for twenty-two submarines, totalling $17,634,521.

President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the commissioner of patents to keep secret all patents related to national defense.

The army announced that temporary housing units would be constructed to shelter the thousands of additional troops to be recruited.

It was learned that sixteen labor leaders, representing the AF of L, the CIO, and the Railway Brotherhoods had been called in to act as an advisory committee on labor policy under the national defense program.

The Naval committee, making rapid progress, had expected to reach a vote on the Knox nomination today. But late in the day, Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) brought up a newspaper column by Helen Essary, which on June 22 quoted Knox as having said: "We should go into Europe at once, not only with cash and credit and supplies, but with men."

Knox denied having made such a statement but Holt insisted that Miss Essary be called, and the committee recessed until tomorrow planning to hear her then.

At another point, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) asked Knox if he had ever publicly or privately "urged giving military support to the Allies."

"Never," was the crisp reply.

Agrees With Roosevelt

Knox attributed his appointment to the fact that he and President Roosevelt held similar views on American policy with regard to the situation abroad. The Allies, he insisted, should be given "every aid short of war." Explaining, he said this meant giving England all the supplies she is able to buy except "our organized army and navy."

"I think it is likely that if England is defeated," he said, "we will be far more gravely menaced in the Atlantic than we have ever been before. We may be forced to choose between the threat in the Atlantic and the threat in the Pacific and it probably would be unwise to precipitate both at the same time."

For that reason, he said, he had been forced to revise his previous views urging a "strong policy" toward Japan.

Stimson told the Military committee this nation would not be safe from invasion "if we sit down and wait for the enemy to come to our shores." Urging compulsory military training as one means of preparedness, he said that in his opinon "the time which we have for our rearmament is very largely dependent upon the continuance of Great Britain's control of the North Atlantic."

He added:

"Under these conditions, and assistance which we can safely give towards the continuance of that sea power in the North Atlantic is a step most important to our own interest in preparation."

Senator Minton (D-Ind) asked whether Stimson thought the defense of the country required intervention in the war abroad.

"I don't think so today," Stimson replied, and in answer to further questions said he thought it would be impossible to land American troops in Europe under present conditions, anyway.

Former Cumberland Pastor To Retire October 1 To Write Theology Book

The Rev. Dr. J. William McCauley, who served the pastorate of St. Paul's Lutheran church here, from 1902 to 1910, has resigned as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Howard Park, Baltimore, and will retire temporarily to his home at Salem, Va., October 1 to complete a theological textbook upon which he has been working for several years.

Dr. McCauley is a frequent contributor to church papers and magazines, and is the author of the brochure, "Why Go to Church."

At first the Baltimore congregation refused to accept Dr. McCauley's resignation but reconsidered upon the insistance of the pastor, and then unanimously voted appreciation of the fine work done by the minister since he organized the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer thirteen years ago.

A graduate of Roanoke college and Gettysburg Theological Seminary, Dr. McCauley pursued postgraduate studies at Johns Hopkins university. He served as pastor in Cumberland and the Church of the Incarnation, Baltimore.

Later he was named missionary superintendent of the Southwest Virginia Synod, during which period he was instrumental in the organization of Virginia Heights Lutheran church, Roanoke. He also was connected with Elizabeth college, Virginia, and during his Baltimore pastorates has taught at the Lutheran Deaconess Motherhouse.

B&O Freight Traffic Up Over Last Year

Carloadings on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad maintained their upward trend last week, with an impressive increase over the corresponding period of last year and a slight jump over the preceding week.

Last week's freight traffic totaled 51,941 cars, comprising 33,034 cars loaded on the line and 18,907 received from connections. This figure was an increase of 7,888 loads over the corresponding week of last year, when the total was 44,053, of which 28,200 cars were loaded on the line and 15,853 received from connections.

An increase of 121 loads was shown over the previous week of this year, when the total was 51,820, consisting of 33,000 loaded on the line and 18,820 received from connections.

Allen for Willkie If Roosevelt Runs

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Rep. Allen (D-Pa) said today he would support Wendell Willkie if President Roosevelt ran for a third term.

He told a reporter he saw no major difference between the Roosevelt and Willkie foreign policies.

Treasury Makes New Peace Time Spending Record

Expenditures for Last Year Reach Total of $9,666,085,539

WASHINGTON, July 2, (AP) — The treasury hung up a new peace time spending record of $9,666,085,539 in the fiscal year which ended Sunday and moved into a new year of defense costs expected to raise the budget to more than $11,000,000,000.

Final figures on the last fiscal year, made public today, showed that revenues totaled $5,924,836,402, leaving a deficit of $3,741,249,136.

The deficit, the tenth in a row, has been exceeded only twice in peace-time—1935 and 1936.

For the ten fiscal years these deficites were: 1931, $901,959,000; 1932, $2,942,051,000; 1933, $2,245,453,000; 1934, 03,255,393,000; 1935, $3,782,966,000; 1936, $4,952,929,000 (swollen by soldiers' bonus payment); 1937, $3,252,540,000; 1838, $1,449,626,000; and 1939, $3,600,514,000.

Expenditures for the last fiscal year were about $100,000,000 less, and revenues $221,000,000 more than predicted in President Roosevelt's budget.

Treasury officials attributed the revenue increase to the business upturn which followed the outbreak of the European war last fall.

Last year, expenditures of the war department totaled $667,138,363 and those of the navy $891,624,558. Next year, estimated cash expenditures for these two agencies, not counting many millions of contract authorizations, are estimtaed at more than $3,600,000,000, and there is talk of perhaps $5,000,000,000 additional.

British Princesses To Stay in London

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth have firmly rejected suggestions from influential quarters that Princess Elizabeth, 14, heiress presumptive to the throne, and her sister, Princess Margaret Rose be sent out of the country to one of the dominions because of the danger of a German invasion, the Daily Mail said tonight.

Repeated efforts to persuade the royal pair to send the two princesses to a safer land have received this answer in effect:

"We all face a common peril. Thousands of parents in this country are compelled to keep their children at home. We would prefer to share whatever family perils there may be with parents of this country."

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Job seekers flocking to Washington to get work under the defense program, are wasting their time, Byron Mitchell, director of the employment service of the Social Security Board, said today.

There are "no national facilities" in Washington for placing or training workers in defense jobs, Mitchell said, adding "applicants should apply to their local employment offices or make inquiries there."

Willkie Serves Notice He Will Accept No Large Contributions

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Wendell Willkie today summoned twelve party leaders from every section of the country—including workers for two of his leading opponents for the nomination—to guide his drive toward the White House.

The candidate then served notice upon corporations that he wanted no "corporate contributions in any guise, whether they be advertising in campaign books, programs or anything else."

"Honorable contributions" would be accepted, he said, but those exceeding $5,000 from any one source would be rejected.

"In my judgment, this is the people's movement and I want to keep it as such," he said.

Willkie put Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, key-noter of the Philadelphia convention and floor leader of the Willkie forces, at the head of his campaign advisory committee.

He also invited as members Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, co-manager of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's campaign for the nomination, and David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, Ohio, attorney who managed Senator Robert A. Taft's bid.

This move was interpreted as Willkie's personal invitation to the party's rank and leadership to unite in an harmonious campaign.

Willkie said his twelve-manager board would function in an advisory capacity throughout the campaign regardless of the personnel and strategy determined Friday when he meets with a sub-committe of the Republican National Committee to discuss campaign procedure.

The candidate said he hoped Congress would enact the Hatch bill, often referred to as the 'clean political bill," which limits to $5,000 a contribution from any one source.

His preference for many small contributions, he said, was accompanied by a desire to report fully and completely all campaign contributions. Therefore, he continued, he hoped all contributions above $10 be not made in cash but rather by check, draft or money order so that records more accurately could be maintained.

Say Hungary Plots Revolution

Rumanian government sources charged tonight that Hungary is trying to foment a revolution among the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania to facilitate the eventual entry of the Hungarian army into the big, rich province.

Rumanian police and gendarmes are understood to have begun widespread raids on Hungarian homes and business houses in Transylvania in a search for arms.

Sources close to palace and cabinet here charged that the Hungarian government is smuggling rifles, hand grenades and machineguns into the territory.

They expressed fear lest this influx of weapons put the Magyar minority in a position to massacre Rumanian officials and hamper defense by the Rumanian army when, and if, the Hungarian troops cross the frontier.

Pin Hopes on Germany

As a whole, however, government quarters pinned their hopes for peaceful settlement of Rumania's territorial disputes with Hungary and Bulgaria on the diplomatic pressure of Germany.

They expressed the belief that Adolf Hitler now may be ready to offer military and political protection to this country in return for complete control of Rumania's economic life—in order to safeguard the Reich's interest in Rumania.

Russia, clipping off Bessarabia and North Bucovia from Rumania by the ultimatum-march method, now is on the Danube. Hungary wants Transylvania back and Bulgaria wants southern Dobruja returned.

But Germany wishes to keep Rumania for the present more or less intact and peacefully at work feeding German mouths and fueling German engines.

May Hold Conference

Some reports were that Rumania has suggested to Germany a conference of all southeastern European states at Rome, in the near future, to settle all the region's problems without recourse to war.

The axis powers' reaction to this suggestion isn't known.

Aftermath of the loss of Bessarabia, and north Bucovina found indications that the Rumanian public, seeking a scapegoat for sudden detachment of the provinces, might turn against the Jews, who formed a sizeable proportion of the population there.

Anti-Semitic articles increased in the inspired press and troops, gathering before King Carol's palace, sang songs deriding the Jews.

Read Your Newspaper And Avoid Boredom

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 2 (AP)—If you want to chase boredom from your hospital room, take a tip from Mrs. C. Perry Lamar of Tampa, Fla., who advises "reading your daily newspaper" will do the trick.

Doctors, patients and nurses at the Atlantic coast line hospital have been passing around a "sick-a-bed sketch" written by Mrs. Lamar, convalescing here.

In the sketch she wrote: "The high spot of my day now comes when the colored boy in the white coat comes into my room each morning bringing the great 'monotony-killing' daily newspaper."

Democrats Attack Willkie

The Democrats started their assault on Willkie without waiting for their Chicago convention July 15. Wheeler declared Willkie was nominated "by stockbrokers, power interests and the Morgan crowd" in a "blitzkrieg," and Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) recalled in the House his statement of a year ago that if Willkie were elected the country would have a president "who can teach the farmer how to water the stock and shear the sheep."

Rankin called upon Republicans "to demand an investigation of the saturnalia in Philadelphia," where he said delegates originally booed Willkie.

Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill) replied that to investigate the convention of a minority political party would be "Fascism." Rep. :Bender (R-Ohio) said the Republican convention was free and uncontrolled and that any assertions to the contrary were "hokum and bunk."

Willkie named Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota to head his Campaign Advisory Committee and named these other members: Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House minority leader; Gov. Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut; David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, campaign manager for Senator Robert A. Taft; Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), who nominated Willkie at the convention; Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado; Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, co-manager of Thomas E. Dewey's campaign; Paul John Kruesi of Tennessee; Oren Root, Jr., New York attorney; Mrs. Ruth De Young Koehler of Wisconsin; Senator Townsend (R-Del) chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Rep. Ditter (R-Pa), chairman of the House Campaign Committee.

Barkley Sure Party Wants Roosevelt

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky told the Democratic state convention today that "if the Democrats of the United States have their way," President Roosevelt will be nominated by the party's national convention at Chicago.

Senator Barkley declared:

"President Roosevelt would not violate a great tradition (third term) unless he felt it was necessary to do so under great stress. x x x I am not in a position to know whether he would accept the nomination but I do know who will be the candidate nominated at Chicago if the Democrats of the United States have their way—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Anti-Jewish Feeling Spreads in Balkans

BUDAPEST, July 2, (AP) — Increasingly violent anti-Jewish feeling was manifest in Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania today.

Street demonstrations and anti-Semitic press attacks were numerous. Reports from Rumania told of killings, beatings and persecutions.

Anti-Semitism is old in the Danubian countries, but in these latest outbursts was seen the influence of axis victories and policies.

The small countries which for a while after the World War tried to imitate England and France now are orienting their life and governments toward Berlin and Rome.

Jews are reported blamed in Bucharest for the loss of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina. Refugees arriving in Bucharest from the provinces alleged Jews were shot on trains as they traveled through towns.

Reports from Botosani, in Rumania, said forty Jews were dragged from a train there and shot. The beating and robbing of Jewish refugees was said to be prevalent. The inspired Rumanian press meanwhile published many articles against the Jews.

Munster, Germany Bombed by British

By PRESTON GROVER

MUNSTER, Germany, July 3 — (Wednesday) (AP)—Residents of historic Munster fled to their cellars and were kept there three hours as British bombers harassed the city for the third successive night in a continuation of air raids that extended throughout most of the industrial Rhur valley.

Anti-aircraft guns roared periodically during the raid which started a few minutes after midnight last night.

Fire engines screamed through the darkened streets. Incendiary bombs apparently were dropped, although few explosions were heard.

Amount of damage could not be determined immediately.

From the vicinity of my hotel I was able to see an uncanny show of night air attack.

The roar of planes overhead was heard plainly.

Residents, who had been forced to the air raid cellars before, told me it had become customary for the raiders to bomb Munster, then sweep on to other cities of the Ruhr either to attack industrial plants, airdromes, or to set on edge the nerves of the civil populace.

$5 Fines Imposed On Two Motorists

Two motorists paid fines of $5 each yesterday in local courts for traffic law violations.

Robert Shoemaker, 1025 Shade's Lane, who was arrested Monday night on a charge of careless driving on North Mechanic street, paid a fine of $5 in Police court. The charge was preferred by Officers J. C. Stouffer and J. E. Sherry.

Arrested Sunday on the National highway, charged with passing another car on a curve, Richard E. Runion, 114 Mullen street, was found guilty in Trial Magistrate's court and fined $5 and costs. State Police Corporal H. F. Schultheis made the arrest.

Continuing of Battle of Words May Lead to War

Hungary Appears Determined To Regain Lost Transylvania

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, July 2—Hungarian and Rumanian officials exchanged bitter words over Transylvania tonight, and Hungary gave every sign of determination to regain that old Magyar province in one way or another.

Mobilization went full ahead, notwithstanding Germany's increasingly urgent efforts to keep peace in the Balkans lest her own economic interests be smashed in war.

Responsible persons denied reports that a demilitarized zone had been set up on the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier.

To avoid a conflict, it was believed here, Germany might go so far as to make a definite military and political alliance with Rumania. German activity was described authoritatively as involving "the strongest pressure."

If this were achieved, and the Hungarian army were permitted to advance deep into Rumania through regaining all or part of Transylvania, Germany's position in southeast Europe would again be a solid one.

Seeks Peaceful Settlement

What Hitler's government is keenly striving for, it appeared here, was a peaceful settlement of Hungarian-Rumanian difficulties which would provide better protection for the Rumanian oil fields on which he so depends—fields now under the shadow of Soviet guns.

In Parliament, Hungarian deputy Kozi-Horvath dramatically declared that "military requisitioning in Transylvania by the Rumanian government is taking on the character of free looting of Hungarian property."

He asserted, too, that the Rumanians were taking hostages from among the Hungarian minorities in Transylvania, adding:

"The Rumanian government has distributed arms to the Rumanian peasants in Transylvania with instructions to massacre the Hungarian minority the moment the latter stirs."

Very similar accusations, pointed at Hungary, were made by official quarters in Bucharest. There is was alleged that to find a reason for sending its armies into Transylvania the Hungarian government was fomenting revolution amongst the Magyars. It was asserted, too, that Rumania was smuggling arms into Transylvania.

Asks King To Abdicate

In another illustration of the vast unrest in the Balkans, Belgrade reported the receipt of diplomatic advices from Bucharest which stated that some extremist members of the pro-Fascist Rumanian Iron Guard were fostering a movement aimed at compelling King Carol to abdicate for having ceded Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Soviet Russia.

Tonight, anti-aircraft guns bristled on bridges of the Danube river in Hungary and on high buildings here. Railway trains and buses were packed with military reservists. Civilian industrial preparedness was under way. Cars, trucks and horses were requisitioned.

The belief that under both military and diplomatic pressure Rumania might be willing now to discuss settlement of the Transylvania issue was heightened by the return to Budapest of the Hungarian minister to Bucharest, Laszio Bardossy. He was believed to have brought an oral report of the extent to which Rumania might be willing to meet Hungary's claims.

King Carol's government—with much of its army equipment already lost in the Soviet occupation of Bessarabia and facing the threat of attack from Russia, from Hungary and from Bulgaria—is in a poor position either to bargain or fight it out.

Scharnhorst was heavily bombed, the ministry said.

Four direct hits on the vessel and on the floating dock in which it rested were claimed for one plane. Another dropped three bombs which exploded in a row across the battleship and started a fire.

The Scharnhorst, which the British had claimed to have damaged on two other occasions, was reported laid up for repairs.

The British raiders, the air ministry said, struck home through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire; one plane was repeatedly hit.

Fires on the naval base and ship were still visible to the crew of this crippled craft; it was added, when they were eighty-five miles away on their homeward journey."

The battleship and the dockyard were continuously attacked for nearly an hour.

A series of explosions, the ministry said, was followed by half a dozen fires through the dockyards which, from aloft, appeared to be "a solid mass of flame covering as much space as a big airdrome."

Appeals to U. S.

In his speech in Commons, Major Braithwaite declared that "with our island in the front line trench, the U.S.A. has a responsibility in this matter.

"If they are our friends—and I believe they are—they must immediately come to our rescue by sending their fleet and their boats to this country to take our women and children away."

In the same general discussion—a debate on plans for moving thousands of children to Canada and the United States — Labor Leader Josiah Wedgwood asserted that American generosity in offering sanctuary to these children had been "cold shouldered."

The transfer should be made through the foreign office rather than the dominions office, he said, because "the United States will not play second fiddle to the dominions."

Recalling that Britain had offered to France, just before her surrender, a close political union, he went on:

"The time may come when America may make a like offer to us or we to them. That day, when it comes, will mean both the winning of this war and the salvation of the race."

Clement Attlee, prime minister Churchill's deputy, told the House that Britain needed "not merely ships to carry the children, but also ships to protect them."

New labor outcries were heard against the presence in the government of men who have helped appease Adolf Hitler in the past.

Demands Removal

The powerful national union of railway men demanded by resolution the immediate removal of all officials "associated with the previous government's policy of appeasement."

The resolution was sponsored by labor leader A. H. Patton, who told a conference of the union at Morecambe:

". . . Our fifth column men who still are in positions of power ought to have been removed when the government was reconstituted."

He asserted that he feared these officials—whom he did not name—more than German planes or mechanized troops, saying:

"I want to see them put in a position where they cannot possibly betray this country in the way Marshal Petain (head of the surrender government) betrayed France."

During the day heavy explosions heard on the French side of the English channel signaled the probability of a new British bombing raid on the German-held French coast.

Naval matters figured largely in the day's developments.

More German U-Boats

The admiralty acknowledged that German U-boats raiding British commerce had been operating in increased numbers, augmented by the work of Italian submarines in the Mediterranean and also possibly in the Atlantic.

It was disclosed that in the week ended June 23, 88,259 tons of shipping had been destroyed.

While these losses were officially described as "admittedly heavy," it was added that in actual tonnage Britain nevertheless was better off than ten months ago, because of new construction, captures and transfers.

At the same time General Charles de Gaulle, leader among the French who want to fight on at Britain's side, declared that "already several ships and air groups" had joined "free French naval forces" which will stand with the British.

Italians on Defensive

New successes against the Italians were announced in a naval communique which told of the sinking by British air craft of four Italian submarines and a destroyer.

The extension of the blockade to French ports, to keep goods out of German hands, was disclosed. Whether it also will be applied to the French colonies will not be decided until their status has clarified.

During the day, Ivan Maisky, the Soviet ambassador, called at the foreign office. His purpose was not made known.

De Gaulle appealed to Frenchmen in America to help carry on against Germany.

The government introduced legislation to impose the first sales tax ever levied in Britain, leaving it up to Commons to decide the rate and date of imposition.

Private estimates put the French dead, wounded and missing at 1,500,000 in the last month of the war.

Stimson Approved

In the United States, the Senate Military Affairs Committee at Washington approved the nomination of Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war after hearing him assert that "the time the United States has for rearmament is very largely dependent upon the continuance of Great Britain's control over the north Atlantic."

At the same time, Col. Frank Knox, nominated to be secretary of the navy, told the Senate Naval Affairs Committee that he refused to believe "we will actively participate" in the European war to the extent of sending an army overseas.

Words of import for the United States came from the British House of Commons, where Maj. Albert Newby Braithwaite, conservative, declared it was the duty of the United States to "send their fleet and their boats to take out women and children across to their country; with our island in front line trench, the U. S. A. has a responsibility in this matter."

While Britain pushed preparations to resist invasion by the Nazis, new outcries were heard there against the presence in the government of men who once pursued the policy of appeasement toward Adolf Hitler.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Germany's efforts to avert a war in her Balkan storehouse share attention with a significant acceleration of the Nazi air and submarine attack in the battle of Britain.

More significant than German occupation of evacuated British channel islands off the French coast, are the daylight bombings of widely scattered targets in England and rising British shipping losses. While Berlin can claim actually to have achieved an "invasion" of British soil in setting foot unopposed on the islands of Jersey and Guernsey, that achievement has more propaganda value than military usefulness.

The islands were concededly indefensible for the British. They are almost indefensible in German hands unless British air and sea power can be overcome.

The esential fact is that the British withdrew the islands' populations, garrisons, and the valuable dairy herds for which they are famed, without interruption by an enemy well established on the nearby French coast. The "surprise" occupation occurred only after the British had officially announced the evacuation.

Nazi Press Boasts

It might have been designed by Nazi propaganda tacticians rather than military strategists. It permitted the Nazi press to chortle over Britain's "weakness" and inability, despite her boasted sea power, to protect her own sea outposts from invasion. Berlin spokesmen concede that the islands are virtually without military value as bases or steppingstones across the channel.

It sems probable that the British air force will do little more than keep an eye on Nazi doings there, avoiding the bombing of British property. Military leaders are far more concerned with German preparations for attacking England from the French side of the narrow straits of Dover, and from bases in Holland, Denmark or Brittany.

The first German daylight air raids follow incessant night raiding of England. They may spell the opening phase of the widely heralded German offensive against England. Whatever the nature of that attack, intensive air bombing would seem the essential preliminary. Destruction of Britain's still powerful if outnumbered air force, now concentrated for home defense, must be the first German objective.

Situation in Balkans

As for the Balkans, it is plain that Russia, by establishing herself in Bessarabia and along the lower Danube, has put herself into a position to tighten an economic thumb-screw on the axis Allies. Actually or potentially she controls food and oil resources, the lack of which could destroy axis victory hopes in the fight with Britain. Moscow can have no serious doubts that Germany and Italy, if victorious in that battle, will turn to the Balkans to wrest that leverage from Russian hands.

If that is a true picture of the situation, and it is reflected in every dispatch from the Balkan theater, it follows that Moscow does not want to see such an axis victory. Yet the most opportune moment to avert it might be wait until Germany is fully extended in the battle of Britain, then renew the Red thrust on a scale that would mean a Balkan war and immediate choking off of all Balkan and Russian supply routes for the axis mates.

tion of contracts for Diesel engines for twenty-two submarines, totalling $17,634,521.

President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the commissioner of patents to keep secret all patents related to national defense.

The army announced that temporary housing units would be constructed to shelter the thousands of additional troops to be recruited.

It was learned that sixteen labor leaders, representing the AF of L, the CIO, and the Railway Brotherhoods had been called in to act as an advisory committee on labor policy under the national defense program.

The Naval committee, making rapid progress, had expected to reach a vote on the Knox nomination today. But late in the day, Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) brought up a newspaper column by Helen Essary, which on June 22 quoted Knox as having said: "We should go into Europe at once, not only with cash and credit and supplies, but with men."

Knox denied having made such a statement but Holt insisted that Miss Essary be called, and the committee recessed until tomorrow, planning to hear her then.

At another point, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) asked Knox if he had ever publicly or privately "urged giving military support to the Allies."

"Never," was the crisp reply.

Agrees With Roosevelt

Knox attributed his appointment to the fact that he and President Roosevelt held similar views on American policy with regard to the situation abroad. The Allies, he insisted, should be given "every aid short of war." Explaining, he said this meant giving England all the supplies she is able to buy except "our organized army and navy."

"I think it is likely that if England is defeated," he said, "we will be far more gravely menaced in the Atlantic than we have ever been before. We may be forced to choose between the threat in the Atlantic and the threat in the Pacific and it probably would be unwise to precipitate both at the same time."

For that reason, he said, he had been forced to revise his previous views urging a "strong policy" toward Japan.

Stimson told the Military committee this nation would not be safe from invasion "if we sit down and wait for the enemy to come to our shores." Urging compulsory military training as one means of preparedness, he said that in his opinon "the time which we have for our rearmament is very largely dependent upon the continuance of Great Britain's control of the North Atlantic."

He added:

"Under these conditions, anl assistance which we can safely give towards the continuance of that sea power in the North Atlantic is a step most important to our own interest in preparation."

Senator Minton (D-Ind) asked whether Stimson thought the defense of the country required intervention in the war abroad.

"I don't think so today," Stimson replied, and in answer to further questions said he thought it would be impossible to land American troops in Europe under present conditions, anyway.

One of the most important items on the control list was machine tools which are essential in the manufacture of armaments. A large purchaser of machine tools is Soviet Russia whose ambassador, Constantine Omansky, recently protested to the state department against alleged detention of some tool cargoes under a so-called unofficial embar-

Former Cumberland Pastor To Retire October 1 To Write Theology Book

The Rev. Dr. J. William McCauley, who served the pastorate of St. Paul's Lutheran church here, from 1902 to 1910, has resigned as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Howard Park, Baltimore, and will retire temporarily to his home at Salem, Va., October 1 to complete a theological textbook upon which he has been working for several years.

Dr. McCauley is a frequent contributor to church papers and magazines, and is the author of the brochure, "Why Go to Church."

At first the Baltimore congregation refused to accept Dr. McCauley's resignation but reconsidered upon the insistance of the pastor, and then unanimously voted appreciation of the fine work done by the minister since he organized the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer thirteen years ago.

A graduate of Roanoke college and Gettysburg Theological Seminary, Dr. McCauley pursued postgraduate studies at Johns Hopkins university. He served as pastor in Cumberland and the Church of the Incarnation, Baltimore.

Later he was named missionary superintendent of the Southwest Virginia Synod, during which period he was instrumental in the organization of Virginia Heights Lutheran church, Roanoke. He also was connected with Elizabeth college, Virginia, and during his Baltimore pastorates has taught at the Lutheran Deaconess Motherhouse.

B&O Freight Traffic Up Over Last Year

Carloadings on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad maintained their upward trend last week, with an impressive increase over the corresponding period of last year and a slight jump over the preceding week.

Last week's freight traffic totaled 51,941 cars, comprising 33,034 cars loaded on the line and 18,907 received from connections. This figure was an increase of 7,888 loads over the corresponding week of last year, when the total was 44,053, of which 28,200 cars were loaded on the line and 15,853 received from connections.

An increase of 121 loads was shown over the previous week of this year, when the total was 51,820, consisting of 33,000 loaded on the line and 18,820 received from connections.

Allen for Willkie If Roosevelt Runs

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Rep. Allen (D-Pa) said today he would support Wendell Willkie if President Roosevelt ran for a third term.

He told a reporter he saw no major difference between the Roosevelt and Willkie foreign policies.

"I think President Roosevelt has exhausted his resourcefulness on domestic problems," he added. "He has only relief, WPA and deficit financing to offer."

Treasury Makes New Peace Time Spending Record

Expenditures for Last Year Reach Total of $9,666,085,539

WASHINGTON, July 2, (AP) — The treasury hung up a new peace time spending record of $9,666,085,539 in the fiscal year which ended Sunday and moved into a new year of defense costs expected to raise the budget to more than $11,000,000,000.

Final figures on the last fiscal year, made public today, showed that revenues totaled $5,924,836,402, leaving a deficit of $3,741,249,136.

The deficit, the tenth in a row, has been exceeded only twice in peace-time—1935 and 1936.

For the ten fiscal years these deficites were: 1931, $901,959,000; 1932, $2,942,051,000; 1933, $2,245,453,000; 1934, 03,255,393,000; 1935, $3,782,966,000; 1936, $4,952,929,000 (swollen by soldiers' bonus payment); 1937, $3,252,540,000; 1838, $1,449,626,000; and 1939, $3,600,514,000.

Expenditures for the last fiscal year were about $100,000,000 less, and revenues $221,000,000 more than predicted in President Roosevelt's budget.

Treasury officials attributed the revenue increase to the business upturn which followed the outbreak of the European war last fall.

Last year, expenditures of the war department totaled $667,138,363 and those of the navy $891,624,558. Next year, estimated cash expenditures for these two agencies, not counting many millions of contract authorizations, are estimtaed at more than $3,600,000,000, and there is talk of perhaps $5,000,000,000 additional.

British Princesses To Stay in London

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth have firmly rejected suggestions from influential quarters that Princess Elizabeth, 14, heiress presumptive to the throne, and her sister, Princess Margaret Rose be sent out of the country to one of the dominions because of the danger of a German invasion, the Daily Mail said tonight.

Repeated efforts to persuade the royal pair to send the two princesses to a safer land have received this answer in effect:

"We all face a common peril. Thousands of parents in this country are compelled to keep their children at home. We would prefer to share whatever family perils there may be with parents of this country."

No Defense Jobs Open in Washington

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Job seekers flocking to Washington to get work under the defense program, are wasting their time, Byron Mitchell, director of the employment service of the Social Security Board, said today.

There are "no national facilities" in Washington for placing or training workers in defense jobs, Mitchell said, adding "applicants should apply to their local employment offices or make inquiries there."

Willkie Serves Notice He Will Accept No Large Contributions

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Wendell Willkie today summoned twelve party leaders from every section of the country—including workers for two of his leading opponents for the nomination—to guide his drive toward the White House.

The candidate then served notice upon corporations that he wanted no "corporate contributions in any guise, whether they be advertising in campaign books, programs or anything else."

"Honorable contributions" would be accepted, he said, but those exceeding $5,000 from any one source would be rejected.

"In my judgment, this is the people's movement and I want to keep it as such," he said.

Willkie put Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, key-noter of the Philadelphia convention and floor leader of the Willkie forces, at the head of his campaign advisory committee.

He also invited as members Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, co-manager of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's campaign for the nomination, and David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, Ohio, attorney who managed Senator Robert A. Taft's bid.

This move was interpreted as Willkie's personal invitation to the party's rank and leadership to unite in an harmonious campaign.

Willkie said his twelve-manager board would function in an advisory capacity throughout the campaign regardless of the personnel and strategy determined Friday when he meets with a sub-committe of the Republican National Committee to discuss campaign procedure.

The candidate said he hoped Congress would enact the Hatch bill, often referred to as the 'clean political bill," which limits to $5,000 a contribution from any one source.

His preference for many small contributions, he said, was accompanied by a desire to report fully and completely all campaign contributions. Therefore, he continued, he hoped all contributions above $10 be not made in cash but rather by check, draft or money order so that records more accurately could be maintained.

responsible for the loss of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina.)

Appointment of the three Carol cabinet members by the Soviet occupational authorities was interpreted as a bid for support of Rumanians who became Russian subjects in the newly-acquired territory.

Rumania put into effect additional precautions, ordered a blackout for the first time, leaving only blue street lamps. Police carried carbines.

Say Hungary Plots Revolution

Rumanian government sources charged tonight that Hungary is trying to foment a revolution among the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania to facilitate the eventual entry of the Hungarian army into the big, rich province.

Rumanian police and gendarmes are understood to have begun widespread raids on Hungarian homes and business houses in Transylvania in a search for arms.

Sources close to palace and cabinet here charged that the Hungarian government is smuggling rifles, hand grenades and machine-guns into the territory.

They expressed fear lest this influx of weapons put the Magyar minority in a position to massacre Rumanian officials and hamper defense by the Rumanian army when, and if, the Hungarian troops cross the frontier.

Pin Hopes on Germany

As a whole, however, government quarters pinned their hopes for peaceful settlement of Rumania's territorial disputes with Hungary and Bulgaria on the diplomatic pressure of Germany.

They expressed the belief that Adolf Hitler now may be ready to offer military and political protection to this country in return for complete control of Rumania's economic life—in order to safeguard the Reich's interest in Rumania.

Russia, clipping off Bessarabia and North Bucovia from Rumania by the ultimatum-march method, now is on the Danube. Hungary wants Transylvania back and Bulgaria wants southern Dobruja returned.

But Germany wishes to keep Rumania for the present more or less intact and peacefully at work feeding German mouths and fueling German engines.

May Hold Conference

Some reports were that Rumania has suggested to Germany a conference of all southeastern European states at Rome, in the near future, to settle all the region's problems without recourse to war.

The axis powers' reaction to this suggestion isn't known.

Aftermath of the loss of Bessarabia, and north Bucovina found indications that the Rumanian public, seeking a scapegoat for sudden detachment of the provinces, might turn against the Jews, who formed a sizeable proportion of the population there.

Anti-Semitic articles increased in the inspired press and troops, gathering before King Carol's palace, sang songs deriding the Jews.

Read Your Newspaper And Avoid Boredom

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 2 (AP)—If you want to chase boredom from your hospital room, take a tip from Mrs. C. Perry Lamar of Tampa, Fla., who advises "reading your daily newspaper" will do the trick.

Doctors, patients and nurses at the Atlantic coast line hospital have been passing around a "sick-a-bed sketch" written by Mrs. Lamar, convalescing here.

In the sketch she wrote: "The high spot of my day now comes when the colored boy in the white coat comes into my room each morning bringing the great 'monotony-killing' daily newspaper."

secretary of war, and Frank Knox, nominated for secretary of the navy, told inquiring Senate committees that their appointments had no relation to politics and that the president had made no statements to them regarding a third term.

Democrats Attack Willkie

The Democrats started their assault on Willkie without waiting for their Chicago convention July 15. Wheeler declared Willkie was nominated "by stockbrokers, power interests and the Morgan crowd" in a "blitzkrieg," and Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) recalled in the House his statement of a year ago that if Willkie were elected the country would have a president "who can teach the farmer how to water the stock and shear the sheep."

Rankin called upon Republicans "to demand an investigation of the saturnalia in Philadelphia," where he said delegates originally booed Willkie.

Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill) replied that to investigate the convention of a minority political party would be "Fascism." Rep. :Bender (R-Ohio) said the Republican convention was free and uncontrolled and that any assertions to the contrary were "hokum and bunk."

Willkie named Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota to head his Campaign Advisory Committee and named these other members: Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House minority leader; Gov. Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut; David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, campaign manager for Senator Robert A. Taft; Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), who nominated Willkie at the convention; Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado; Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, co-manager of Thomas E. Dewey's campaign; Paul John Kruesi of Tennessee; Oren Root, Jr., New York attorney; Mrs. Ruth De Young Koehler of Wisconsin; Senator Townsend (R-Del) chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Rep. Ditter (R-Pa), chairman of the House Campaign Committee.

St. Louis Twirler Hangs Up Sixth Triumph by 4-0 Score

ST. LOUIS, July 2 (AP) — Bill McGee pitched and batted the Cardinals to a 4 to 0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds tonight. McGee, hanging up his sixth victory against five defeats, batted in two of the Cards' runs in an eighth inning uprising.

Barkley Sure Party Wants Roosevelt

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky told the Democratic state convention today that "if the Democrats of the United States have their way," President Roosevelt will be nominated by the party's national convention at Chicago.

Senator Barkley declared:

"President Roosevelt would not violate a great tradition (third term) unless he felt it was necessary to do so under great stress. x x x I am not in a position to know whether he would accept the nomination but I do know who will be the candidate nominated at Chicago if the Democrats of the United States have their way—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Anti-Jewish Feeling Spreads in Balkans

BUDAPEST, July 2, (AP) — Increasingly violent anti-Jewish feeling was manifest in Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania today.

Street demonstrations and anti-Semitic press attacks were numerous. Reports from Rumania told of killings, beatings and persecutions.

Anti-Semitism is old in the Danubian countries, but in these latest outbursts was seen the influence of axis victories and policies.

The small countries which for a while after the World War tried to imitate England and France now are orienting their life and governments toward Berlin and Rome.

Jews are reported blamed in Bucharest for the loss of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina. Refugees arriving in Bucharest from the provinces alleged Jews were shot on trains as they traveled through towns.

Reports from Botosani, in Rumania, said forty Jews were dragged from a train there and shot. The beating and robbing of Jewish refugees was said to be prevalent. The inspired Rumanian press meanwhile published many articles against the Jews.

Munster, Germany Bombed by British

By PRESTON GROVER

MUNSTER, Germany, July 3 — (Wednesday) (AP)—Residents of historic Munster fled to their cellars and were kept there three hours as British bombers harassed the city for the third successive night in a continuation of air raids that extended throughout most of the industrial Rhur valley.

Anti-aircraft guns roared periodically during the raid which started a few minutes after midnight last night.

Fire engines screamed through the darkened streets. Incendiary bombs apparently were dropped, although few explosions were heard.

Amount of damage could not be determined immediately.

From the vicinity of my hotel I was able to see an uncanny show of night air attack.

The roar of planes overhead was heard plainly.

Residents, who had been forced to the air raid cellars before, told me it had become customary for the raiders to bomb Munster, then sweep on to other cities of the Ruhr either to attack industrial plants, airdromes, or to set on edge the nerves of the civil populace.

$5 Fines Imposed On Two Motorists

Two motorists paid fines of $5 each yesterday in local courts for traffic law violations.

Robert Shoemaker, 1025 Shade's Lane, who was arrested Monday night on a charge of careless driving on North Mechanic street, paid a fine of $5 in Police court. The charge was preferred by Officers J. C. Stouffer and J. E. Sherry.

Arrested Sunday on the National highway, charged with passing another car on a curve, Richard E. Runion, 114 Mullen street, was found guilty in Trial Magistrates court and fined $5 and costs. State Police Corporal H. F. Schultheis made the arrest.

MILLIONAIRE

Somebody Pushes the Wrong Button Somewhere, and Rosebloom's Deputy Sheriff Is Famous Overnight

By FRANK BENNETT

I have, on account of I dislike to be kidded about my hobby of inventing things, gone and let myself in for a lot of trouble besides being made fun of by all the Rosebloomers. When they see me, they wink and say, "Here comes the millionaire," which, although it ain't the truth, embarrasses me considerable.

It happened like this:

The other day Dirge, who is sheriff of Bass County and fatter than two men ought to be, opened one eye and says, "Hod," says he, "what invention are you working on at present?"

"Why," says I, "at present I am not inventing anything."

"What?" says he, opening both eyes, "Don't tell me you have give it up? Why, Hod, I had great hopes for you. A feller who's had ideas for a automatic boot putter-on, a mechanical back scratcher, and a dog flea trap should never quit inventing. Why don't you invent a machine that can argue with your wife? Think of the trouble it would save you."

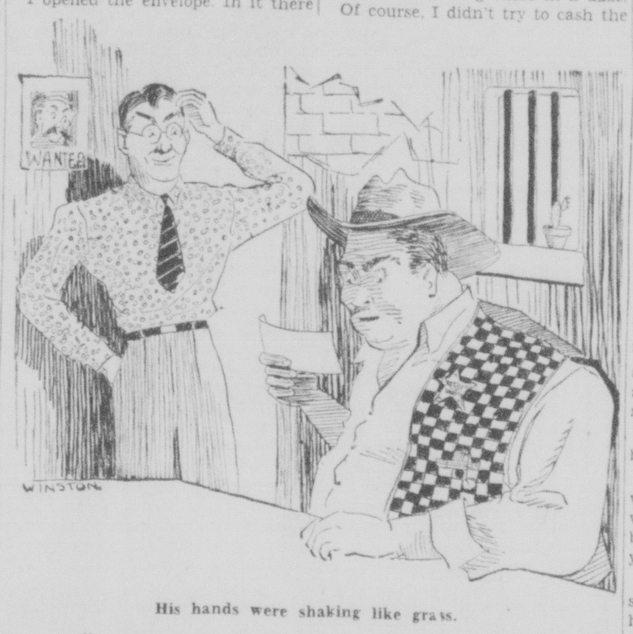

"That is a good idea," I says, grinning politely.

"Sure, Hod, I am full of good ideas. Why, only the other day—listen, Hod, there comes the mailman. Go see waht he has brung us."

I went to the mail box, and there was a letter for me from the Skinner Fur Company, on account of I had sent them some skunk furs.

"Umm," thinks I, "I should have a check in this."

I opened the envelope. In it there was a yellow slip of paper which says, "Enclosed you will find $15 for furs," and also a pretty pink check.

I looked at the check and almost fainted. It was made out for $5,000,015! After I got my breath, I realized that someone had pushed the wrong button on the check writing machine. And then a idea came to me. I would put one over on Dirge! So I went back into the jail office and tossed the check on the desk.

"Well," says I, "I have took a lot of kidding about my inventions, but you have got to admit I ain't done so bad."

He took up the check between a thumb and finger, and his eyes got as big as light bulbs. "Hod," he gasps, "is this yours? What's it for?"

"They have just bought my latest invention, a automatic fur stretcher," I tells him.

His hands was shaking like grass on a windy day. "Hod," he pants, "you are a millionaire five times over and with $15 to spare! Wonder why the extra 15?"

"That," says I, thinking fast, "covers the cost of material. Five million for the invention and 15 for the material."

"Oh," says he.

I took the check and stuck it into a pocket careless like. 'Now, I will go put it in the bank."

I left him sitting there in a daze. Of course, I didn't try to cash the check, I am too smart to try anything like that. So after walking around the block a couple of times, I went back to the office, but Dirge was gone. It being nice and quiet there, I went into Cell No. 2, which was empty, and took myself a nap.

By and by I woke up and went out on the street. Everyone I met wanted to shake hands with me. Never before could I remember of having so many friends. Then I saw a copy of the Bugle, whiih is Rosebloom's four-sheet daily, and right on the front in big black letters was "Native Rosebloomer Sells Invention." And below was a long writeup about me and an automatic fur stretcher. Also it mentioned the size of the check.

"Ah, ha," says I to myself, "Dirge has been telling things."

I went home to tell my wife about what a joke I had on Dirge, and what should I see but some cars and buggies around the house and a yard full of my relatives.

"Hello, Hod, ol' boy," they all says heartily. "We have come to have supper with you and visit awhile. Mighty glad to hear about your invention. Always knew you would be a great man."

My wife's face was white, which is a sure sign she is mad. She took me to one side and says, "Hod, what have you gone and done now Look at this mob which wants us to feed 'em."

Before I could explain, a big auto drove up, and a couple of important looking men came up.

"We are government officials from Little Rock," they says. "We have come to check you on your income tax. We figure you owe the government a million or so."

"Write 'em a check, Hod," Uncle Matt says, "and send 'em away. We are hungry for our supper."

"Not so fast, mister," a government man says. "We have got to do some figuring first. If he don't pay enough tax, he is liable to land in the pen."

Right then I began to do some explaining, a lot of it and mighty fast. Then all my relatives got sore and went home, and so did the government men after they had given me a bawling-out.

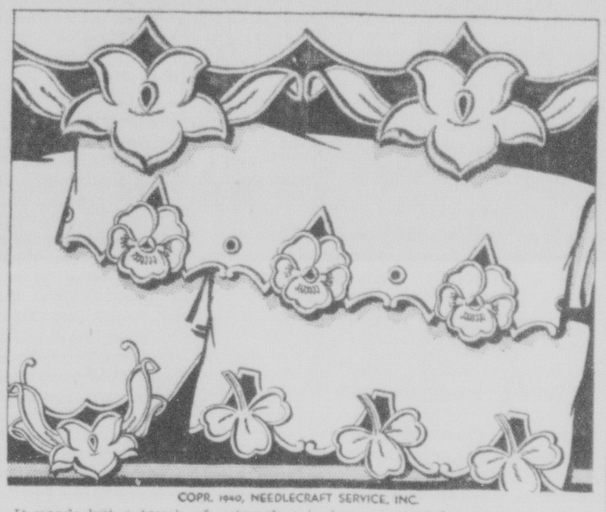

And then the next morning when I went to the jail office, Dirge had both eyes open and was standing up with his fists in his pockets. The brick color of his fat face told me that he, too, was pretty sore.

"Hod," he says, "sometimes I am inclined to think this jail and even our city of Rosebloom would be just as well off if you was to go to Africa or some place hotter."

So, as I said in the beginning, I have gone and let myself in for a lot of trouble besides being made fun of by all the Rosebloomers.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Misrepresentations About Willkie

AS is the case with every presidential candidate, Mr. Willkie will be the victim of a lot of downright misrepresentation. Already we have been told that he goes away head of the Republican platform, that he espouses Roosevelt foreign policies and that he is in sympathy with the Hull free trade ideas.

West Virginia delegates at the Philadelphia convention heard these things and, before he was nominated, held a conference with him at which they asked for information about these reports. It was explained to him that he had been identified, not only as an internationalist, but also as an interventionist; that he was believed to have indorsed the Roosevelt foreign policy in general and in particular to have approved the Hull free-trade program. Mr. Willkie gladly and fully explained his position for the benefit of the delegation.

"At that time," the Wheeling Intelligencer reports, "the Republican platform, taking a strong anti-war and equally strong protectionist stand, had been completed but not reported to the convention. Mr. Willkie had been appraised of its position on war, defense and the tariff. He declared flatly that if he couldn't run on the Republican platform; that if he didn't accept the doctrine there laid down and was not prepared to campaign for it and undertake to translate it into governmental action, he would not accept the nomination. He added that he was not only in complete sympathy with the strong stand against involvement in foreign war, but would be inclined to lean over backward in the avoidance of involving factors.

"With respect to foreign trade, he remarked with a smile that he had been represented as entertaining all sorts of views. In general, he said, he believed that American welfare requires the development of foreign trade to the fullest extent possible WITHOUT DAMAGE TO OUR HOME PRODUCTION, and expressed his endorsement of the prinpicle of 'true reciprocity' in foreign trade which, he reminded his hearers, is traditional Republican doctrine.

"Asked specifically if he approved the principle of the Hull program which extends blanket tariff reductions under the most-favored nation clause in the negotiation of single agreements, he said he did not. He agreed that such extensions amount to general tariff reductions and are inconsistent that all trade agreements should be bi-lateral—between nation and nation—and involve mutually profitable exchange only.

"By way of summary, Mr. Willkie warned his hearers that the turn of events in Europe has thrown the whole problem of international trade out of focus; that the agreements already made are in effect 'out the window,' that it may become necessary to meet problems never before faced in international relations, and that the country must be prepared to meet these new problems as they arise, always, however, from the background of protecting American production and safeguarding the American standard of living."

All of this is, indeed, consistent with good Republican doctrine and in consonance with the times and conditions; but more especially it serves to refute the subtle rumors that are going the rounds to the effect that Willkie is wearing a Roosevelt coat, which is just not true.

Another Word about Fireworks Accidents

ANOTHER WORD OF CAUTION about the dangers inherent in the Fourth of July celebration is in order.

According to a summary of injuries resulting from last year's celebration compiled by the American Medical Association, thirteen persons were killed and 5,560 injured by fireworks and other explosives alone.

As in 1937 and 1938, there were two principal causes of death: mutilations suffered by boys or men as the result of explosions from homemade explosives, and burns suffered by little girls whose dresses were ignited from sparklers or firecrackers.

"One boy died as a result of dropping a match into a bottle of powder, which exploded, a splinter of glass piercing his neck and severing the carotid artery," the report of the association states. "Another died from severance of the jugular vein by a sliver of tin from a five-quart oil can when a firecracker was set off inside. A Florida youth was killed when a keg of black powder, from which he was making fireworks, exploded. In spite of the deaths of three little girls in South Bend, Ind., in 1938, Indiana's new fireworks legislation did not become effective until after the 1939 Fourth of July, an 8-year-old girl at Whiting, Ind., died from burns received when her dress was ignited by a firecracker thrown by a playmate."

The adjoining states of Pennsylvania and West Virginia had a clear record of Fourth of July injuries last year, the result, according to the association, of statewide laws banning the use of fireworks. That again emphasizes the need of like legislation in Maryland. This state last year had a total of 169 accidents, in which one person was killed, 156 suffered burns and lacerations, nine received eye injuries, two suffered losses of a finger, a hand or other members and two internal injuries, fractures or other serious hurts.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness is urging the abandonment of the custom of shooting fireworks and other explosives on the Fourth as a patriotic duty. That is asking for more than can be expected but Mrs. Eleanor Brown Merrill, executive director of the society, points out that it would prevent deaths, blindness and thousands of minor injuries, as well as prevent needless waste of powder and other forms of explosives. "In view of the serious problems created by the war," she says, "it would be a far greater service to our country if the money that is usually spent by individuals on firecrackers, sky-rockets, Roman candles and other fireworks were used for more practical purposes."

Mrs. Merrill also emphasizes the point that effectiveness of state laws has been demonstrated wherever they have been adopted, the immediate result being a tremendous reduction of deaths, blindness and other injuries from this cause. She also notes that city ordinances are not sufficient because every city is surrounded by good roads leading to suburban towns where the fireworks can be sold openly and legally.

This great annual toll of death and injury must be reduced—indeed, it should be wiped out entirely.

Congress Must Stay On the Job

IT has been generally supposed that Congress had fully heeded the storm of protest that went up all over the country when administration leaders planned the usual adjournment of that body. But now, according to the report of Mark Sullivan appearing on this page, it seems that the idea has again been broached and is under consideration.

Mr. Sullivan stresses some important reasons why the Congress should not run out on the people at this critical period of world crises, the most compelling of which is the suggested possibility that Congress might find its effacement longer than anticipated. That is a grave thought in view of our constitutional processes but it is doubtless predicated upon the danger that, once Congress runs away from its duties, it will find, on returning, that these have been usurped and its hands tied by reason thereof.

Members of Congress have already felt the sentiment of the people about this. Within its own ranks, from the press and from all parts of the country the demand, which was temporarily heeded, came that the legislators should remain in session during this critical period.

Congress holds the purse and the sword. These are the two weapons with which America defends its existence. The President cannot open the purse nor draw the sword without the consent of Congress. In the last analysis he is the servant of Congress, acting according to its direction with weapons it provides.

Who can tell what a day may bring forth? Congress cannot foresee the immediate duture. Its ability to act on the instant is the greatest assurance of national safety that could be devised. It cannot act unless it is in session. When it is not in session, the United States Government is not in full operation. The people are not represented, and being scattered and unrepresented they are powerless.

For the sake of the people of the United States in a time of crisis, Congress should stay on the job ready to act.

The Same Applies To Mr. Roosevelt

THIS NEWSPAPER has already expressed its thoughts about the objection lodged by a few respecting the fact that Mr. Willkie was once a Democrat. It has pointed out that this is splendid evidence of a broad and inquiring mind seeking light and truth; and that as much as anything it emphasizes the soundness and durability of fundamental Republican doctrine.

But a citizen in another city, who happens to be a Willkie supporter, indulges in a retort about this which is rather apropos. A friend who was trying to find fault with the Willkie candidacy and who was having a pretty hard time of it, resorted to the objection that Willkie was once a Democrat.

"So was Roosevelt," the citizen replied.

"FBI Men Arrest Song Writer," says a headline. They contented themselves with charging him with obtaining a fraudulent passport, however, and let the other drop.

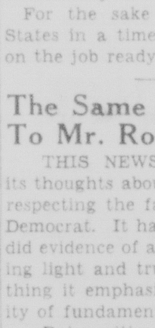

Once upon a time there was a time when persons whose toes were out of their shoes were out of luck instead of in style.

In the new style war, it seems, the peace terms are worse than the war.

"So He Wasn't Himself?"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Wild with jealousy and more than a little whisky, a man made a terrific scene. . . Assaulted his friends who tried to restrain him. Broke dishes. Smashed furniture. Cursed and wept and acted like a maniac.

Marshall Maslin

And there were tolerant ones who said of him, in apology, "You see, the poor fellow wasn't himself". . . He, too, was ashamed and humble and apologized to everybody in sight. Wept and put ashes on his head and ate humble pie and wished he'd never been born. And agreed with his forgiving friends and said, "That's true, I wasn't myself!"

Well, I can't help being thankful that this is how human beings think and feel and believe and talk.

We do that because we believe that when we misbehave, when we are selfish and cruel and thoughtless, we are not really OURSELVES. We are someone else who has temporarily taken possession of this physical shell, some usurper, some dictator, some savage that knows no better.

When we are kind and thoughtful, when we are unselfish and brave, when we sacrifice ourself for the sake of someone else, when we love generously and long, when we hide our hurts and beat down our proud—does anybody say THEN that we are not ourselves?

No, then we are given the credit of being the individual who was meant to inhabit this body that others know and love. . . That is the true you, the real me. THAT is ourselves!

And I am glad this is so. Life would be intolerable if we were ringed about with men and women who expected the worst of us always and assumed that when we act badly we are our true selves and when we act decently we are hypocrites who conceal our vices for some mean motive.

That is not always true, we must admit. Because sometimes we do show our bases selves when we lost control of ourselves and sometimes our fairest conduct IS hypocritical. But usually when a man is himself, he is the man we love best.

Tin and Rubber Argument Hokum, Johnson Avers

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

WASHINGTON, July 2—It would be worth a good many billions, not to mention a great re-employment, strengthening of our defense and reduction of our danger, to debunk the hokum about our being so dependent on the British and Dutch East Indies for rubber and tin.

That bunk plus gross exaggeration of our tiny commercial stake in China, projects the sphere of our naval strength far west of any line of defensive necessity in the Pacific. On every occasion we build Japanese enmity. That, in turn, requires even greater naval strength in the Pacific. We maintain the whole fleet equipped for this great distance, which is a far greater radius of action than Western Hemisphere defense requires.

We are truly told that we have not nearly the naval strength we need for that defense. Yet, here we are frittering away much of that strength chiefly on this rubber and tin argument.

* * *

Dose of Propaganda

Every time somebody mentions the fact that Bolivia is a prolific potential source of tin, we get a dose of clever British propaganda—that the ore has to be sent to England to be smelted—that Bolivian reserves of ore aren't great enough and that they require a mixture of other tin ores.

We have no tin smelters. But why haven't we? Because a British cartel controls tin. It doesn't want us to smelt tin or buy in Bolivia. That isn't good enough now. There is no mystery about the tin smelter. To build the necessary smelters and use Bolivian tin at once fits with every sound American policy, and not to do so collides with all. It employs American rather than British labor. It builds up Western Hemisphere trade and ties us closer to South America. It strengthens our defense and reduces our danger and dependence on distance sources. Why isn't such a move number one in our new national defense effort?

No Steps Taken

I can't say on the basis of known facts and recent surveys that Bolivian tin would be enough. But neither has it been demonstrated by any such means that it wouldn't be enough. Certainly, nobody has taken any steps to make it enough. I am told by metallurgists that they can easily lick the few bugs in the use of Bolivian tin.

There is a very wide field for the conservation of tin. It is largely used for attractiveness where black sheets would serve as well. There is a vast field for substitutes—particularly glass. Finally, tin can be reclaimed after original use. We throw it on the garbage dump. And truly alert defense policy would act immediately here. It isn't the easiest way, but it is a much cheaper way than building and diverting battleships needed elsewhere to the Pacific—and infinitely safer and better for re-employment and national defense.

Six Rubber Substitutes

The case of rubber is similar. It may be true—although it seems incredible—that we can't now rely on getting rubber from its native home in South America, but it is no longer true that we have to go half way round the world to get it. We have no less than six all-American rubber substitutes. Two of them are far better than rubber.

Yes, they cost more, but if we relied on them entirely and so went into mass production, they would cost very little more—maybe not as much—as the process is perfected in use. As matters stand at this moment, due to their longer life and better quality, the true cost would be no more.

If you consider this great new field for employment of American labor to replace Asiatic coolie labor, our economic advantage would be much greater. If to that advantage we add, as in the case of tin, the avoided cost and danger of maintaining an American naval

THE OPPORTUNIST

Adjournment of Congress Now Would Be Akin to Abdication, Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, July 2 — It is proposed that Congress adjourn until January.

At a time when all over the world the very existence of parliamentary government — government by a representative elected body — is in question; when it is claimed that parliamentary government must die because it is too cumbersome, too dilitory, too lacking in quick responsiveness; when in country after country parliamentary government is extinguished to make way for totalitarian government — at such a time it is proposed that the American Congress efface itself for six months.

Mark Sullivan

If Congress effaces itself for six months, especially the six months just ahead, Congress should not be surprised to find some of its temporary self-effacement last longer than Congress intended. That is a strong thing to suggest. In face of the present condition of the world, such an apprehension is not too greatly exaggerated.

Akin To Abdication

For Congress to go home would be regular, it is usual for a Congress to adjourn from mid-summer to the following January. But for this Congress to adjourn at this time, considering the condition of the world, would have the nature of abdication, or at least of Congress taking its function lightly. The present state of the world is no time for parliamentary bodies to suspend functioning, even temporarily. It is a time for parliamentary bodies to function with especial watchfulness and thoroughness, to prove that they deserve to survive.

During the spring, preceding the dramatic turn which the war abroad took on May 10th, it was assumed that Congress would adjourn before the Republican National Convention, and remain adjourned until January. With the spirit of crisis which came with the German invasion of Holland, Belgium and France; with our embarking upon a program of preparedness, question was raised whether Congress should adjourn. President Roosevelt at a press conference expressed the belief there was no imperative necessity for Congress to stay in Washington; he said, rather lightly, that there was little they could do other than speech making, and that if necessity arose, he would call them back in special session.

Conviction Grows

But in Congress and throughout the country, the conviction grew that Congress should remain in session. When the Republican convention neared, Congress recessed for the week of the convention, returning on Monday of this week. Again it is proposed that as the Democratic convention approaches, two weeks hence, Congress should again either recess or adjourn. If recess, Congress would return after the Democratic convention; if adjournment, it would be until January.

To many members, adjournment appeals. The whole House and one-third the Senate are up for re-election (except such as have failed of re-nomination or are retiring voluntarily.) All are conscious of the desirability of making personal campaigns in their states and districts. If constituents understand the desirability of Congress remaining in session, they will not be likely to penalize members unable to make personal campaigns.

Stresed By Navy

The desirability of Congress remaining in session is suggested by an episode during last week's recess. Our Navy acting with the best of intention with a disposition shared by the country, took a step of a kind likely to be helpful to Britain. Certain vessels under construction for our Navy were turned back to the manufacturer, making it possible for the manufacturer to sell these vessels to Britain. Our Navy, of course supposed it had the right to do this. But when the action was discovered by a committee of Congress, the Senate Naval committee, question was raised about the legality of the transaction. Upon inquiry, the attorney general reported that the action was not legal. Thereupon President Roosevelt canceled it.

Such incidents, arising in the shadowy area where executive power and congressional power overlap, are likely to be numerous during a period of hurried preparedness against war. If Congress is not here, necessity for haste by the Executive Department may result in distortion of the relations between Executive and Congress.

Another Reason

There is another reason for not adjourning. This Congress, from the time it first sat in January 1939, has been engaged, carefully and with moderation, in trimming some of the excesses of authority which were granted to some governmental bodies during the early days of the New Deal, when earlier Congresses had been rather reckless in their grants of authority. One such action by the present Congress is the Walter-Logan bill, designed to safeguard the rights of the citizen against arbitrary action by agents of government. The bill has passed the House, by a majority of more than 2 to 1, and with more than half the Democrats voting in favor of it. The bill is now before the Senate. If Congress adjourns, nothing will be done about it. If Congress remains, the bill will be acted upon.

Another example is a group of amendments to the National Labor Relations act, which would check some practices of the Labor board. The amendments are endorsed by the American Federation of Labor. These amendments have been passed by the House by a vote of more than 2 to 1, and with more than half the Democrats voting in favor. The amendments are now before the Senate. If Congress remains in session they will be acted upon. If Congress goes home, they will lapse.

Wish for such restrictions to lapse may be one reason for a disposition in some parts of the New Deal to hope that Congress adjourns.

Two Hard Facts

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

There is no such thing as war nowadays, except as something conducted according to accepted rules by democrac nations in self-defense. In its place is brigandage—undeclared war (the so-called "incident") by Japan in China; undeclared border war between Russia and Japan; undeclared war by Russia against Finland; undeclared war by Germany against Poland, Denmark, Holland, Belgium; undeclared war by Germany and Russia against this country through fifth-column agents. Only nations defending themselves go through the seemingly outworn ritual of proclaiming their intention to fight, and giving due warning and the reasons therefor.

Nor, from the standpoint of a group of aggressor states, is there such a thing nowadays as neutrality. This is something that Americans have had to learn since last September. Scrupulously correct conduct will save no country from attack—as the subjugation or practical annexation of ten unoffending neutral states in Europe in the last two years sufficiently attests. The modern "true neutral" can take his pick for a parallel between two members of the animal kingdom, neither of them very impressive figures—the legendary ostrich, which hides its head in the sand so as not to see enemies approaching, and the rabbit, which sits very still in hope that it will not be noticed.

From the standpoint of the nations which believe they are calling the tune for the march of mankind, there is only one crime in the world and that is weakness. If Uncle Sam should be weak, when they find themselves free to take him on, they would climb his frame, even though he had been throwing bouquets at them. If he made himself strong, he could kick the shins of Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini, and nothing would happen.

Admitting Blunders

If Corrected, Critics Can Be Forestalled, Walter B. Pitkin Says

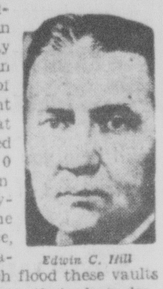

"It is hardly too much to say that the world would be a full thousand years ahead, if only the mistakes men have been making could have been quickly perceived, admitted and then corrected," declares Walter B. Pitkin in an article in Your Life Magazine.

"By quick admission of mistakes," the writer adds, "you forestall critics. If you walk in on the boss and are the first to report your mistake, he is disarmed. If you delay or evade the issue, some busybody may sneak in and tip him off. That's bad for you, isn't it?"

"Unfortunately, shops and offices are full of squealers and stool pigeons who take pride in passing along bad news. Don't let them get you down. Beat them to the tape. Be the first to report whatever error you may have made that's worth reporting."

Other Eggs Are Available Besides The Gold Hoard

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

The only thing old Fafnir could do with his Rhinegold was to sit on it. The similarly Wagnerian Herr Hitler may find himself in the same kind of dilemma. Current reports are that he has obtained $1,850,000,000 worth of gold in the deep labyrinths under the Bank of France, submerged in water, as the French flood these vaults—their strong-box, their last desperate resource, provided in the plans of the bank sunk ten stories underground.

Hiler has pouched other vast quantities of gold, possibly, billions, in his other conquests. What does he plan to do with it? As we get the outlines of his new hard-boiled world economy over here gold will be valuable only for trinkets and tooth fillings. It will be a stick-up economy in which all comers will trade with Germany on her terms and take Hitler's trick-money and no back talk. That has been the picture drawn by some of our soberest and most highly-garlanded economists. But if that's the idea, why Hitler's hungry grab for gold, wherever he can find it and regardless of the legal owner?

In Disagreement

A high official of the German ministry of Economics recently was reported as having remarked jovially that America might like to eat its nineteen billions worth of gold; that world trade would no longer require a symbol of value as "German might" would decide such matters. There is another highly respectable school of American economists in dissent. They insist that, no matter what the chaos and wreck of the world, if and when Hitler knocks over England, we will be able to buy in a big way with our nineteen billions, which is more than three fourths of all the gold in the world.

They say that as long as the world believes in gold, it will maintain its value, and they ask if you would take gold in any fair exchange for goods, chattels or labor. It's a hard question to answer. At any rate, that's an important "information please"—why is Hitler reaching out for gold if he intends to so order the world as to make it valueless?

* * *

Conflicting Stories

Of course, it's a when and if problem. England hasn't yet taken the count and there are many things in heaven and earth beside gold. Typical of the general conflict and confusion on this crucial issue of the survival of a free economy are two conflicting stories in the same newspaper issue.

Dr. Walter Degner, Secretary of the Board of Trade for German-American Commerce, Inc., in New York, says that Herr Hitler will make everything hotsy-totsy in world trade and currency. Gold will be re-established as the traditional symbol of value; barter will be abandoned. Everything will go on as before. But the good doctor hints that we had better not elect a president or whom Germany might not approve.

From Berlin comes a quite different story. Under a Berlin date line, Percival Knauth quotes the newspaper organ of the Ruhr industrialists as follows:

"The gold standard will henceforth interest Germany from only the historical viewpoint. The renaissance of gold as a staandard for currency is impossible, because, first the nations will no longer permit their economic life to be guided by a super-national factor; and second, because all the necessary prerequisites for the material functioning of the gold standard have ceased to exist."

* * *

One Thing Understood

A lot of us will climb the golden stairs before we get this all straight. But one thing we do understand. We have worked up something over here that's worth defending, and we will defend it, and we're together on that and all this fast double-talk about gold and monetary standards won't divert up from building ships and airplanes. Maybe the New Deal did lay a $19,000,000,000 egg, but we have others which we can and will use even if they are non-negotiable elsewhere.—Copyright, 1940,, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Quotable Quotes

By United States Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat, of Nevada

There never was an hour, so far as I know, when this country was facing such an emergency—an emergency which was created. I am sorry to say, by some expressions which were uttered by the head of this government not very long ago which aroused the hatred of foreign countries at war, a hatred which we should not have engendered. It is for that reason that everything possible may be done now to throw us over the precipice and into war. It was an unfortunate thing, an unhappy event.

He declared flatly that if he couldn't run on the Republican platform; that if he didn't accept the doctrine there laid down and was not prepared to campaign for it and undertake to translate it into governmental action, he would not accept the nomination. He added that he was not only in complete sympathy with the strong stand against involvement in foreign war, but would be inclined to lean over backward in the avoidance of involving factors.

"With respect to foreign trade, he remarked with a smile that he had been represented as entertaining all sorts of views. In general, he said, he believed that American welfare requires the development of foreign trade to the fullest extent possible WITHOUT DAMAGE TO OUR HOME PRODUCTION, and expressed his endorsement of the prinpicle of 'true reciprocity' in foreign trade which, he reminded his hearers, is traditional Republican doctrine.

"Asked specifically if he approved the principle of the Hull program which extends blanket tariff reductions under the most-favored nation clause in the negotiation of single agreements, he said he did not. He agreed that such extensions amount to general tariff reductions and are inconsistent that all trade agreements should be bi-lateral—between nation and nation—and involve mutually profitable exchange only.

"By way of summary, Mr. Willkie warned his hearers that the turn of events in Europe has thrown the whole problem of international trade out of focus; that the agreements already made are in effect 'out the window,' that it may become necessary to meet problems never before faced in international relations, and that the country must be prepared to meet these new problems as they arise, always, however, from the background of protecting American production and safeguarding the American standard of living."

All of this is, indeed, consistent with good Republican doctrine and in consonance with the times and conditions; but more especially it serves to refute the subtle rumors that are going the rounds to the effect that Willkie is wearing a Roosevelt coat, which is just not true.

Another Word about Fireworks Accidents

ANOTHER WORD OF CAUTION about the dangers inherent in the Fourth of July celebration is in order.

According to a summary of injuries resulting from last year's celebration compiled by the American Medical Association, thirteen persons were killed and 5,560 injured by fireworks and other explosives alone.

As in 1937 and 1938, there were two principal causes of death: mutilations suffered by boys or men as the result of explosions from homemade explosives, and burns suffered by little girls whose dresses were ignited from sparklers or firecrackers.

"One boy died as a result of dropping a match into a bottle of powder, which exploded, a splinter of glass piercing his neck and severing the carotid artery," the report of the association states. "Another died from severance of the jugular vein by a sliver of tin from a five-quart oil can when a firecracker was set off inside. A Florida youth was killed when a keg of black powder, from which he was making fireworks, exploded. In spite of the deaths of three little girls in South Bend, Ind., in 1938, Indiana's new fireworks legislation did not become effective until after the 1939 Fourth of July, an 8-year-old girl at Whiting, Ind., died from burns received when her dress was ignited by a firecracker thrown by a playmate."

The adjoining states of Pennsylvania and West Virginia had a clear record of Fourth of July injuries last year, the result, according to the association, of statewide laws banning the use of fireworks. That again emphasizes the need of like legislation in Maryland. This state last year had a total of 169 accidents, in which one person was killed, 156 suffered burns and lacerations, nine received eye injuries, two suffered losses of a finger, a hand or other members and two internal injuries, fractures or other serious hurts.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness is urging the abandonment of the custom of shooting fireworks and other explosives on the Fourth as a patriotic duty. That is asking for more than can be expected but Mrs. Eleanor Brown Merrill, executive director of the society, points out that it would prevent deaths, blindness and thousands of minor injuries, as well as prevent needless waste of powder and other forms of explosives. "In view of the serious problems created by the war," she says, "it would be a far greater service to our country if the money that is usually spent by individuals on firecrackers, sky-rockets, Roman candles and other fireworks were used for more practical purposes."

Mrs. Merrill also emphasizes the point that effectiveness of state laws has been demonstrated wherever they have been adopted, the immediate result being a tremendous reduction of deaths, blindness and other injuries from this cause. She also notes that city ordinances are not sufficient because every city is surrounded by good roads leading to suburban towns where the fireworks can be sold openly and legally.

This great annual toll of death and injury must be reduced—indeed, it should be wiped out entirely.

Congress Must Stay On the Job

IT has been generally supposed that Congress had fully heeded the storm of protest that went up all over the country when administration leaders planned the usual adjournment of that body. But now, according to the report of Mark Sullivan appearing on this page, it seems that the idea has again been broached and is under consideration.

Mr. Sullivan stresses some important reasons why the Congress should not run out on the people at this critical period of world crises, the most compelling of which is the suggested possibility that Congress might find its effacement longer than anticipated. That is a grave thought in view of our constitutional processes but it is doubtless predicated upon the danger that, once Congress runs away from its duties, it will find, on returning, that these have been usurped and its hands tied by reason thereof.

Members of Congress have already felt the sentiment of the people about this. Within its own ranks, from the press and from all parts of the country the demand, which was temporarily heeded, came that the legislators should remain in session during this critical period.

Congress holds the purse and the sword. These are the two weapons with which America defends its existence. The President cannot open the purse nor draw the sword without the consent of Congress. In the last analysis he is the servant of Congress, acting according to its direction with weapons it provides.

Who can tell what a day may bring forth? Congress cannot foresee the immediate duture. Its ability to act on the instant is the greatest assurance of national safety that could be devised. It cannot act unless it is in session. When it is not in session, the United States Government is not in full operation. The people are not represented, and being scattered and unrepresented they are powerless.

For the sake of the people of the United States in a time of crisis, Congress should stay on the job ready to act.

The Same Applies To Mr. Roosevelt

THIS NEWSPAPER has already expressed its thoughts about the objection lodged by a few respecting the fact that Mr. Willkie was once a Democrat. It has pointed out that this is splendid evidence of a broad and inquiring mind seeking light and truth; and that as much as anything it emphasizes the soundness and durability of fundamental Republican doctrine.

But a citizen in another city, who happens to be a Willkie supporter, indulges in a retort about this which is rather apropos. A friend who was trying to find fault with the Willkie candidacy and who was having a pretty hard time of it, resorted to the objection that Willkie was once a Democrat.

"So was Roosevelt," the citizen replied.

"FBI Men Arrest Song Writer," says a headline. They contented themselves with charging him with obtaining a fraudulent passport, however, and let the other drop.

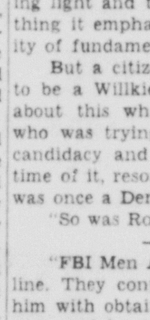

Once upon a time there was a time when persons whose toes were out of their shoes were out of luck instead of in style.

In the new style war, it seems, the peace terms are worse than the war.

"So He Wasn't Himself?"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Wild with jealousy and more than a little whisky, a man made a terrific scene. . . Assaulted his friends who tried to restrain him. Broke dishes. Smashed furniture. Cursed and wept and acted like a maniac.

Marshall Maslin

And there were tolerant ones who said of him, in apology, "You see, the poor fellow wasn't himself". . . He, too, was ashamed and humble and apologized to everybody in sight. Wept and put ashes on his head and ate humble pie and wished he'd never been born. And agreed with his forgiving friends and said, "That's true, I wasn't myself!"

Well, I can't help being thankful that this is how human beings think and feel and believe and talk.

We do that because we believe that when we misbehave, when we are selfish and cruel and thoughtless, we are not really OURSELVES. We are someone else who has temporarily taken possession of this physical shell, some usurper, some dictator, some savage that knows no better.

When we are kind and thoughtful, when we are unselfish and brave, when we sacrifice ourself for the sake of someone else, when we love generously and long, when we hide our hurts and beat down our proud—does anybody say THEN that we are not ourselves?

No, then we are given the credit of being the individual who was meant to inhabit this body that others know and love. . . That is the true you, the real me. THAT is ourselves!

And I am glad this is so. Life would be intolerable if we were ringed about with men and women who expected the worst of us always and assumed that when we act badly we are our true selves and when we act decently we are hypocrites who conceal our vices for some mean motive.

That is not always true, we must admit. Because sometimes we do show our bases selves when we lost control of ourselves and sometimes our fairest conduct IS hypocritical. But usually when a man is himself, he is the man we love best

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

WASHINGTON, July 2—It would be worth a good many billions, not to mention a great re-employment, strengthening of our defense and reduction of our danger, to debunk the hokum about our being so dependent on the British and Dutch East Indies for rubber and tin.

That bunk plus gross exaggeration of our tiny commercial stake in China, projects the sphere of our naval strength far west of any line of defensive necessity in the Pacific. On every occasion we build Japanese enmity. That, in turn, requires even greater naval strength in the Pacific. We maintain the whole fleet equipped for this great distance, which is a far greater radius of action than Western Hemisphere defense requires.

We are truly told that we have not nearly the naval strength we need for that defense. Yet, here we are frittering away much of that strength chiefly on this rubber and tin argument.

* * *

Dose of Propaganda

Every time somebody mentions the fact that Bolivia is a prolific potential source of tin, we get a dose of clever British propaganda—that the ore has to be sent to England to be smelted—that Bolivian reserves of ore aren't great enough and that they require a mixture of other tin ores.

We have no tin smelters. But why haven't we? Because a British cartel controls tin. It doesn't want us to smelt tin or buy in Bolivia. That isn't good enough now. There is no mystery about the tin smelter. To build the necessary smelters and use Bolivian tin at once fits with every sound American policy, and not to do so collides with all. It employs American rather than British labor. It builds up Western Hemisphere trade and ties us closer to South America. It strengthens our defense and reduces our danger and dependence on distance sources. Why isn't such a move number one in our new national defense effort?

No Steps Taken

I can't say on the basis of known facts and recent surveys that Bolivian tin would be enough. But neither has it been demonstrated by any such means that it wouldn't be enough. Certainly, nobody has taken any steps to make it enough. I am told by metallurgists that they can easily lick the few bugs in the use of Bolivian tin.

There is a very wide field for the conservation of tin. It is largely used for attractiveness where black sheets would serve as well. There is a vast field for substitutes —particularly glass. Finally, tin can be reclaimed after original use. We throw it on the garbage dump. And truly alert defense policy would act immediately here. It isn't the easiest way, but it is a much cheaper way than building and diverting battleships needed elsewhere to the Pacific—and infinitely safer and better for re-employment and national defense.

Six Rubber Substitutes

The case of rubber is similar. It may be true—although it seems incredible—that we can't now rely on getting rubber from its native home in South America, but it is no longer true that we have to go half way round the world to get it. We have no less than six all-American rubber substitutes. Two of them are far better than rubber.

Yes, they cost more, but if we relied on them entirely and so went into mass production, they would cost very little more—maybe not as much—as the process is perfected in use. As matters stand at this moment, due to their longer life and better quality, the true cost would be no more.

If you consider this great new field for employment of American labor to replace Asiatic coolie labor, our economic advantage would be much greater. If to that advantage we add, as in the case of tin, the avoided cost and danger of maintaining an American naval threat in Asia then all considerations of both economics and defense simply shriek for immediate action here. What is a Council of National Defense for anyway?—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE OPPORTUNIST

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mark Sullivan

At a time when all over the world the very existence of parliamentary government — government by a representative elected body — is in question; when it is claimed that parliamentary government must die because it is too cumbersome, too dilitory, too lacking in quick responsiveness; when in country after country parliamentary government is extinguished to make way for totalitarian government — at such a time it is proposed that the American Congress efface itself for six months.

If Congress effaces itself for six months, especially the six months just ahead, Congress should not be surprised to find some of its temporary self-effacement last longer than Congress intended. That is a strong thing to suggest. In face of the present condition of the world, such an apprehension is not too greatly exaggerated.

Akin To Abdication

For Congress to go home would be regular, it is usual for a Congress to adjourn from mid-summer to the following January. But for this Congress to adjourn at this time, considering the condition of the world, would have the nature of abdication, or at least of Congress taking its function lightly. The present state of the world is no time for parliamentary bodies to suspend functioning, even temporarily. It is a time for parliamentary bodies to function with especial watchfulness and thoroughness, to prove that they deserve to survive.

During the spring, preceding the dramatic turn which the war abroad took on May 10th, it was assumed that Congress would adjourn before the Republican National Convention, and remain adjourned until January. With the spirit of crisis which came with the German invasion of Holland, Belgium and France; with our embarking upon a program of preparedness, question was raised whether Congress should adjourn. President Roosevelt at a press conference expressed the belief there was no imperative necessity for Congress to stay in Washington; he said, rather lightly, that there was little they could do other than speech making, and that if necessity arose, he would call them back in special session.

Conviction Grows

But in Congress and throughout the country, the conviction grew that Congress should remain in session. When the Republican convention neared, Congress recessed for the week of the convention, returning on Monday of this week. Again it is proposed that as the Democratic convention approaches, two weeks hence, Congress should again either recess or adjourn. If recess, Congress would return after the Democratic convention; if adjournment, it would be until January.

To many members, adjournment appeals. The whole House and one-third the Senate are up for re-election (except such as have failed of re-nomination or are retiring voluntarily.) All are conscious of the desirability of making personal campaigns in their states and districts. If constituents understand the desirability of Congress remaining in session, they will not be likely to penalize members unable to make personal campaigns

Stresed By Navy

The desirability of Congress remaining in session is suggested by an episode during last week's recess. Our Navy acting with the best of intention with a disposition shared by the country, took a step of a kind likely to be helpful to Britain. Certain vessels under construction for our Navy were turned back to the manufacturer, making it possible for the manufacturer to sell these vessels to Britain. Our Navy, of course supposed it had the right to do this. But when the action was discovered by a committee of Congress, the Senate Naval committee, question was raised about the legality of the transaction. Upon inquiry, the attorney general reported that the action was not legal. Thereupon President Roosevelt canceled it.

Such incidents, arising in the shadowy area where executive power and congressional power overlap, are likely to be numerous during a period of hurried preparedness against war. If Congress is not here, necessity for haste by the Executive Department may result in distortion of the relations between Executive and Congress.

Another Reason

There is another reason for not adjourning. This Congress, from the time it first sat in January 1939, has been engaged, carefully and with moderation, in trimming some of the excesses of authority which were granted to some governmental bodies during the early days of the New Deal, when earlier Congresses had been rather reckless in their grants of authority. One such action by the present Congress is the Walter-Logan bill, designed to safeguard the rights of the citizen against arbitrary action by agents of government. The bill has passed the House, by a majority of more than 2 to 1, and with more than half the Democrats voting in favor of it. The bill is now before the Senate. If Congress adjourns, nothing will be done about it. If Congress remains, the bill will be acted upon.

Another example is a group of amendments to the National Labor Relations act, which would check some practices of the Labor board. The amendments are endorsed by the American Federation of Labor. These amendments have been passed by the House by a vote of more than 2 to 1, and with more than half the Democrats voting in favor. The amendments are now before the Senate. If Congress remains in session they will be acted upon. If Congress goes home, they will lapse.

Wish for such restrictions to lapse may be one reason for a disposition in some parts of the New Deal to hope that Congress adjourns.

Two Hard Facts

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

There is no such thing as war nowadays, except as something conducted according to accepted rules by democrac nations in self-defense. In its place is brigandage—undeclared war (the so-called "incident") by Japan in China; undeclared border war between Russia and Japan; undeclared war by Russia against Finland; undeclared war by Germany against Poland, Denmark, Holland, Belgium; undeclared war by Germany and Russia against this country through fifth-column agents. Only nations defending themselves go through the seemingly outworn ritual of proclaiming their intention to fight, and giving due warning and the reasons therefor.

Nor, from the standpoint of a group of aggressor states, is there such a thing nowadays as neutrality. This is something that Americans have had to learn since last September. Scrupulously correct conduct will save no country from attack—as the subjugation or practical annexation of ten unoffending neutral states in Europe in the last two years sufficiently attests. The modern "true neutral" can take his pick for a parallel between two members of the animal kingdom, neither of them very impressive figures—the legendary ostrich, which hides its head in the sand so as not to see enemies approaching, and the rabbit, which sits very still in hope that it will not be noticed.

From the standpoint of the nations which believe they are calling the tune for the march of mankind, there is only one crime in the world and that is weakness. If Uncle Sam should be weak, when they find themselves free to take him on, they would climb his frame, even though he had been throwing bouquets at them. If he made himself strong, he could kick the shins of Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini, and nothing would happen.

Admitting Blunders

If Corrected, Critics Can Be Forestalled, Walter B. Pitkin Says

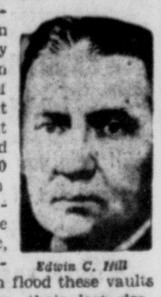

"It is hardly too much to say that the world would be a full thousand years ahead, if only the mistakes men have been making could have been quickly perceived, admitted and then corrected," declares Walter B. Pitkin in an article in Your Life Magazine.

"By quick admission of mistakes," the writer adds, "you forestall critics. If you walk in on the boss and are the first to report your mistake, he is disarmed. If you delay or evade the issue, some busybody may sneak in and tip him off. That's bad for you, isn't it?"

"Unfortunately, shops and offices are full of squealers and stool pigeons who take pride in passing along bad news. Don't let them get you down. Beat them to the tape. Be the first to report whatever error you may have made that's worth reporting.'

Other Eggs Are Available Besides The Gold Hoard

Edwin C. Hill

The only thing old Fafnir could do with his Rhinegold was to sit on it. The similarly Wagnerian Herr Hitler may find himself in the same kind of dilemma. Current reports are that he has obtained $1,850,000,000 worth of gold in the deep labyrinths under the Bank of France, submerged in water, as the French flood these vaults—their strong-box, their last desperate resource, provided in the plans of the bank sunk ten stories underground.

Hiler has pouched other vast quantities of gold, possibly, billions, in his other conquests. What does he plan to do with it? As we get the outlines of his new hard-boiled world economy over here gold will be valuable only for trinkets and tooth fillings. It will be a stick-up economy in which all comers will trade with Germany on her terms and take Hitler's trick-money and no back talk. That has been the picture drawn by some of our soberest and most highly-garlanded economists. But if that's the idea, why Hitler's hungry grab for gold, wherever he can find it and regardless of the legal owner?

In Disagreement

A high official of the German ministry of Economics recently was reported as having remarked jovially that America might like to eat its nineteen billions worth of gold; that world trade would no longer require a symbol of value as "German might" would decide such matters. There is another highly respectable school of American economists in dissent. They insist that, no matter what the chaos and wreck of the world, if and when Hitler knocks over England, we will be able to buy in a big way with our nineteen billions, which is more than three fourths of all the gold in the world.

They say that as long as the world believes in gold, it will maintain its value, and they ask if you would take gold in any fair exchange for goods, chattels or labor. It's a hard question to answer. At any rate, that's an important "information please"—why is Hitler reaching out for gold if he intends to so order the world as to make it valueless?

* * *

Of course, it's a when and if problem. England hasn't yet taken the count and there are many things in heaven and earth beside gold. Typical of the general conflict and confusion on this crucial issue of the survival of a free economy are two conflicting stories in the same newspaper issue.

Dr. Walter Degner, Secretary of the Board of Trade for German-American Commerce, Inc., in New York, says that Herr Hitler will make everything hotsy-totsy in world trade and currency. Gold will be re-established as the traditional symbol of value; barter will be abandoned. Everything will go on as before. But the good doctor hints that we had better not elect a president or whom Germany might not approve.

From Berlin comes a quite different story. Under a Berlin date line, Percival Knauth quotes the newspaper organ of the Ruhr industrialists as follows:

"The gold standard will henceforth interest Germany from only the historical viewpoint. The renaissance of gold as a staandard for currency is impossible, because, first the nations will no longer permit their economic life to be guided by a super-national factor; and second, because all the necessary prerequisites for the material functioning of the gold standard have ceased to exist."

* * *

One Thing Understood

A lot of us will climb the golden stairs before we get this all straight. But one thing we do understand. We have worked up something over here that's worth defending, and we will defend it, and we're together on that and all this fast double-talk about gold and monetary standards won't divert up from building ships and airplanes. Maybe the New Deal did lay a $19,000,000,000 egg, but we have others which we can and will use even if they are non-negotiable elsewhere.—Copyright, 1940., King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Quotable Quotes

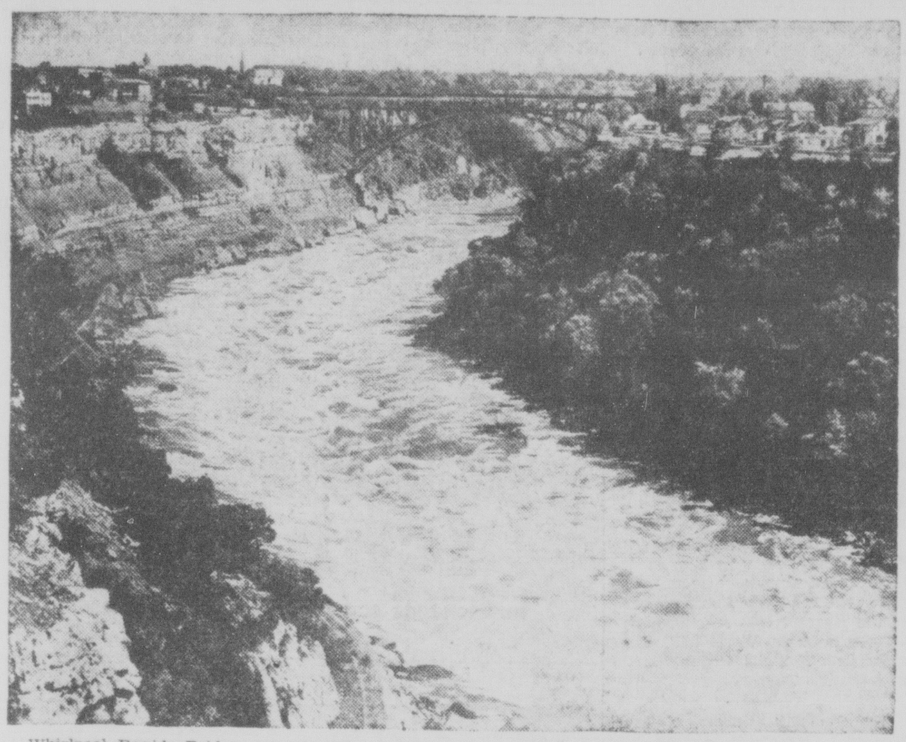

By United States Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat, of Nevada

There never was an hour, so far as I know, when this country was facing such an emergency—an emergency which was created, I am sorry to say, by some expressions which were uttered by the head of this government not very long ago which aroused the hatred of foreign countries at war, a hatred which we should not have engendered. It is for that reason that everything possible may be done now to throw us over the precipice and into war. It was an unfortunate thing, an unhappy event.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If your family has the habit of forgetting library books that should be returned, and fines mount, a calendar in the kitchen whereon may be noted the dates books are due is a great help. If there are several members of the family, give each one charge of the calendar for one week, and let him or her be responsible for reminding the others the date on which books fall due. It will help to eliminate fines for overdue books. Bright crayon markings will help,too.

Crew Befuddled

ROANOKE, VA. (AP)—A flock of seagulls, sighted 200 miles inland, apparently confused a concrete runway at the Municipal Airport for water, and alighted there.

Night Baseball Is Looking Up

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Browns may be setting the pace for the major leagues in baseball at night. The Browns have just received permission to double their original allotment of seven night games—the same as other major league clubs. If the Browns are successful in drawing comparatively large crowds to all of their 14 nocturnal engagements it is probable that other major league teams will increase their number of arc-light affairs next season.

IN THE LAST FEW MONTHS, certain regular-priced gasolines have been implying that they will perform as well as our premium-priced gasoline, Gulf No-Nox.

Actually, that is a long way from being true.

There are three methods most generally used to determine the anti-knock value of a gasoline. These tests are used by us, used by our competitors, and are recognized by everybody in the industry.

On these tests of quality made by an independent laboratory, the regular gasoline, which is making the most to-do about being the equal of Gulf No-Nox, RATED 7 FULL POINTS BELOW GULF NO-NOX!

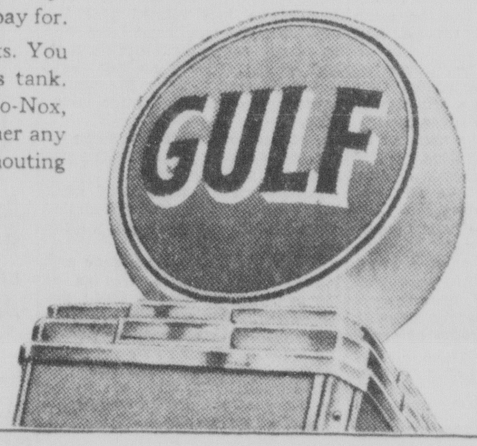

Even a 3-point difference in anti-knock rating is a noticeable difference. This 7-point difference is a BIG difference—gives Gulf No-Nox a major advantage in the high-compression engines you find in the newer cars.

Therefore, don't swallow it hook, line, and sinker, when someone tells you that his regular gas (however much it's been improved!) is as good as improved Gulf No-Nox. It isn't. In gasolines, as in everything else, you get about what you pay for.

These facts aren't just paper facts. You can confirm them in your own gas tank. Next time—try just one tankful of No-Nox, and make up your own mind whether any regular gas, anywhere, is within shouting distance of it!

A POPULAR PLACE FOR TOURISTS

Whirlpool Rapids Bridge over the Niagara River at Niagara Falls is a popular point of entry into Canada for many thousands of American tourists. The influx has already started, and officials stationed on the bridge have been instructed to make the border formalities easy for the tourist.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If your family has the habit of forgetting library books that should be returned, and fines mount, a calendar in the kitchen whereon may be noted the dates books are due is a great help. If there are several members of the family, give each one charge of the calendar for one week, and let him or her be responsible for reminding the others the date on which books fall due. It will help to eliminate fines for overdue books. Bright crayon markings will help,too.

Crew Befuddled

ROANOKE, VA. (AP)—A flock of seagulls, sighted 200 miles inland, apparently confused a concrete runway at the Municipal Airport for water, and alighted there.

But the gulls weren't nearly as befuddled as a lone black crow that Marvin Turner, assistant airport manager, reported seeing in the midst of the flock of fifty or sixty gulls.

Night Baseball Is Looking Up

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Browns may be setting the pace for the major leagues in baseball at night. The Browns have just received permission to double their original allotment of seven night games—the same as other major league clubs. If the Browns are successful in drawing comparatively large crowds to all of their 14 nocturnal engagements it is probable that other major league teams will increase their number of arc-light affairs next season.

Nice Rescue Work

PAIGNTON, ENGLAND—Ernest Judd, 46, veteran of the first World war, escaped from Holland after the German invasion by crossing the North Sea with a 19-year-old Dutch actress in a 40-foot boat.

Among the Tartars, if the wife is ill-treated she complains to the magistrate, who, attended by leading citizens accompanies her to the house and pronounces a divorce.

Who's talking through whose hat?

IN THE LAST FEW MONTHS, certain regular-priced gasolines have been implying that they will perform as well as our premium-priced gasoline, Gulf No-Nox.

Actually, that is a long way from being true.

There are three methods most generally used to determine the anti-knock value of a gasoline. These tests are used by us, used by our competitors, and are recognized by everybody in the industry.

On these tests of quality made by an independent laboratory, the regular gasoline, which is making the most to-do about being the equal of Gulf No-Nox, RATED 7 FULL POINTS BELOW GULF NO-NOX!

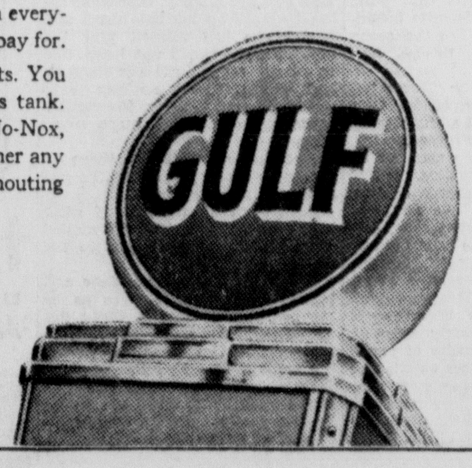

Even a 3-point difference in anti-knock rating is a noticeable difference. This 7-point difference is a BIG difference—gives Gulf No-Nox a major advantage in the high-compression engines you find in the newer cars.

Therefore, don't swallow it hook, line, and sinker, when someone tells you that his regular gas (however much it's been improved!) is as good as improved Gulf No-Nox. It isn't. In gasolines, as in everything else, you get about what you pay for.

These facts aren't just paper facts. You can confirm them in your own gas tank. Next time—try just one tankful of No-Nox, and make up your own mind whether any regular gas, anywhere, is within shouting distance of it!

FREE—"21 WAYS TO SAVE MONEY."

This helpful booklet yours for the asking at your Good Gulf dealer's. Get yours, right away at the Sign of the Gulf Orange Disc!

NO REGULAR GASOLINE—NOT ONE—CAN COMPARE WITH GULF NO-NOX!

A CHANCE TO DISCARD

EIGHT TRUMPS divided evenly between your hand and your partner's make a much more desirable situation than five in one hand and three in the other, except in the one rare instance when the outstanding five are all held by one defender. If you have a suit of each kind between you, make a practice of choosing the 4-4 one over the 5-3, except when the former is a minor and the latter a major, and even sometimes then.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	2 ♣	2 ♦	Dbl
2 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥

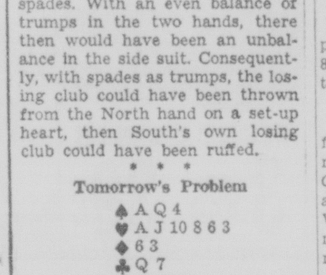

South didn't have a chance to make his heart game. West led his diamond A and 2. East, after taking the Q with the K, led a third diamond, which South ruffed with the 10. Now no matter how he played, he could not help losing one trick in spades and one in clubs, so was down one. There was absolutely no way to get rid of the losing club.

North explained that his partner's reverse bidding showed more hearts than spades, so that he knew the side had at least as many cards in hearts, plus a longer suit for purposes of safety. That is why he showed preference for hearts.

Peculiarly, the very reason why he preferred hearts should have been the reason for preferring spades. With an even balance of trumps in the two hands, there then would have been an unbalance in the side suit. Consequently, with spades as trumps, the losing club could have been thrown from the North hand on a set-up heart, then South's own losing club could have been ruffed.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Against a lead of the club 2, what is South's sound, scientific way to play this hand at a contract of 3-No Trumps?

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with

RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but

SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile

* * *

YESTERDAY: Standing in the starlight on a balcony at Sarah's party, Ronald kisses Linda, tells her that he loves her, but then dashes away to lead his band. Sarah appears out of the shadows and says, "I take it that you are trying to land Ronald."

CHAPTER FIVE

LINDA WAS living in her moment of glory, swinging close to the stars, as Sarah Markley came to her on the balcony to say: "I take it you are trying to land Ronald."

A deep intuition told her that here was a deadly foe, one who gave no quarter, who took what she wanted, hurt whom she pleased—a foe who was proud of her powers to win whomsoever she wished. And now she wanted Ronnie.

Linda armored her heart with the memory of Ronnie's words which still echoed in the sweet night air: "I love you!"

"I'm not trying to land anyone," she told the girl in the gleaming white satin dress. "I play the old rules. It's much safer to let the men do the pursuing."

Her eyes were as unwavering, her voice as confident as Sarah's.

"And you think I drag men in by the hair, I suppose?" Sarah asked, and Linda saw the anger in her face. Evidently no one before had questioned Sarah's role as belle of the ball.

"I don't think anything at all about you," Linda answered. "After all, we just met. And we both know Ronnie. So—what in the world are we talking about?"

"Do you love Ronnie?" Sarah asked. "But of course you do. Your eyes were like two bonfires when you saw him. I'm warning you. You're trespassing on my territory. Better get out before you get hurt!"

Linda was amazed at her own calmness and daring. "Hurt? Why should I get hurt? Ronnie's nice. He's kind to everybody."

Sarah stamped a small, white satin-shod foot and its rhinestone slipper buckle broke into a thousand pieces of light. Her voice was harsh when she spoke. "I always get what I go after, Miss Avery."

Behind them at that moment Ronnie's trumpet left the band and swung away toward the moon. Out of the world, higher and higher it climbed, mad, gay, reckless, forever groping. Linda knew it was Ronnie who played, although she had not heard him for so many months.

She faced the angry girl in white. "I don't think Ronnie can be had, Miss Markley. He's free, independent, brave, and he belongs to himself. But I came to hear the music. Excuse me."

She went to the dressing room. It was deserted now and her slim, violet reflection met her in a dozen mirrors. She felt curiously limp and defeated. Defeated, although she knew the spoils of this battle were hers. But Sarah would not cease the warfare now. Her heart might lose interest in the game, but her pride would never relinquish it.

"I should have let her talk and said nothing," Linda whispered to the hurt white face that mocked her everywhere. "Then, unless she's serious, she would have forgotten. Unless she's serious—"

Suddenly she was cold. She got her purple wrap from its place on a satin hanger and drew it around her shoulders. She would catch Ronald's eyes across the room when the trumpet ceased and the stars would be near again.

"I always get what I go after, Miss Avery."

But Ronald was too far away. Once she saw his glance sweep the room. But it didn't find her. When he smiled, Linda followed the direction of the glance. When she saw that it was not Sarah at whom he was smiling, she felt such a rush of relief it left her weak and spent.

Ronald loved her, but Sarah wanted Ronald. And two and two didn't always add up to four in love or war.

She tossed her bright head higher and closed her eyes. She would let the music do what it could to quiet her. But when the impromptu program ended, she answered questions mechanically, smiled too carefully at people she didn't know and probably never would see again.

She was grateful when a firm, tanned hand drew her aside. She knew it was Robert Barton even before she looked. He wasn't alone. Two young men were with him, and one of them had a girl in tow.

One of the men grinned at her when the introductions were over. "Where has Bob been hiding you?" he asked. "He knows that your kind of hair is my favorite brand. Now Caroline here has the same kind—not so curly, though. But nice."

Robert spoke easily. "Never believe a word Terry Adams tells you. If you had been a brunette he would have a yen for raven tresses. He's an A-1 publicity man, so he has to practice all the time."

The second man, graver, darker, nodded agreement. "We all lived in the same house one year at college, so we know the young man."

Linda smiled at the girl. Caroline Pickard, her name was. She was a little too thin, and there were dark shadows under her brown eyes. But her face was lovely. Wistful, with a Peter-Pan quality of youth that played around her mouth and flashed in her brown eyes whether she smiled or not.

Plainly she adored the good-natured young man who liked reddish hair. But she was tired. Once she swayed a little and Linda moved toward her. The girl flashed her a grateful smile. Robert, too, caught the movement, and so did Terry Adams. They stepped toward her.

"Are you ill, Caroline, honey?" Terry asked, genuine concern in his voice.

"Not one bit. Just a little tired," she answered. Her voice was lilting, yet oddly serious. "Let's sit down and eat or something. Waiters are passing plates."

Linda watched her carefully. The girl really was ill. Once she crossed her black evening pumps—not really evening pumps, but just black pumps, Linda noticed. And there was a round hole in the bottom of one of them. Because of that she scanned her frock. It was black and good. So were the ornaments she wore.

But those betraying shoes—

Caroline helped herself generously when the waiter came with canapes and sandwiches.

"It's a Manhattan habit always to take caviar when you can get it. There are so many times when you can't," she explained.

Suddenly Linda understood something that the three men, reminiscing about past years, didn't. This girl was hungry. She was trying to make up for the lunch and dinner she had missed and the breakfast she would not have. She was being gay and gallant about it, and eating quickly so her plate would be empty when the waiter came again with his huge silver tray.

But caviar wasn't the thing to eat on an empty stomach. This girl needed milk, eggs, toast.

As though she understood what Linda was thinking, the girl smiled at her and quietly slipped to the floor.

Linda saw the sudden fear and tenderness in Terry's eyes as he stooped to pick up the slight figure. Long, long after, she was to remember, when Caroline needed the comfort of such knowledge.

But at the moment she was swept away by Ronald's voice near by. He was speaking to Sarah.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A CHANCE TO DISCARD

EIGHT TRUMPS divided evenly between your hand and your partner's make a much more desirable situation than five in one hand and three in the other, except in the one rare instance when the outstanding five are all held by one defender. If you have a suit of each kind between you, make a practice of choosing the 4-4 one over the 5-3, except when the former is a minor and the latter a major, and even sometimes then.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1♥	2♣	2♦	Dbl
4♥

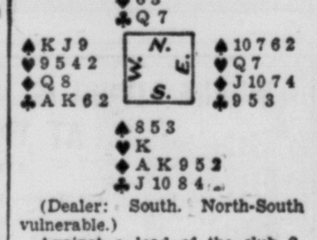

South didn't have a chance to make his heart game. West led his diamond A and 2. East, after taking the Q with the K, led a third diamond, which South ruffed with the 10. Now no matter how he played, he could not help losing one trick in spades and one in clubs, so was down one. There was absolutely no way to get rid of the losing club.

North explained that his partner's reverse bidding showed more hearts than spades, so that he knew the side had at least as many cards in hearts, plus a longer suit for purposes of safety. That is why he showed preference for hearts.

Peculiarly, the very reason why he preferred hearts should have been the reason for preferring spades. With an even balance of trumps in the two hands, there then would have been an unbalance in the side suit. Consequently, with spades as trumps, the losing club could have been thrown from the North hand on a set-up heart, then South's own losing club could have been ruffed.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Against a lead of the club 2, what is South's sound, scientific way to play this hand at a contract of 3-No Trumps?

THE CHARACTERS:

LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with

RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but

• • •

YESTERDAY: Standing in the starlight on a balcony at Sarah's party, Ronald kisses Linda, tells her that he loves her, but then dashes away to lead his band. Sarah appears out of the shadows and says, "I take it that you are trying to land Ronald."

"I always get what I go after, Miss Avery."

CHAPTER FIVE

LINDA WAS living in her moment of glory, swinging close to the stars, as Sarah Markley came to her on the balcony to say: "I take it you are trying to land Ronald."

A deep intuition told her that here was a deadly foe, one who gave no quarter, who took what she wanted, hurt whom she pleased—a foe who was proud of her powers to win whomsoever she wished. And now she wanted Ronnie.

Linda armored her heart with the memory of Ronnie's words which still echoed in the sweet night air: "I love you!"

"I'm not trying to land anyone," she told the girl in the gleaming white satin dress. "I play the old rules. It's much safer to let the men do the pursuing."

Her eyes were as unwavering, her voice as confident as Sarah's.

"And you think I drag men in by the hair, I suppose?" Sarah asked, and Linda saw the anger in her face. Evidently no one before had questioned Sarah's role as belle of the ball.

"I don't think anything at all about you," Linda answered. "After all, we just met. And we both know Ronnie. So—what in the world are we talking about?"

"Do you love Ronnie?" Sarah asked. "But of course you do. Your eyes were like two bonfires when you saw him. I'm warning you. You're trespassing on my territory. Better get out before you get hurt!"

Linda was amazed at her own calmness and daring. "Hurt? Why should I get hurt? Ronnie's nice. He's kind to everybody."

Sarah stamped a small, white satin-shod foot and its rhinestone slipper buckle broke into a thousand pieces of light. Her voice was harsh when she spoke. "I always get what I go after, Miss Avery."

Behind them at that moment Ronnie's trumpet left the band and swung away toward the moon. Out of the world, higher and higher it climbed, mad, gay, reckless, forever groping. Linda knew it was Ronnie who played, although she had not heard him for so many months.

She faced the angry girl in white. "I don't think Ronnie can be had, Miss Markley. He's free, independent, brave, and he belongs to himself. But I came to hear the music. Excuse me."

She went to the dressing room. It was deserted now and her slim, violet reflection met her in a dozen mirrors. She felt curiously limp and defeated. Defeated, although she knew the spoils of this battle were hers. But Sarah would not cease the warfare now. Her heart might lose interest in the game, but her pride would never relinquish it.

"I should have let her talk and said nothing," Linda whispered to the hurt white face that mocked her everywhere. "Then, unless she's serious, she would have forgotten. Unless she's serious—"

Suddenly she was cold. She got her purple wrap from its place on a satin hanger and drew it around her shoulders. She would catch Ronald's eyes across the room when the trumpet ceased and the stars would be near again.

But Ronald was too far away. Once she saw his glance sweep the room. But it didn't find her. When he smiled, Linda followed the direction of the glance. When she saw that it was not Sarah at whom he was smiling, she felt such a rush of relief it left her weak and spent.

Ronald loved her, but Sarah wanted Ronald. And two and two didn't always add up to four in love or war.

She tossed her bright head higher and closed her eyes. She would let the music do what it could to quiet her. But when the impromptu program ended, she answered questions mechanically, smiled too carefully at people she didn't know and probably never would see again.

She was grateful when a firm, tanned hand drew her aside. She knew it was Robert Barton even before she looked. He wasn't alone. Two young men were with him, and one of them had a girl in tow.

One of the men grinned at her when the introductions were over. "Where has Bob been hiding you?" he asked. "He knows that your kind of hair is my favorite brand. Now Caroline here has the same kind—not so curly, though. But nice."

Robert spoke easily. "Never believe a word Terry Adams tells you. If you had been a brunette he would have a yen for raven tresses. He's an A-1 publicity man, so he has to practice all the time."

The second man, graver, darker, nodded agreement. "We all lived in the same house one year at college, so we know the young man."

Linda smiled at the girl. Caroline Pickard, her name was. She was a little too thin, and there were dark shadows under her brown eyes. But her face was lovely. Wistful, with a Peter-Pan quality of youth that played around her mouth and flashed in her brown eyes whether she smiled or not.

Plainly she adored the good-natured young man who liked reddish hair. But she was tired. Once she swayed a little and Linda moved toward her. The girl flashed her a grateful smile. Robert, too, caught the movement, and so did Terry Adams. They stepped toward her.

"Are you ill, Caroline, honey?" Terry asked, genuine concern in his voice.

"Not one bit. Just a little tired," she answered. Her voice was lilting, yet oddly serious. "Let's sit down and eat or something. Waiters are passing plates."

Linda watched her carefully. The girl really was ill. Once she crossed her black evening pumps—not really evening pumps, but just black pumps, Linda noticed. And there was a round hole in the bottom of one of them. Because of that she scanned her frock. It was black and good. So were the ornaments she wore.

But those betraying shoes—

Caroline helped herself generously when the waiter came with canapes and sandwiches.

"It's a Manhattan habit always to take caviar when you can get it. There are so many times when you can't," she explained.

Suddenly Linda understood something that the three men, reminiscing about past years, didn't. This girl was hungry. She was trying to make up for the lunch and dinner she had missed and the breakfast she would not have. She was being gay and gallant about it, and eating quickly so her plate would be empty when the waiter came again with his huge silver tray.

But caviar wasn't the thing to eat on an empty stomach. This girl needed milk, eggs, toast.

As though she understood what Linda was thinking, the girl smiled at her and quietly slipped to the floor.

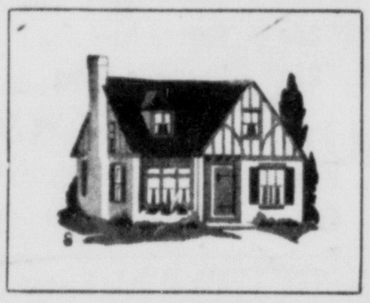

Linda saw the sudden fear and tenderness in Terry's eyes as he stooped to pick up the slight figure. Long, long after, she was to remember, when Caroline needed the comfort of such knowledge.

But at the moment she was swept away by Ronald's voice near by. He was speaking to Sarah.

Safe, Sane and Sissified + + + That's the Barbary Coast

SIMON PURE: The once-notorious Barbary Coast of San Francisco, a sector of silence and ghosts since it was "closed for keeps" in 1921, has come to life again. Conspicuous entrances at each end of the block that once was the heart of the district now proclaim that the name is "International Settlement." Credit for the revival is given to Peter Gavello, a restaurant man. A post-prohibition revival staged by several night clubs was short-lived.

EARLY SETTLER: Isidore Gomez is the only figure of the old days still known to be in the business, and he has moved his bar three blocks away from his former address. Visitors like to come in and shake his hand.

COWBOY MOTIF: Instead of "Spider Kelly's" and "The Bucket of Blood," such places as the "Covered Wagon," now hold sway. Practically all the old resorts not usurped by garages and Chinese laundries once more are opeating.

ALL IS POLITE: Once the scandalous Turkey Trot and Bunny Hug were danced in gaudy Barbary Coast resorts by habitues who drank, fought and flung money to the winds. Bouncers hurled bodies through swinging doors at the risk of hitting passers-by. But all that has been replaced by such scenes as this polite serenade in the La Conga, and elderly ladies who shop for curios with the comforting knowledge that they're as safe as they would be at home.

Safe and Sane Fourth of July Is Advocated

"Harmless" Sparklers Often Cause Personal Injuries and Start Fires

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The Fourth of July has become so comparatively safe that I often hear the view expressed that it is unnecessary to put out scarehead warnings about fireworks precautions. But such a view is not upheld by the facts.

True, things are improving. But there were thirteen deaths in the United States in 1939 directly due to the celebration of the Fourth. This compares well to the eighteen deaths in 1938 and the twenty in 1937, and of course it is heaven compared to other years. But besides deaths there were 5,500 injuries, so the dangers are not entirely fanciful.

Keystone Progress

An example of what can be accomplished by state regulation is seen in Pennsylvania. In 1938 Pennsylvania led all other states with six deaths from fireworks, and in 1939 had passed a statewide law which prohibited all fireworks of any kind. In that year the state reported no Fourth of July deaths, and no loss of vision in eye injuries. It had seventy-four burns and lacerations while Ohio had 319 and New York 1,473.

Maryland, which has had a bad record for many years, had a bill banning fireworks which passed the House of Representatives, but was defeated in the Senate by a vote of fifteen to fourteen. Maryland had one death and 169 injuries reported in 1939, with nine eye injuries and two cases of loss of hand or fingers.

No cases of lockjaw were reported in 1939, which indicates that the use of tetanus antitoxin in every Fourth of July injury which breaks the skin has again proved its value and effectiveness.

Our modern Fourth of July fireworks are apparently mild and quiet compared to the detonations of our youth, but the warning should be emphasized again that the "harmless" sparkler is not so harmless. They start fires, there are accounts in the next day newspapers of children being burned to death from sparklers and other mild-appearing noise-makers.

Any kind of fireworks can put your eyes out; none is so mild as not to be dangerous. Even sadder than the death record is the blindness record of 1939—with nineteen cases of loss of vision in one or both eyes. Certainly, even with "harmless sparklers" or cap pistols, children should not be left unguarded.

Questions and Answers

A. J. B.—"Is there any cure for pellagra?"

Answer—Yes. Nicotinic acid in small doses, under a doctor's supervision, is almost invariably helpful.

D. C.—"Does the excessive use of salt cause high blood pressure? I am 17 years of age and recently I had my pressure taken and found it to be 145. Is this alarmingly high?"

Answer—I do not believe that salt causes high blood pressure but it is found useful in the treatment of the condition when it is established to reduce salt. From your age and the description of your case, I should say that your high blood pressure is secondary to something else. Perhaps increased thyroid secretion. At any rate, it is not excessively high.

Safe, Sane and Sissified + + + That's the Barbary Coast

SIMON PURE: The once-notorious Barbary Coast of San Francisco, a sector of silence and ghosts since it was "closed for keeps" in 1921, has come to life again. Conspicuous entrances at each end of the block that once was the heart of the district now proclaim that the name is "International Settlement." Credit for the revival is given to Peter Gavello, a restaurant man. A post-prohibition revival staged by several night clubs was short-lived.

EARLY SETTLER: Isidore Gomez is the only figure of the old days still known to be in the business, and he has moved his bar three blocks away from his former address. Visitors like to come in and shake his hand.

COWBOY MOTIF: Instead of "Spider Kelly's" and "The Bucket of Blood," such places as the "Covered Wagon," now hold sway. Practically all the old resorts not usurped by garages and Chinese laundries once more are opeating.

ALL IS POLITE: Once the scandalous Turkey Trot and Bunny Hug were danced in gaudy Barbary Coast resorts by habitues who drank, fought and flung money to the winds. Bouncers hurled bodies through swinging doors at the risk of hitting passers-by. But all that has been replaced by such scenes as this polite serenade in the La Conga, and elderly ladies who shop for curios with the comforting knowledge that they're as safe as they would be at home.

Safe and Sane Fourth of July Is Advocated

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The Fourth of July has become so comparatively safe that I often hear the view expressed that it is unnecessary to put out scarehead warnings about fireworks precautions. But such a view is not upheld by the facts.

True, things are improving. But there were thirteen deaths in the United States in 1939 directly due to the celebration of the Fourth. This compares well to the eighteen deaths in 1938 and the twenty in 1937, and of course it is heaven compared to other years. But besides deaths there were 5,500 injuries, so the dangers are not entirely fanciful.

Keystone Progress

An example of what can be accomplished by state regulation is seen in Pennsylvania. In 1938 Pennsylvania led all other states with six deaths from fireworks, and in 1939 had passed a statewide law which prohibited all fireworks of any kind. In that year the state reported no Fourth of July deaths, and no loss of vision in eye injuries. It had seventy-four burns and lacerations while Ohio had 319 and New York 1,473.

Maryland, which has had a bad record for many years, had a bill banning fireworks which passed the House of Representatives, but was defeated in the Senate by a vote of fifteen to fourteen. Maryland had one death and 169 injuries reported in 1939, with nine eye injuries and two cases of loss of hand or fingers.

No cases of lockjaw were reported in 1939, which indicates that the use of tetanus antitoxin in every Fourth of July injury which breaks the skin has again proved its value and effectiveness.

Our modern Fourth of July fireworks are apparently mild and quiet compared to the detonations of our youth, but the warning should be emphasized again that the "harmless" sparkler is not so harmless. They start fires, there are accounts in the next day newspapers of children being burned to death from sparklers and other mild-appearing noise-makers.

Any kind of fireworks can put your eyes out; none is so mild as not to be dangerous. Even sadder than the death record is the blindness record of 1939—with nineteen cases of loss of vision in one or both eyes. Certainly, even with "harmless sparklers" or cap pistols, children should not be left unguarded.

Questions and Answers

A. J. B.—"Is there any cure for pellagra?"

Answer—Yes. Nicotinic acid in small doses, under a doctor's supervision, is almost invariably helpful.

D. C.—"Does the excessive use of salt cause high blood pressure? I am 17 years of age and recently I had my pressure taken and found it to be 145. Is this alarmingly high?"

Answer—I do not believe that salt causes high blood pressure but it is found useful in the treatment of the condition when it is established to reduce salt. From your age and the description of your case, I should say that your high blood pressure is secondary to something else. Perhaps increased thyroid secretion. At any rate, it is not excessively high.

That Willkie Boy's Pranks Disturbed Oldsters Back Home in Indiana---But He Went Places

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

"So you're the girl Wendell's going to marry?" Wendell Willkie's mother said in 1917, when the man who has just stampeded the Republican party was on the trail of his bride-to-be.

Mrs. Willkie was talking to Edith Wilk, spunky, fair-haired blue-eyed girl from Rushville, Ind., a few miles from Elwood, the Willkie home town.

Pranks And Prospects

Edith Wilk stammered, blushed.

"Oh, no, no," she protested. "It must be a mistake. I've just met him. And—well, I never heard anything about it."

"No mistake," laughed Mrs. Willkie. "Wendell's got it all settled. He's told me he had met the girl he was going to marry. He said it would be so easy, because your name is already Wilk."

Second Of Three Articles

This was Edith Wilk's introduction to life with the man-always-in-a-hurry who, then, never seemed to know where he was going.

Later on, in 1918, after Wendell had volunteered and before he went to France with the field artillery, she went to training camp to visit her fiance. Her aunt went along as a chaperone and it was the aunt who came away starry-eyed.

"He's—why he's going to a great man," sand aunty. The Willkies were married before "Win" went to France.

"Win" Willkie had a way with people, only in his youth he was always messing up his promising future with escapades that made even good friends despair. There was the time when, as college pranksters, he and his brother took on the entire police force of Bloomington, Ind., with their bare fists—and landed in jail.

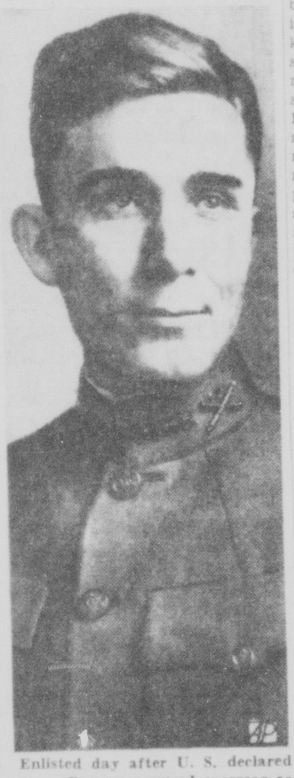

This Indiana Girl was Edith Wilk . . .

Chased From Germany

All biographers of Wendell Willkie tell you of the Willkie family beginnings. All four of Willkie's

Enlisted day after U. S. declared war on Germany served overseas as captain in 324th Field Artillery.

Protestant grandparents were chased out of Germany when the Democrats lost the revolution of 1848.

Willkie's father settled in 1885 in Elwood, Ind. There were reared the six children of the present Willkie generation—four boys (every one a success in the accepted American sense) and two girls (ditto).

Elwood early gave up any thought of adjusting the Willkies to conventional small-town life, and more or less accustomed itself to the Willkies.

By the time Win was ten, the mothers of the town had grown used to having the noses of their children bloodied by one of those Willkie kids; had quit stopping at the gate to gawk at all eight of the Willkie clan immersed deep and satisfied in their own performance of some Shakespearian play in the side yard of their home.

The elder Willkie ascended and descended with the Elwood gas boom, but with his wife — the first woman admitted to the bar of Indiana—he hung out a shingle and managed to educate the children, while cleaning up the town's organized vice.

Slow To Decide

But the father believed children should work to find their own niche. The children did, but Win was slow making up his mind.

He entered Indiana University, at fifteen, couldn't decide whether it was Jeffersonian democracy he was for, or socialism. Between sessions, he tramped the great West, learned to play a decastating game of poker earned his way in harvest fields, hotel kitchens, mining camps, tent hotels, and industrial plants.

After college came a lean season or two as history teacher in Cofgeyville, Kan. Still keenly aware of his father's losses in the Elwood gas collapse, he decided to make money, and thus make himself free. So he returned to Bloomington and law school.

Then came his marriage and war experience. Home from France, the great decision was in front of him.

Should he, or should he not, turn on that personal magnetism of his and run for Congress?

"You should not," lectured Frank C. Dailey, Indianapolis lawyer.

"But what—?" queried Willkie.

"Leave that to me," said Dailey.

He Didn't Get Away

Willkie did. His decision to abide by the Dailey counsel was the turning point in his life. Dailey got Willkie a job as a lawyer with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., in Akron, Ohio. There he cut a wide swath attired in his big black Bill Borah hat, he argued for big corporations in courtrooms, and for human liberties off duty and on. By now he was an active Democrat, in politics. In a short few years he was a lawyer in a most successful firm, and the eyes of one of the country's biggest utility magnates were on him.

"Don't let him get away from us," pleaded B. C. Cobb, the Commonwealth & Southern executive, with his Ohio friends.

And so the star of Wendell Willkie rose in the financial heavens, carried him to New York in 1930 and to the fight of his life—up to now: his defense of his own utility system against the New Deal TVA in the Tennessee valley.

Tomorrow. Willkie and what he calls cock-eyed law.

The parish council of Bilsington, England, has used the same check for forty-five years; has issued only fifty-seven checks.

This was Edith Wilk's introduction to life with the man-always-in-a-hurry who, then, never seemed to know where he was going.

Later on, in 1918, after Wendell had volunteered and before he went to France with the field artillery, she went to training camp to visit her fiance. Her aunt went along as a chaperone and it was the aunt who came away starry-eyed.

"He's—why he's going to a great man," sand aunty. The Willkies were married before "Win" went to France.

"Win" Willkie had a way with people, only in his youth he was always messing up his promising future with escapades that made even good friends despair. There was the time when, as college pranksters, he and his brother took on the entire police force of Bloomington, Ind., with their bare fists—and landed in jail.

Chased From Germany

All biographers of Wendell Willkie tell you of the Willkie family beginnings. All four of Willkie's

Enlisted day after U. S. declared war on Germany served overseas as captain in 324th Field Artillery.

Protestant grandparents were chased out of Germany when the Democrats lost the revolution of 1848.

Willkie's father settled in 1885 in Elwood, Ind. There were reared the six children of the present Willkie generation—four boys (every one a success in the accepted American sense) and two girls (ditto).

Elwood early gave up any thought of adjusting the Willkies to conventional small-town life, and more or less accustomed itself to the Willkies.

By the time Win was ten, the mothers of the town had grown used to having the noses of their children bloodied by one of those Willkie kids; had quit stopping at the gate to gawk at all eight of the Willkie clan immersed deep and satisfied in their own performance of some Shakespearian play in the side yard of their home.

The elder Willkie ascended and descended with the Elwood gas boom, but with his wife — the first woman admitted to the bar of Indiana—he hung out a shingle and managed to educate the children, while cleaning up the town's organized vice.

Slow To Decide

But the father believed children should work to find their own niche. The children did, but Win was slow making up his mind.

He entered Indiana University, at fifteen, couldn't decide whether it was Jeffersonian democracy he was for, or socialism. Between sessions, he tramped the great West, learned to play a decastating game of poker earned his way in harvest fields, hotel kitchens, mining camps, tent hotels, and industrial plants.

After college came a lean season or two as history teacher in Cofgeyville, Kan. Still keenly aware of his father's losses in the Elwood gas collapse, he decided to make money, and thus make himself free. So he returned to Bloomington and law school.

Then came his marriage and war experience. Home from France, the great decision was in front of him.

Should he, or should he not, turn on that personal magnetism of his and run for Congress?

"You should not," lectured Frank C. Dailey, Indianapolis lawyer.

"But what—?" queried Willkie.

"Leave that to me," said Dailey.

He Didn't Get Away

Willkie did. His decision to abide by the Dailey counsel was the turning point in his life. Dailey got Willkie a job as a lawyer with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., in Akron, Ohio. There he cut a wide swath attired in his big black Bill Borah hat, he argued for big corporations in courtrooms, and for human liberties off duty and on. By now he was an active Democrat, in politics. In a short few years he was a lawyer in a most successful firm, and the eyes of one of the country's biggest utility magnates were on him.

"Don't let him get away from us," pleaded B. C. Cobb, the Commonwealth & Southern executive, with his Ohio friends.

And so the star of Wendell Willkie rose in the financial heavens, carried him to New York in 1930 and to the fight of his life—up to now: his defense of his own utility system against the New Deal TVA in the Tennessee valley.

Tomorrow: Willkie and what he calls cock-eyed law.

The parish council of Bilsington, England, has used the same check for forty-five years; has issued only fifty-seven checks.

GALS WHO WEAR GLASSES

Old Sol Can't Chase the Stars From Their Eyes

By HELEN FOLLETT

● WEAR DARK GLASSES when subjected to strong sunlight. Not only for the sake of protecting your soul lanterns, little one, but so you won't cultivate a crop of turkey tracks. Squinting raises the dickens with the soft tissues around the eyes. Tiny accordion pleats appear; they are not just in the skin, they dig down into the fibers and when once well established they have no intention of being ousted.

Eyes Need It

If the eyelids look shriveled you must be especially on guard. Shows that depletion is going on. Maybe you are not getting enough groceries of the right kind, or you're cutting down on regular hours of sleep. No woman can afford to disregard the laws of health. If she does she'll pay, and what she pays will go into the money tills of beauty shops.

Not only your complexion needs a lift with sun cheaters, but your eyes themselves. Lots of damage can be done by consistent wearing of glasses which, while warding off sunrays, fail to keep your vision properly under control.

Up to this season, the best way around this impasse has been a pair of sun specs made by your oculist—and for eyes that need special attention, this plan is still the best. But for eyes that behave themselves in practically normal manner, one can supply sun glasses from the shop counters, glasses with scientifically ground and highly polished lenses which don't rob Peter to pay Paul.

Get the habit of carrying sun glasses whenever you go out during the dogday season. White buildings even in the midst of the city glare back at you; a whiz through white clouds in the upper ether when you travel by plane is just as dazzling. It's not feasible to swim while wearing sun glasses, but many an incipient squint can be stopped on the first line if one cultivates wearing glasses while lolling on the beach between dips.

There are two schools of design for sun glasses, with many variations for each. The elfin, sloe-eyed type, its original designed by a young woman from Manhattan named Altina Sanders, is very becoming. So is the goggle type, which makes headlight covers for each eye and shocks the beholder into attention. Plastic rims, definitely heavy though perhaps of white, crystal or a pastel color, are almost invariable.

It's a woman's whim to make her sun-glasses as conspicuous and attractive as possible. So, say it with goggles.

Nip 'Em First

Even before lines have formed it is wise to use a heavy cream at bedtime, patting it in lightly. Place the first finger on the upper eyelid close to the nose, sweep out to the temple, come back underneath the eye to the starting point. While the cream remains on, frisk an ice cube over the skin. Regular care of this sort, together with exercise and fresh air, should stave off wrinkles until a woman is 100 years old. At that age she probably won't mind them.

* * *

Mrs. Hippy can roll away her mid-section fullness. She should lie on the floor on her back, hands at the sides, lift the right foot and roll to the left, stretching her leg so she feels a whale of a muscle pull. After she touches the floor with her toes, back to first position. Repeat ten times. Then the same routine with the left leg.

Rolling, together with muscular exertion, takes the life out of fat cells. They can't stand disturbances. Manipulations with a rolling pin will dissolve them if they are formed near the surface and if treatments are continued long enough. Don't let fat cells set.

Shave a Day Might Keep Divorce Away

Man Should Consider His Family and Have Neat Appearance

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Whether a man will kiss his wife daily or not, he can't afford to be a porcupine. He should remember that she has to look at him occasionly, and if there are children they should be considered. A certain little girl of two told her father she didn't want to kiss her any more because of the "slivers on his face." That's an awful price to pay for laziness.

One good way for a man and wife to keep alive their mutual affections is for each to strive to exercise the nice amenities of their earlier sweetheart days. All too many married couples, after the glow of the honeymoon has dimmed, will let themselves lower to the level of the commonplace; and in this respect the man is probably worse than the woman. All of us husbands need constantly to discipline ourselves to exercise at home proper personal neatness and the social graces. If only we could hold ourselves strictly to good manners toward our loved ones.

Sprucer-Upper

When in any or all these matters we grow slovenly, we bespeak our laxity in regard for the other's personality, and this in turn renders us less tolerant of the other and more ready to be disagreeable.

Once I was an unexpected guest in a certain lovely home, arriving before the father did. Soon I heard footsteps in the kitchen, then on the back stairs. The mother explained that it was her husband.

"You see, because of his work, his hands and clothes are soiled when he comes home, and he never wants me or the children to greet him until he has shaved, bathed, and put on fresh clothes."

Later he arrived looking uptop, having prepared not for company but for the family; for he did not know a guest was present until I met him. The mother was attractively, but simply attired too.

How fine if all fathers, even those from offices, were as eager to look well on meeting the family; and if mothers likewise always looked their best, if possible, to welcome the husband.

Cheap Enough

Soap and water are very cheap. Almost anyone can afford a daily bath, and fresh garments. Such essentials to human happiness need to be denied no one who really cares. The major investment is a little effort at self-discipline. I believe these matters count. Don't you?

Now it might be difficult for a wife to reform a husband who has grown slovenly. Her best way, however, is to express warmly affectionate approval when he does "spruce up"—a good time for her to exercise her feminine charms on him. Looking forward, she might be able to bring up her son to exercise great self-discipline in these matters.

I still have some copies of a selected list of books on marriage, education for marriage, and how to make a go of it—to be had by writing me at 235 East 45th Street New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. In like manner you may receive a list of books on vocations, choice of them and preparation.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you spank a young child for climbing up in a high chair at the table?

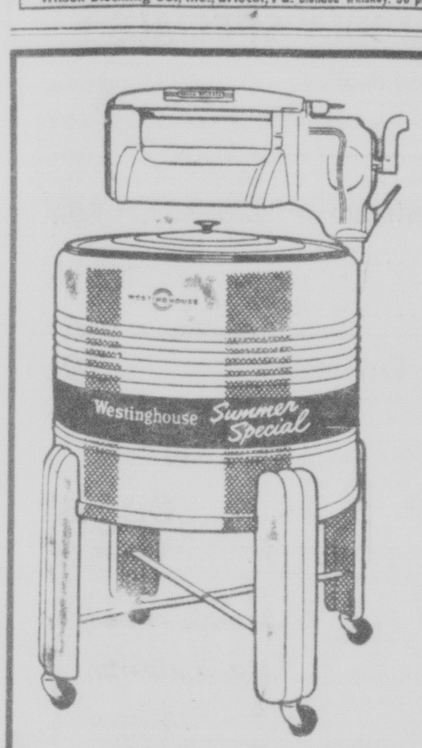

A. No. While spanking might easily correct this problem, the danger is that pain might connect up with eating and, therefore, cause new problems. Better rule out spanking from eating and toilet problems. Buy or make a strong harness to hold the child in the high chair.

Shave a Day Might Keep Divorce Away

Man Should Consider His Family and Have Neat Appearance

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Whether a man will kiss his wife daily or not, he can't afford to be a porcupine. He should remember that she has to look at him occasionly, and if there are children they should be considered. A certain little girl of two told her father she didn't want to kiss her any more because of the "slivers on his face." That's an awful price to pay for laziness.

One good way for a man and wife to keep alive their mutual affections is for each to strive to exercise the nice amenities of their earlier sweetheart days. All too many married couples, after the glow of the honeymoon has dimmed, will let themselves lower to the level of the commonplace; and in this respect the man is probably worse than the woman. All of us husbands need constantly to discipline ourselves to exercise at home proper personal neatness and the social graces. If only we could hold ourselves strictly to good manners toward our loved ones.

Sprucer-Upper

When in any or all these matters we grow slovenly, we bespeak our laxity in regard for the other's personality, and this in turn renders us less tolerant of the other and more ready to be disagreeable.

Once I was an unexpected guest in a certain lovely home, arriving before the father did. Soon I heard footsteps in the kitchen, then on the back stairs. The mother explained that it was her husband.

"You see, because of his work, his hands and clothes are soiled when

STYLE HINTS FROM LOS ANGELES

This three-piece slacks suit, modeled by Elizabeth Earl, film player, exemplifies one of the style trends that Los Angeles has made popular in America. The middy top of blue denim has two patch pockets; the collar and the short sleeves are edged with white braid. The suit has trimly cut shorts that watch the slacks.

Out of Los Angeles comes this 1940 swim suit that has all the dressmaker touches of a play suit. It's made of brown-dotted white seersucker and is worn by Helen Parrish of the movies. Underneath the shorts, which are held at the waist by a lastex band, are jersey panties. The bra has puffed sleeves and a square neckline.

Squirrels Eat Grass! Cows Given Relief

HELENA, Mont.—There are so so many ground squirrels in the Blossburg grazing area of the Helena national forest that they eat more grass than the cows do, says W. E. Fry, assistant forest supervisor.

He's sent a crew of twenty-two CCC boys to do something about the situation. The squirrels, he said, number about twenty to the acre, in a 5,000-acre territory.

I DON'T HAVE TO COAX MY FAMILY TO EAT THIS BRAN

Its delicious flavor makes it a real treat

If you've considered eating bran a chore, you've got a surprise coming when you taste National Biscuit 100% Bran. It's so good, you'll eat it because you love it! You'll appreciate, too, the gentle way this double-milled bran helps relieve constipation caused by insufficient dietary bulk. If your constipation is not helped in this simple manner, consult a competent physician.

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9438

Young things—forever on the lookout for a style that's new . . . exciting . . . different—will fall in love at first sight with this captivating Marian Martin cape-style. Pattern 9438. For one thing, the frock both buttons down the front and has a suntan back! Then although the lines are gracefully curved princess-type, there are slantwise waist seams at each side-front for extra smooth bodice fit and extra free skirt flare. The rounded, buttoned yoke in back holds the low-cut neck trim. Add a back-buttoned belt, if you like. And you migh try the front panels and back yoke in lively contrast. The two topmost buttons in front serve to fasten on the dashing military cape.

Pattern 9438 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, dress, requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

The new Marian Martin pattern book is you key to summer fashion success. Cool, flattering models that will take you 'round the clock through shopping, gardening, swimming, golfing, dancing. There are blithe styles for sheers and cottons, slimming matron dresses, travel tips, wedding party costumes and . . . a whole section of young-world playsuits and dresses . . . available in smart, easy - to - sew patterns that can be made at home in a few hours. How Is Started

DENVER (AP)—Charles Peterson, billiards expert, believes he knows where the expression "behind the eight ball," originated.

Peterson said a New York bank clerk named Allie Flint was responsible. Flint generally ran into hard luck at lunch hour billiard games, consistently drawing a high number. Finally, in desperation, he cried: "I'm always behind the eight ball."

Americans Always Give Uncle Sam Bang-Up Birthday Parties

Colonists gave the Fourth of July an hilarious start in 1776. Liberty Bell cracked in 1835, and they quit ringing it. But guns, bands, fireworks, orators kept on booming every Fourth. Maybe in recent years the holiday has tamed down in the interests of safety. In case you've forgotten the old days, here are reminders from the album—

Wall Street's celebration of the first Fourth in 1776, before days of stock market.

Nazis Seek To Extend Economic System

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) — A German order for American and other diplomatic missions to get out of four occupied countries by July 15 was interpreted in informed quarters tonight as a further step in the creation of a broaded Nazi economic system in Europe.

The official attitude of this government toward the new order applying to Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway and Luxenbourg was not disclosed. In the case of Poland, a more sweeping order applying to consulate as well as diplomatic missions was compiled with under protest.

Embassy and legation staffs, with the exception of Ambassador John Cudahy at Brussels and Minister George A. Gordon at the Hague apparently could remain in their status as consulate officials. The Oslo legation is under a charge d'affaires, Raymond E. Cox. Ambassador Cudahy has charge of Luxenbourg.

TODAY'S GARDENGRAPH

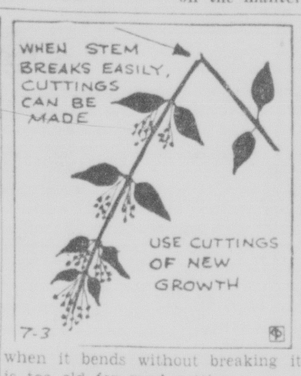

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Distributed by Central Press Association)

Propagating Catmint

Nepeta mussini, or catmint, is an old garden favorite, used in the rock garden, for bedding purposes or as a border plant. It can be shaped by shearing for formal effects.

Catmint can easily be propagated from cutings. The best time to make such cuttings is when the stem breaks easily instead of bending, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. When the stem crushes instead of snapping, it is too young for cutting purposes, and when it bends without breaking it is too old for good cuttings.

Use cuttings of the new growth and cut one-fourth to one-half inch below a leaf or pair of leaves. Remove the lower leaves of the cutting and plant in sand, in a cold frame. For the first few weeks protect catmint from drafts and sun. Keep the sand moist and give the cuttings ample ventilation.

When making cuttings plant them immediately or they will wilt. Do not try to keep them from wilting by placing them in a pail of water as this will do more harm than good.

O'Conor Denies He Said Printing Could Be Done without Bids

ANNAPOLIS, MD., July 2 (AP) — Governor O'Conor has denied that he had "taken the position" that the Maryland Publicity Commission could award contracts for printing without competitive bidding.

"I have noted a statement attributed to Max Chambers, of Preston, who declared that a question had arisen as a result of which I had read the law at a previous meeting of the commission," the governor asserted.

(Chambers, a commission member, yesterday held O'Conor and E. Lester Muller, commission chairman, "responsible" for the awarding of a printing contract to G. Alfred Peters, Jr., also a commission member, without competitive bidding.)

"Mr. Chambers is mistaken if he asserts that I took the position that the general budget law did not apply to the Publicity Commission. x x x Under no circumstances could the publicity commission be exempted by any official from the operation of the general budget law . . ."

O'Conor added that he was determined to see that the general budget law was observed. He said Muller would confer with Walter N. Kirkman, budget director, who had held up payment of the printing bill.

Enthusiastic Cumberlanders are still talking of an event which happened a year ago!

A year ago today we instituted a new idea in local transportation . . . . a plan designed to bring the added convenience of safe, swift taxi service within the means of the average citizen of Cumberland.

To accomplish our aim, it was necessary that we establish a uniform rate . . . the rate to be so low a man and his party could travel cross-town more economically than by any other means which prevailed at that time. We did this, and our records show overwhelming acceptance.

Americans Always Give Uncle Sam Bang-Up Birthday Parties

Colonists gave the Fourth of July an hilarious start in 1776. Liberty Bell cracked in 1835, orators kept on booming every Fourth. Maybe in recent years the holiday has tamed down in the interests of safety. In case you've forgotten the old days, here are reminders from the album—

Wall Street's celebration of the first Fourth in 1776, before days of stock market.

Nazis Seek To Extend Economic System

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) — A German order for American and other diplomatic missions to get out of four occupied countries by July 15 was interpreted in informed quarters tonight as a further step in the creation of a broaded Nazi economic system in Europe.

The official attitude of this government toward the new order applying to Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway and Luxenbourg was not disclosed. In the case of Poland, a more sweeping order applying to consulate as well as diplomatic missions was compiled with under protest.

Embassy and legation staffs, with the exception of Ambassador John Cudahy at Brussels and Minister George A. Gordon at the Hague apparently could remain in their status as consulate officials. The Oslo legation is under a charge d'affaires, Raymond E. Cox. Ambassador Cudahy has charge of Luxenbourg.

TODAY'S GARDENGRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Distributed by Central Press Association)

Propagating Catmint

Nepeta mussini, or catmint, is an old garden favorite, used in the rock garden, for bedding purposes or as a border plant. It can be shaped by shearing for formal effects.

Catmint can easily be propagated from cutings. The best time to make such cuttings is when the stem breaks easily instead of bending, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. When the stem crushes instead of snapping, it is too young for cutting purposes, and when it bends without breaking it is too old for good cuttings.

Use cuttings of the new growth and cut one-fourth to one-half inch below a leaf or pair of leaves. Remove the lower leaves of the cutting and plant in sand, in a cold frame. For the first few weeks protect catmint from drafts and sun. Keep the sand moist and give the cuttings ample ventilation.

When making cuttings plant them immediately or they will wilt. Do not try to keep them from wilting by placing them in a pail of water as this will do more harm than good.

O'Conor Denies He Said Printing Could Be Done without Bids

ANNAPOLIS, MD., July 2 (AP) — Governor O'Conor has denied that he had "taken the position" that the Maryland Publicity Commission could award contracts for printing without competitive bidding.

"I have noted a statement attributed to Max Chambers, of Preston, who declared that a question had arisen as a result of which I had read the law at a previous meeting of the commission," the governor asserted.

(Chambers, a commission member, yesterday held O'Conor and E. Lester Muller, commission chairman, "responsible" for the awarding of a printing contract to G. Alfred Peters, Jr., also a commission member, without competitive bidding.)

"Mr. Chambers is mistaken if he asserts that I took the position that the general budget law did not apply to the Publicity Commission. x x x Under no circumstances could the publicity commission be exempted by any official from the operation of the general budget law . . ."

O'Conor added that he was determined to see that the general budget law was observed. He said Muller would confer with Walter N. Kirkman, budget director, who had held up payment of the printing bill.

Enthusiastic Cumberlanders are still talking of an event which happened a year ago!

A year ago today we instituted a new idea in local transportation . . . . a plan designed to bring the added convenience of safe, swift taxi service within the means of the average citizen of Cumberland.

To accomplish our aim, it was necessary that we establish a uniform rate . . . the rate to be so low a man and his party could travel cross-town more economically than by any other means which prevailed at that time. We did this, and our records show overwhelming acceptance.

Drive Is Started Against Speeders

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 2 (AP) A no-quarter drive against speeders and drinking drivers by every state trooper will be undertaken in an effort to keep down July fourth highway fatalities, Superintendent C. C. Tallman said today.

Mindful of last week-end, in which eight traffic deaths occurred, Tallman said all facilities of the department will be concentrated upon enforcement of motor vehicle laws over the holiday.

"A celebrant who attempts to drive an automobile while he is under the influence of intoxicants is a menace and will be treated as such," Tallman said.

The superintendent also warned that pedestrians "must be prepared to get out of the way of dangerous drivers."

William Miller Signs Lease on 239 Acres of Land Near Hyndman, Pa.

Expects To Mine and Ship Silica Sand to Glass Factories Soon

HYNDMAN Pa., July 2—William M. Miller, a retired B. & O. employee, Smithfield, who is well known among the older residents of this community, came to Hyndman, Monday, and closed a ten-year lease with Mrs. Tenia Logsdon and her son, George H. Kennell, for their 239-acre Wills Mountain timber-land, located one mile south of here, bordering on Wills Creek.

Some time this summer or autumn, Mr. Miller intends to install a tipple and necessary machinery, and start mining silica sand for shipment to glass factories west of here. This lease brought to an end, negotiations that have been under way for many months.

The lease is on a royalty basis. One clause in his contract will permit him to buy the Logsdon-Kennell tract in its entirety, if the yield and quality of sand measures up to his expectations.

The prospective site for the tipple is adjacent to the right-of-way both of the Pennsylvania Railroad and of the B. & O. Switches will therefore beinstalled on one or both of these railroads, according to present plans, so that cars from both routes can be loaded conveniently at the quarry. Other terms of the lease demand its forfeiture in case operations are not actually commenced within a year.

MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN

Dorothy Ebersole

Shot through the temple, the body of Dorothy Ebersole, 18, was found in the bathroom of her Bronx, N. Y. home. The door was locked from within. A bloodstained .22-calibre gun was found beneath the window, but the girl was killed by a .32-calibre bullet, found embedded in the wall. The girl's brother is in prison for a Dead End Kid killing and the mystified police sought to link the two slayings.

Cheese Factory At Grantsville Is Discussed

Council Agrees To Extend Water and Sewer Lines to the Plant

GRANTSVILLE, July 2.—At the meeting of the Mayor and Town Council last evening the chief topic for discussion was the cheese factory which is opening here. John I. Clark, of the Blairsville Sanitary Dairy Co., Blairsville, Pa., appeared before the body in regard to extending water and sewer lines to the Grantsville Planing Mill property where the new plant is to be located.

The council agreed to provide these facilities and work on the project is to be started at once. Notices have been posted for bids to be submitted by Monday, July 8. The extension is to be approximately 414 feet long and average five feet in depth.

Mr. Clark said they expected to begin installing machinery as soon as the lumber was removed from the building, where it is now stored, and that they would star operations as soon as possible.

Further plans for painting the water tank were completed at this time and several other matters were also brought up, among them being the building of a new jail at Grantsville, but no definite decisions were arrived at and they were tabled until the next meeting.

Personals

Tucker Board Rejects Bids

Refuse To Accept Price Offered for School Property in Parsons

PARSONS, W. Va., July 2—The Tucker county board of education rejected two bids on school lots and buildings and approved one at the meeting of the board held Monday evening in the offices of the school superintendent.

A bid of $535 by J. W. Minear on the lot formerly occupied by the Parsons grade school was rejected, and a bid of $200 by Sheriff Stark L. Coberly on the former Hendricks grade school building and lots was also rejected. The board approved Coberly's bid of $300 on the former Hambleton grade school building and lot.

A new school has been erected midway between Hambleton and Hendricks to care for the pupils of the two schools, and the Parsons students are using the former Parsons high school building.

Dr. Jones Speaks

Dr. Charles Jones, Elkins, spoke at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club, Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The club originally planned to meet in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Hendricks, but changed the meeting place to Hinebaugh's Restaurant.

Guests were Mrs. Homer May, and son and Joe L. Vincent, Salem, W. Va.

Brief Items

Frank Simmons, about fifty, Hendricks, was arraigned before Justice Hedrick Monday charged with a statutory offense by a fourteen-year -old Hendricks girl. After a hearing of the case, Hedrick reduced the charges to an adultry charge and fined Simmons $20 and costs. The arrest was made by Constable D. E. Crosten.

Druggists Urged To Pay More Attention To Merchandising

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—West Virginia druggists were urged to pay more attention to merchandising and guard against encrochments of other types of stores by speakers at an annual convention today.

John R. Bromwell, survey chief of the Curtis Publishing Company, suggested druggists devote as much time to merchandising as to their prescription departments "lest smarter, more aggressive merchandisers steal your business from under your nose."

Independent drug stores must recoup through merchandising the cosmetic and toiletries volume "taken by chain, department and syndicate stores," Joseph J. Shine, secretary of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association, told the group.

Discussing new laws applying to food, drugs and cosmetics, F. W. Irish, member of the Food and Drug Administration, declared "the right of self-medication is recognized" and "the Food and Drug Administration has no intention of policing drug stores."

Change Is Made At Insistence Of Merchants

Business Men Requested To Not Sell Fireworks after July 4

LONACONING July 2—Repealing an ordinance governing the sale of fireworks within the town's limits, the mayor and town council at its regular monthly meeting last night, requested that merchants refrain from placing on sale any fireworks after midnight, July 4. The merchants also were asked to compiy with the state fireworks law.

The ordinance prohibited the sale or use of fireworks five days before July 4, and also, that the sale of same should be discontinued at midnight, July 4. At the insistence of merchants who had a large stock on hand the council decided to repeal the ordinance, which leaves the town without a law governing fireworks.

Although protests to the ordinance had been made prior to last night's meeting, a delegation of merchants appeared before the council and once more offered their objections to the law.

Improvements Asked

A large number of citizens requested improvements to streets in different sections of the town. One group from the Island street section asked that a bridge across the George's creek, connecting the Island section with the George's Creek boulevard, be constructed. This same request has been made before, but the council has not been able to locate a suitable bridge for this project, the mayor announced.

The city clerk was instructed to communicate with the State Roads Commission and the Allegany County Commissioners in an effort to purchase a span from either body. Several steel bridges in the county are being replaced by modern ones and it is believed that the town may be able to purchase one of them for the Island street project.

The street commitee was authorized to take steps for the improvement of Allegany street from the NYA community centre building to the corporate limits. Authorization for the purchase or decorative material for the city hall for July 4 and the state firemen's convention was given. In as much as this is clean-up week, the mayor announced that anyone wishing refuse hauled away to communicate with the city clerk as early as possible.

To Prohibit Parking

Mayor Laird also announced that parking on the main streets of the town would be prohibited after midnight Saturday to allow members of Goodwill Fire Company, No. 1, to wash the streets in preparation for the coming celebration. No cars will be allowed to park from midnight until 7 a. m. Sunday. Violators will have their cars tagged and towed to a public garage, the expense to be borne by the owner. A committee from the fire company announced that they would start washing the street about 10:30 p. m., Saturday in the East section, where only a few cars are parked.

Drivers Warned

Mayor Laird also stated that charges of disturbing the peace will be placed against drivers who insist on incessan blowing of their automobile horns duirng the early morning hours when Celanese employees are preparing to go to work on the day shift. Numerous complaints have been made, the mayor said.

Band To Meet

The Lonaconing City Band which is preparing for its part in the Firemen's convention will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 for practice instead of Thursday night as announced. The band will meet in their quarters off Main street.

Cheese Factory At Grantsville Is Discussed

Council Agrees To Extend Water and Sewer Lines to the Plant

GRANTSVILLE, July 2.—At the meeting of the Mayor and Town Council last evening the chief topic for discussion was the cheese factory which is opening here. John I. Clark, of the Blairsville Sanitary Dairy Co., Blairsville, Pa., appeared before the body in regard to extending water and sewer lines to the Grantsville Planing Mill property where the new plant is to be located.

The council agreed to provide these facilities and work on the project is to be started at once. Notices have been posted for bids to be submitted by Monday, July 8. The extension is to be approximately 414 feet long and average five feet in depth.

Mr. Clark said they expected to begin installing machinery as soon as the lumber was removed from the building, where it is now stored, and that they would star operations as soon as possible.

Further plans for painting the water tank were completed at this time and several other matters were also brought up, among them being the building of a new jail at Grantsville, but no definite decisions were arrived at and they were tabled until the next meeting.

Druggists Urged To Pay More Attention To Merchandising

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—West Virginia druggists were urged to pay more attention to merchandising and guard against encrochments of other types of stores by speakers at an annual convention today.

John R. Bromwell, survey chief of the Curtis Publishing Company, suggested druggists devote as much time to merchandising as to their prescription departments "lest smarter, more aggressive merchandisers steal your business from under your nose."

Independent drug stores must recoup through merchandising the cosmetic and toiletries volume "taken by chain, department and syndicate stores," Joseph J. Shine, secretary of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association, told the group.

Discussing new laws applying to food, drugs and cosmetics, F. W. Irish, member of the Food and Drug Administration, declared "the right of self-medication is recognized" and "the Food and Drug Administration has no intention of policing drug stores."

Change Is Made At Insistence Of Merchants

Business Men Requested To Not Sell Fireworks after July 4

LONACONING, July 2—Repealing an ordinance governing the sale of fireworks within the town's limits, the mayor and town council at its regular monthly meeting last night, requested that merchants refrain from placing on sale any fireworks after midnight, July 4. The merchants also were asked to comply with the state fireworks law.

The ordinance prohibited the sale or use of fireworks five days before July 4, and also, that the sale of same should be discontinued at midnight, July 4. At the insistence of merchants who had a large stock on hand the council decided to repeal the ordinance, which leaves the town without a law governing fireworks.

Although protests to the ordinance had been made prior to last night's meeting, a delegation of merchants appeared before the council and once more offered their objections to the law.

Improvements Asked

A large number of citizens requested improvements to streets in different sections of the town. One group from the Island street section asked that a bridge across the George's creek, connecting the Island section with the George's Creek boulevard, be constructed. This same request has been made before, but the council has not been able to locate a suitable bridge for this project, the mayor announced. The city clerk was instructed to communicate with the State Roads Commission and the Allegany County Commissioners in an effort to purchase a span from either body. Several steel bridges in the county are being replaced by modern ones and it is believed that the town may be able to purchase one of them for the Island street project.

The street commitee was authorized to take steps for the improvement of Allegany street from the NYA community centre building to the corporate limits. William Miller Signs Lease on 239 Acres of Land Near Hyndman, Pa.

Expects To Mine and Ship Silica Sand to Glass Factories Soon

HYNDMAN, Pa., July 2—William M. Miller, a retired B. & O. employee, Smithfield, who is well known among the older residents of this community, came to Hyndman, Monday, and closed a ten-year lease with Mrs. Tenia Logsdon and her son, George H. Kennell, for their 239-acre Wills Mountain timber-land, located one mile south of here, bordering on Wills Creek.

Some time this summer or autumn, Mr. Miller intends to install a tipple and necessary machinery, and start mining silica sand for shipment to glass factories west of here. This lease brought to an end, negotiations that have been under way for many months.

The lease is on a royalty basis. One clause in his contract will permit him to buy the Logsdon-Kennell tract in its entirety, if the yield and quality of sand measures up to his expectations.

The prospective site for the tipple is adjacent to the right-of-way both of the Pennsylvania Railroad and of the B. & O. Switches will therefore beinstalled on one or both of these railroads, according to present plans, so that cars from both routes can be loaded conveniently at the quarry. Other terms of the lease demand its forfeiture in case operations are not actually commenced within a year.

New Patriotic Radio Feature Is Scheduled

Considerable Shifting of the Programs Is Announced

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, July 2—The Wednesday schedule of the networks will encounter a considerable amount of shifting tomorrow. Included is the introduction of a new patriotic series. By networks, here is what is going to happen:

WJZ-NBC—7 p. m. "This, Our America," dramatic series to depict "the human and material resources which have given the U. S. the greatest civilization the world has known and which now are being marshaled into a vast defense program to insure continuance of that civilization." The program is under the cooperation of the National Resources Planning board.

Playhouse Offering

WEAF-NBC—7 Hollywood Playhouse summer series with Jim Ameche and Gale Page; 8 Fred Allen substitute summer series by the comedians, Abbott and Costello, Peter van Steeden to continue with the orchestra, but the program to be only 30 minutes; 8:30 Mr. District Attorney, moved from Thursdays; 10:15 Stars of the summer night, new astronomy series.

WABC-CBS—8 Theater of Stars reduced to 30 minutes for the summer, program to be built around David Broekman's orchestra; 8:30 first of a series of Lewisohn stadium concerts.

From Europe

Europe schedule, subject to change; NBC 7 a. m., 12:45, 11 p. m.; CBS 7 a. m., 5:45, 7:55 9:30 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 6:15, 6:45; WJZ-NBC 9; MBS 9.

Discussion: WJZ-NBC 1 p. m. National Education association convention; CBS 3 p. m. Lecture hall, Rep. T. V. Smith; WABC-CBS 9:15, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, interview on pension plan.

Added to the Wednesday schedule of WJZ-NBC at 8:30 is a talk by Sen. James A. Byrnes of North Carolina on "America Wants Preparedness—Not Politics."

Democrats Flay Willkie, Assert They Can Beat Him

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) — Democrats denounced Wendell L. Willkie here as a "champion of disunity" and said they could beat him "easily" — statements which stirred the Republican presidential nominee to say that they 'must have the jitters."

Political speechmaking and comments rolled out from Capitol Hill immediately upon the reconvening of Congress after the recess for the Philadelphia Republican convention.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told the Senate that Wilkie was a "master of political blitzkrieg" who remained in the "shadow of his holied and monied precincts" while other candidates for the Republican nomination stumped the country. The nominee, Pepper asserted, employed "disunity" methods in attempting to block the Tennessee Valley Authority program.

Rep. Doughton (D-NC), predicting an easy defeat of Willkie, said "the reason the Republicans didn't nominate a Republican was that they didn't want one of their own number beaten." (Willkie supported the election of President Roosevelt in 1932).

Many Motorists Asked About Auto Taxes

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—State's Attorney J. Bernard Wells said that persons who obtained license tags without payment of motor vehicle taxes are being summoned to his office daily for questioning.

Motorists are being questioned by Wells and States Auditor Daniel L. Clayland. Governor O'Conor recently gave the prosecutor the names of about 500 persons who obtained tags without payment of taxes, and estimated that approximately 2,000 more got their plates the same way.

Two men have been arrested on charges of conspiracy to defraud the city.

Stocks Irregular as Traders Stay On Sidelines in a Dull Market

Only a Few Issues Manage To End the Day Higher

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—War, business or political stimulation again was lacking in today's stock market and leading issues clung to a slim area in desultory dealings.

Due to a brief morning flurry in steels, motors, aircrafts, shipping and specialty issues, the day's turnover managed to top the meager total of yesterday which was the second smallest in eighteen years. Transfer amounted to 320,020 shares compared with 272,920 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 40.9.

Owing to the stock exchange recess Thursday for the independence holiday, traders generally kept commitments or stood aside altogether.

Holding modest advances were N.Y. Shipbuilding, Electric Boat, Penn-Dixie Cement, Loew's Loft, Woolworth, Great Northern, Santa Fe and Consolidated Edison.

Unchanged to Lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, American Telephone, Westinghouse and American Can.

In the Curb moderate improvement was shown for Bath Iron Works, International Petroleum, Glen Alden Coal and Phoenix Securities. American Gas slipped along with Creole Petroleum and Lake Shore. Volume here was around 106,000 shares against 74,000 Monday.

HAPPY LANDING!

All these Flight Angels (Airline hostesses) are excited because one has made a three-point matrimonial landing. The story of their colorful careers is told in Warner Bros.' "Flight Angels," which opens today at the New Liberty.

Theaters Today

Louis-Godoy Fight Films at Embassy

Opening today at the Embassy theater will be the triple attraction consisting of the Joe Louis—Arturo Godoy fight films' a round-by-round, blow-by-blow description; Metro Goldwyn Mayer's "Congo Maisie" starring Ann Sothern and John Carroll. Tom Tyler in the western drama "Orphans Of The Pecos". Another chapter of the serial "Drums Of Fu Manchu", will also be shown.

Garden Film Stars Autry and Withers

Gene Autry shares starring honors with mischievous Jane Withers in "Shooting High," action-romance of the wide open spaces, which Twentieth Century-Fox is currently presenting at the Garden theater.

Gene left Ravia, Oklahoma, where he was working as a telegraph operator, and headed for Broadway where he found a part in a play of the western plains, "Green Grow the Lilacs." In the play Gene sang several songs, which took well.

When the play closed Gene looked around Broadway for other parts. Since nothing but "dude" roles were offered to him, he headed for Hollywood.

Prominently featured in "Shooting High" are Majorie Weaver, Frank M. Thomas, Robert Lowery, Katharine Aldridge, Hobart Cavanaugh, Jack Carson and Hamilton MacFadden.

Wayne Morris, Margaret Lindsay and William Gargan have the leading roles in Universal's mystery drama, "Double Alibi," which is also at the Garden theater.

Offered as a different kind of mystery film in which clues are said to defy solution until the final scenes, "Double Alibi" presents Morris as a young engineer fighting to clear himself of murder, Miss Lindsay as a girl reporter, and Gargan as the hard-boiled city editor with an eye for both beauty and headlines.

"Edison the Man" Opens Run Today

Hollywood at last has achieved something that can lay an unchallenged claim to a superlative description. It is a set representing Thomas A. Edison's Menlo Park laboratory, constructed for the Spencer Tracy picture, "Edison, the Man," which opens today at the Maryland theater.

The set was the most detailed authentic reproduction of an actual place filmdom has even created. Although the real laboratory was abandoned in 1887, fifty-three years ago, it was possible to duplicate the actual structure, inside and out, just as Edison had it when he invented the electric light.

This was possible because the reconstructed laboratory, with practically all of the original lumber and genuine patent models of Edison's inventions, stands today at Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's Americana museum near Dearborn, Michigan.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer merely capitalized on Ford's research. The amazing fact about the set was that nearly everyone of the 25,000 items in it was made at the studio for the picture. No genuine article could be taken to Hollywood because each is priceless as a relic. They had, therefore, to be made from pictures and constructed so they would actually work. Twelve reels of film showed technicians how every article in the laboratory operated. Director Clarence Brown secured plans of the laboratory which builders followed minutely.

New Film Opens At Liberty Today

Romance, adventure and comedy will be the order of the day when Warner Bros.' new film, "Flight Angels," with an all star cast opens at the New Liberty today. "Flight Angels" brings to the screen the story of those unsung heroines of the air . . . airline hostesses.

Dennis Morgan, playing the role of a Federal Airline pilot, is grounded after years of service when the doctor tells him that his eyesight is failing. Ralph Bellamy, as the Flight Superintendent, life-long friend of Morgan offers him a job as teacher in the airline's school for plane hostesses. Pilot Morgan promptly turns the offer down, but Virginia Bruce, lovely stewardess, persuades him to accept the position. Things go along smoothly until the combination of being kidded by his fellow pilots and the stupid questions asked by the students cause Morgan to quit. Virginia Bruce pleads with him to stay, but he refuses and accepts a pilot's job in China. From this point on, the action is fast and furious.

Also featured in "Flight Angels" are Jane Wyman and Wayne Morris. Miss Wyman portrays a young stewardess who is much more interested in catching Wayne Morris than she is in the future of Federal Airlines. As for Morris, he is seen as a fellow pilot of Morgan, whose principal interest is a new stratosphere plane, which the two of them have designed.

THE ROMANCE IN EDISON'S LIFE

Spencer Tracy and Rita Johnson in "Edison, the Man," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's attraction opening today at the Maryland theater. An extra added attraction on the program will be the short hit "The Flag Speaks" produced in technicolor.

SALLY'S SALLIES

His Judgment Poor

STAUNTON, Va. (AP)—A late wayfarer dropped off to sleep on J. F. L. Long's front porch. Long discovered him and gave him a bed. Next morning the wayfarer offered no thanks—Mr. Long is the city jailer.

Canine Depositor

Census Dividend

WOODLAKE, Calif., (AP)—When Ralph Graves, census taker, returned to his car after a call he had to chase two hens from the seats. Each left a newly laid egg.

HAPPY LANDING!

All these Flight Angels (Airline hostesses) are excited because one has made a three-point matrimonial landing. The story of their colorful careers is told in Warner Bros.' "Flight Angels," which opens today at the New Liberty.

Theaters Today

Louis-Godoy Fight Films at Embassy

Opening today at the Embassy theater will be the triple attraction consisting of the Joe Louis—Arturo Godoy fight films, a round-by-round, blow-by-blow description; Metro Goldwyn Mayer's "Congo Maisie" starring Ann Sothern and John Carroll. Tom Tyler in the western drama "Orphans Of The Pecos". Another chapter of the serial "Drums Of Fu Manchu", will also be shown.

Garden Film Stars Autry and Withers

Gene Autry shares starring honors with mischievous Jane Withers in "Shooting High," action-romance of the wide open spaces, which Twentieth Century-Fox is currently presenting at the Garden theater.

Gene left Ravia, Oklahoma, where he was working as a telegraph operator, and headed for Broadway where he found a part in a play of the western plains, "Green Grow the Lilacs." In the play Gene sang several songs, which took well.

When the play closed Gene looked around Broadway for other parts. Since nothing but "dude" roles were offered to him, he headed for Hollywood.

Prominently featured in "Shooting High" are Majorie Weaver, Frank M. Thomas, Robert Lowery, Katharine Aldridge, Hobart Cavanaugh, Jack Carson and Hamilton MacFadden.

Wayne Morris, Margaret Lindsay and William Gargan have the leading roles in Universal's mystery drama, "Double Alibi," which is also at the Garden theater.

Offered as a different kind of mystery film in which clues are said to defy solution until the final scenes, "Double Alibi" presents Morris as a young engineer fighting to clear himself of murder, Miss Lindsay as a girl reporter, and Gargan as the hard-boiled city editor with an eye for both beauty and headlines.

"Edison the Man" Opens Run Today

Hollywood at last has achieved something that can lay an unchallenged claim to a superiative description. It is a set representing Thomas A. Edison's Menlo Park laboratory, constructed for the Spencer Tracy picture, "Edison, the Man," which opens today at the Maryland theater.

The set was the most detailed authentic reproduction of an actual place filmdom has even created. Although the real laboratory was abandoned in 1887, fifty-three years ago, it was possible to duplicate the actual structure, inside and out, just as Edison had it when he invented the electric light.

This was possible because the reconstructed laboratory, with practically all of the original lumber and genuine patent models of Edison's inventions, stands today at Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's Americana museum near Dearborn, Michigan.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer merely capitalized on Ford's research. The amazing fact about the set was that nearly everyone of the 25,000 items in it was made at the studio for the picture. No genuine article could be taken to Hollywood because each is priceless as a relic. They had, therefore, to be made from pictures and constructed so they would actually work. Twelve reels of film showed technicians how every article in the laboratory operated. Director Clarence Brown secured plans of the laboratory which builders followed minutely.

New Film Opens At Liberty Today

Romance, adventure and comedy will be the order of the day when Warner Bros.' new film, "Flight Angels," with an all star cast opens at the New Liberty today. "Flight Angels" brings to the screen the story of those unsung heroines of the air . . . airline hostesses.

Dennis Morgan, playing the role of a Federal Airline pilot, is grounded after years of service when the doctor tells him that his eyesight is failing. Ralph Bellamy, as the Flight Superintendent, life-long friend of Morgan offers him a job as teacher in the airline's school for plane hostesses. Pilot Morgan promptly turns the offer down, but Virginia Bruce, lovely stewardess, persuades him to accept the position. Things go along smoothly until the combination of being kidded by his fellow pilots and the stupid questions asked by the students cause Morgan to quit. Virginia Bruce pleads with him to stay, but he refuses and accepts a pilot's job in China. From this point on, the action is fast and furious.

Also featured in "Flight Angels" are Jane Wyman and Wayne Morris. Miss Wyman portrays a young stewardess who is much more interested in catching Wayne Morris than she is in the future of Federal Airlines. As for Morris, he is seen as a fellow pilot of Morgan, whose principal interest is a new stratosphere plane, which the two of them have designed.

THE ROMANCE IN EDISON'S LIFE

Spencer Tracy and Rita Johnson in "Edison, the Man," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's attraction opening today at the Maryland theater. An extra added attraction on the program will be the short hit "The Flag Speaks" produced in technicolor.

Baer Takes Galento's Measure in Eighth

Tony Badly Cut Up and Breaks His Hand on Baer's Head

By SII FEDER

ROOSEVELT STADIUM, JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2 (AP)—Unpredictable Maxie Baer, still no more consistent than the weather, got "hot" tonight and chilled Tony Galento in eight rounds, thereby defying any and all comers to challenge his right to the championship of the screwballs.

With an assist from Tony's brother, who bounced a beer glass off the Galento chin in a bar-room row two nights ago, the former heavyweight boss cut the walking beer-keg's mouth so badly that referee Joe Mangold halted the fight just as the bell sounded to start the eighth round, giving Maxie a technical knockout.

Up to that point, the playboy pounder of the Pacific had banged Tony's face with such damaging effect, that at the finish blood dripped from the end of Galenti's chin like a leaky faucet.

Another Crack at Louis

With his triumph, Maxie also won another chance at Heavyweight King Joe Louis, an honor he may not welcome. He was counted out on one knee in the fourth round when he went against the bomber in 1935. And the chances are that as an older and wiser head now, he won't exactly start the bands playing for the second encounter, which Promoter Mike Jacobs has tentatively scheduled for Chicago in September.

The beating wasn't all that happened to Tony tonight. He not only wound up with a mouth cut clean through, requiring six stitches, but his left hand was broken in the second round when he bounced a wild swing off the top of Maxie's head. Then, before they ever got into the ring, it was learned Caswell (Keppel) Jacobs, brother of Tony's late manager, Joe Jacobs, had served papers on Promoter Mike Jacobs attaching Galento's end of the purse on behalf of Joe's surviving relatives—two brothers and a sister.

Max in Good Shape

Maxie wasn't supposed to be in good enough condition to stand up four rounds tonight, but he must have been holding out on the boys. For, while he was tired at the finish, he didn't look as though he'd need to leave in a wheel chair. In fact, a midget climbed into the ring as Galento walked out, and Maxie, as serious as usual, wrestled on the floor with him for several moments.

Baer did an expert job for the seven rounds the fight lasted but, in all fairness, he ought to "cut" Tony's brother, Russell, in on his purse. For Russell's high hard one with the beer glass cut Tony's chin two nights ago, and it was this gash, enlarged and deepened, which brought Baer the victory.

In the first round, this bigger Baeer—he weighed 221½ to Tony's 244½—went to work on that cut, and had it opened in the first two minutes. From there on, he just aimed at this target like a bull going after grandpa's red flannels. Tony's mouth wasn't a pretty thing to see when the fight ended, just after Whitey Bimstein, one of his seconds, had summoned the referee to examine the wound.

Rules Stretched a Bit

As expected and advertised, these two stretched the Marquis of Queensbury rules a bit. Once Tony rushed in and butted Max under the chin with as much "zing" as he could put behind it. Max leaned over the ropes, spitting teeth and blood, and the referee warned Tony. This round was taken from Galento for his fouling, but it was Maxie's on merit anyway.

Tony also gave quite an exhibition of backhanding on accasions, while Max, not to be outdone, held up his end by hitting on the break once in a while, and leaning on Tony in the clinches until the referee warned him to desist.

Maxie also brought his occasional clowning, grinning tactics into play. In the first round, he grinned when Tony bounced a left off his chin. Then, he ducked under Tony's next three swings, came up inside with short rights and lefts and scored plenty.

Both were bleeding in the second. Baer from his nose. In the third, both looked tired enough to ask for a night's lodging. After that the pace slowed somewhat, and the referee was the hardest working man in the ring, parting them about five times a minute. The referee, probably was the best conditioned man inside the ropes, too.

Really Won in Seventh

Midway of the seventh, it became clear that Max had the fight in his pocket, although Tony still charged in, only to be met with stiff, straight punches. Once Galento charged half way across the ring, missing and as Baer side-stepped, Tony stumbled to one knee.

For the benefit of fistic historians, this was the 19th anniversary of Jack Dempsey's tussle with George Carpentier in this town. There was no resemblance in the two. Tonight's was strictly a brawl.

It started, in fact, at the weigh-in when they squared off to pose for photographs. Tony cuffed Max's arm, and Max countered with a right aimed at the body before their handlers stopped it.

In the dressing rooms afterward, Max let the folks in on the secret that Joe Louis had told him how to fight Tony.

"The old champ here," he pointed to the bomber, who had crowded into the room, "came up to my camp and showed me what to do. Boy, he really did a good job didn't he."

Galento, meantime, howled for a return match. "I can lick dat bum" he moaned through his puffed lips. "I got a tough break tonight, but I shoulda flattened him anyway."

TONY, NO DUCK! NEEDS DOCTOR!

This picture was snapped as "Two-Ton" Tony Galento had his ticker checked while training for his bout with Max Baer last evening. Tony apparently didn't think much of Dr. Dodson's doo-dads and is shown scratching his "think-tank" as he thinks.

However, last night was another night, and Max Baer took over the sounding out process and, as a result, Baer battered him about the head and face, forcing the referee to halt the hammering as the bell rang for the eighth round.

Today Tony needs a doctor but not for any examination of his heart. The game Galento was as game as usual . . . he just didn't duck!

Carleton Hurls Three-Hitter as Dodgers Win 4-1

Veteran Holds Phils and Brooklyn Again Threatens

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers challenged for the National League lead today with a 4 to 1 triumph over the last place Phillies on Tex Carleton's three-hit pitching.

Until the seventh inning the struggle was a hurling duel between Carleton and Ike Pearson of the Phils. Neither gave a hit in the first four frames and it remained for Joe Medwick of the Dodgers to break the ice in the fifth with a homer.

The Phillies tied up the score in their half of the fifth on a walk and a triple by Art Mahan.

This deadlock was broken by Brooklyn with a three-run cluster on four hits in the seventh. Medwick started this, too, with a single.

The victory gave Brooklyn a sweep of the two-game series and an average of .6557. The pace-making Reds went into their night game with St. Louis needing to win to hold a percentage edge with .6562.

Ellerslie To Play Twin Bill Tomorrow

The Ellerslie Merchants of the Allegany County Softball League have booked a doubleheader attraction for the home field tomorrow in connection with the Fourth of July celebration of the P.O.S. of A. lodge.

The Merchants wi" meet the Bowman Grocers of the City League at 1 o'clock and then will tangle with the LaVale A. A. of the County League in an exhibition contest.

County Loop Clubs In Important Tilts

With the LaVale A. A. and Corriganville clubs in a nose-and-nose dive to the wire, the Allegany County Softball League first half race ends this week.

It's still possible for a third team, the Wilkinson Grocers, to gain a tie in the final standing, but LaVale tossers expect to eliminate the Grocer crew from consideration in a game carded for the LaVale field this evening.

The first half campaign closes Friday and all postponed games, including a very important deferred engagement between the Corriganville and Wilkinson teams, must be played before the close of business on that date. LaVale's half-game margin over Corriganville is due to the fact that the leaders have played and copped one more game than the Corgs.

It is very likely that the outcome of the race will hinge on Friday's battle at LaVale between Corriganville and the current leaders. Corriganville meets Clary Club away today before taking on LaVale in Friday's closing skirmish.

In other Friday games Clary Club plays at Ellerslie, Narrow's Park at Wilkinson and Potomac Valley at Stringtown.

Former Woman Champs In Stride in W. Va. Meet

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—The scores of the main contenders moved down to championship levels today as Fritzi Stifel Quarrier and Ann Hoblitzell easily brushed away the early opposition in the women's state golf tournament.

Mrs. Quarrier, out for a tenth title to add to the nine she already has won, came in from her first match with a breezy two-over-par 77, or four strokes better than the 81 which gave her medal honors in yesterday's qualifying round.

Mrs. Hoblitzell, defending titleholder from Parkersburg, shaved three strokes from her qualifying score of 83 for a sound 80 as she defeated Mrs. M. M. Moorhead of Charleston, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Quarrier had a 9 and 8 margin over Mrs. J. H. Kabler of Bluefield. The Wheeling star, competing in the tournament for the first time in three years, had expressed some fears about her game before play started.

The gallery experts, however, were conceding her the title unless she runs into a bad round against one of the better opponents.

Mrs. E. W. Stifel of Wheeling, tournament veteran, had no trouble in her first round match against Mrs. R. B. Blubaugh of Charleston, winning 7 and 6. Mrs. Henry Payne of Charleston, who was medalist in the 1939 tourney, turned back Mrs. Robert Lowe of Charleston, 6 and 5.

City Loop Meets

A meeting of the City Softball League will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Central Y.M.C.A., President Cliff Fearer announced yesterday. The seassion has been called to outline plans for the second half race which starts next week.

Gomez Comes Out Of "Retirement" To Beat Senators

Wins over Leonard 6-2 as Nats Fumble Five Times

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The New York Yankees sprang Lefty Gomez out of semi-retirement today and walloped the Washington Senators 6 to 2 with a 14-hit offensive.

Gomez had been suffering from a back ailment. During the seven innings that he worked before tiring, he allowed nine hits but was scored upon in only one inning. In the second, Washington tallied twice on two doubles and a single.

Pitcher Dutch Leonard had a perfect day at the plate, if not in the box hitting three for three. He was plagued by the Senators' five fumbles.

Besides the ball game Washington also lost the services of outfielder Gerald Walker for a couple of days. He was struck on the right eye by a foul tip while trying to bunt in the first inning and received a superficial cut.

Lee Goes Route To Beat Pirates 10-0

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Bill Lee, the big right-hander who won 41 games for the Chicago Cubs the last two seasons, went the route for the first time in six weeks today, pitching a 10-0 shutout victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

While Lee was tossing five-hit ball, the Cubs pounded Joe Bowman from the box in the fifth and continued the assault on Dick Lanahan. They sewed up the game in the second with five runs on four hits, three errors and two bases on balls.

Celanese Baseball Meeting Tonight

The baseball team of Celanese Local No. 1874 will hold a meeting in the Union Hall, N. Mechanic street, this evening at 7:30, Manager R. W. Long announced today.

Urbas, Frostburg, Leads in Bi-State

Frank Urbas of the Frostburg American Legion crew surged into first place in the Bi-State Baseball League batting column during the past month, according to averages announced today by Secretary Don Shires.

Urbas, who held the runnerup spot June 4 with a mark of .592, collected nine hits in 25 trips since that time and now is setting the pace with .462. He has stepped to the plate 54 times, has scored 15 runs and has driven out 25 blows.

Steindel Takes Second

Harry Steindel of the Midland Red Sox increased his average from .409 to .451 to climb from eleventh to second place. In his last nine tries, he poled five hits.

"Nebs" George of the Cumberland Colts, who had been tied for seventh with Van Roby of the Dobbins, saw his average drop .031 but his current mark of .441 is good enough for third place. Roby is fifth with .422. Each tosser collected ten hits since the previous release with George having 24 times at bat and Roby 26 since the last tabulation.

"Bee" Scarpelli of Frostburg, Arthur Scalli of Keyser, Joe McGinn of the Celts and "Jobie" Marble of Midland turned in sensational climbs.

Sure Stops Capture Third Straight Win

The Sure Stops bagged their third straight victory in the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Softball League by downing the Kelly crew 14-10 yesterday. It was the second loss in three starts for the Kelly Tossers.

Manager Bob Wade, hurling in the absence of the Sure Stops' regular boxman, Arnold Twigg, held the Kelley crew to ten hits. R. Hoff, who started for the Kellys, gave way to Armbuster in the third after walking three and being nicked for five hits.

The Tubes and Buckeyes meet tomorrow in the other game carded for this week.

Tutwiler's 147 Is Medalist Score in W. Va. Tournament

Defending Champion Puts in Day Practicing Putting

By WALTER MASON

WHITE SUPPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—A field of pretty good amateur golfers just couldn't catch up, leaving bronzed Ed Tutwiler today with medalist honors in the twenty-seventh state tournament and the gallery's guess he can win another title.

The twenty-year-old defending champion from Mount Hope took advantage of a beautiful day to practice on his putting while most of the rest of the amateurs spent their time completing the necessary thirty-six-hole qualifying round.

The 147 which Tutwiler marked up yesterday wasn't even approached by any of the others, although a good half dozen had a chance to do it.

Bobby Lowe of Charleston came the closest with 150.

Two boys in their teens, Ray Vaughan of Lewisburg and Billy Campbell of Huntington, posted 151 each to share third place in the qualifying for match play which starts tomorrow.

One by one the better golfers reported back to the lockers with hard luck stories and oversize scores.

Fred Bannerot of Charleston, champion in 1932-33, had a seventy-four on his first eighteen holes yesterday but struck rough going for a bad eighty today and a total of 154.

Steve Jupinko of Moundsville, who almost made a name for himself in the National open quualifier at Huntington, fell far behind his usual game for a total of 155. Jack Hoblitzell of Parkersburg played all thirty-six holes yesterday for 153.

Bryan Brown, the southern West Virginia truck driver who was runnerup to Tutwiler last year, was well behind the leaders but still certain of a place in the championship flight. Brown, now registered from Beckley, came through with 158.

Playing conditions were much better than yesterday, although a hard breeze was still blowing. The amateurs, however, found the Old White Course as hard as ever to whip. No one came close to par—even Tutwiler's 147 was seven over.

Saturday Open Date In Pen-Mar Circuit

Howard L. Northcraft, secretary of the Pen-Mar League, announced last evening that Saturday will be an open date in the circuit, permitting the playing of games postponed earlier in the season.

The open date was brought about when no decision was made about the All-Star game originally billed for this week, at the last meeting of the clubs.

Northcraft also announced the following players eligible for league games tomorrow: William Thomas and Ralph Brant for Mt. Savage; Gustave Frizzell, George B. Staup and Raymond Cameron for Lonaconing.

Baer Takes Galento's Measure in Eighth

Tony Badly Cut Up and Breaks His Hand on Baer's Head

By SH FEDER

ROOSEVELT STADIUM, JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2 (AP)—Unpredictable Maxie Baer, still no more consistent than the weather, got "hot" tonight and chilled Tony Galento in eight rounds, thereby defying any and all comers to challenge his right to the championship of the screwballs.

With an assist from Tony's brother, who bounced a beer glass off the Galento chin in a bar-room row two nights ago, the former heavyweight boss cut the walking beer-keg's mouth so badly that referee Joe Mangold halted the fight just as the bell sounded to start the eighth round, giving Maxie a technical knockout.

Up to that point, the playboy pounder of the Pacific had banged Tony's face with such damaging effect, that at the finish blood dripped from the end of Galenti's chin like a leaky faucet.

Another Crack at Louis

With his triumph, Maxie also won another chance at Heavyweight King Joe Louis, an honor he may not welcome. He was counted out on one knee in the fourth round when he went against the bomber in 1935. And the chances are that as an older and wiser head now, he won't exactly start the bands playing for the second encounter, which Promoter Mike Jacobs has tentatively scheduled for Chicago in September.

The beating wasn't all that happened to Tony tonight. He not only wound up with a mouth cut clean through, requiring six stitches, but his left hand was broken in the second round when he bounced a wild swing off the top of Maxie's head. Then, before they ever got into the ring, it was learned Caswell (Keppel) Jacobs, brother of Tony's late manager, Joe Jacobs, had served papers on Promoter Mike Jacobs attaching Galento's end of the purse on behalf of Joe's surviving relatives—two brothers and a sister.

Max in Good Shape

Maxie wasn't supposed to be in good enough condition to stand up four rounds tonight, but he must have been holding out on the boys. For, while he was tired at the finish, he didn't look as though he'd need to leave in a wheel chair. In fact, a midget climbed into the ring as Galento walked out, and Maxie, as serious as usual, wrestled on the floor with him for several moments.

Baer did an expert job for the seven rounds the fight lasted but, in all fairness, he ought to "cut" Tony's brother, Russell, in on his purse. For Russell's high hard one with the beer glass cut Tony's chin two nights ago, and it was this gash, enlarged and deepened, which brought Baer the victory.

In the first round, this bigger Baer—he weighed 221½ to Tony's 244½—went to work on that cut, and had it opened in the first two minutes. From there on, he just aimed at this target like a bull going after grandpa's red flannels. Tony's mouth wasn't a pretty thing to see when the fight ended, just after Whitey Bimstein, one of his seconds, had summoned the referee to examine the wound.

Rules Stretched a Bit

As expected and advertised, these two stretched the Marquis of Queensbury rules a bit. Once Tony rushed in and butted Max under the chin with as much "zing" as he could put behind it. Max leaned over the ropes, spitting teeth and blood, and the referee warned Tony. This round was taken from Galento for his fouling, but it was Maxie's on merit anyway.

Tony also gave quite an exhibition of backhanding on accasions, while Max, not to be outdone, held to his end by hitting on the break once in a while, and leaning on Tony in the clinches until the referee warned him to desist.

Maxie also brought his occasional cunning, grinning tactics into play. In the first round, he grinned when Tony bounced a left off his chin. Then, he ducked under Tony's next three swings, came up inside with short rights and lefts and scored plenty.

Both were bleeding in the second, Tony from his nose. In the third, Tony looked tired enough to ask for the night's lodging. After that the pace slowed somewhat, and the referee was the hardest working man in the ring, parting them about five times a minute. The referee, probably was the best conditioned man inside the ropes, too.

Really Won in Seventh

Midway of the seventh, it became clear that Max had the fight in the pocket, although Tony still surged in, only to be met with left, straight punches. Once Galento surged half way across the ring, swinging and as Baer side-stepped, Tony stumbled to one knee.

For the benefit of fistic historians, this was the 19th anniversary of Jack Dempsey's tussle with George Carpentier in this town. There was no resemblance in the two. Tonight's was strictly a brawl.

It started, in fact, at the weigh-in when they squared off to pose for photographs. Tony cuffed Max's arm, and Max countered with a right aimed at the body before their handlers stopped it.

In the dressing rooms afterward, Max let the folks in on the secret that Joe Louis had told him how to fight Tony.

"The old champ here," he pointed to the bomber, who had crowded into the room, "came up to my camp and showed me what to do. Boy, he really did a good job didn't he."

Galento, meantime, howled for a return match. "I can lick dat bum" he moaned through his puffed lips. "I got a tough break tonight, but I shoulda flattened him anyway."

TONY, NO DUCK! NEEDS DOCTOR!

This picture was snapped as "Two-Ton" Tony Galento had his ticker checked while training for his bout with Max Baer last evening. Tony apparently didn't think much of Dr. Dodson's doo-dads and is shown scratching his "think-tank" as he thinks.

However, last night was another night, and Max Baer took over the sounding out process and, as a result, Baer battered him about the head and face, forcing the referee to halt the hammering as the bell rang for the eighth round.

Today Tony needs a doctor but not for any examination of his heart. The game Galento was as game as usual . . . he just didn't duck!

Carleton Hurls Three-Hitter as Dodgers Win 4-1

Veteran Holds Phils and Brooklyn Again Threatens

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers challenged for the National League lead today with a 4 to 1 triumph over the last place Phillies on Tex Carleton's three-hit pitching.

Until the seventh inning the struggle was a hurling duel between Carleton and Ike Pearson of the Phils. Neither gave a hit in the first four frames and it remained for Joe Medwick of the Dodgers to break the ice in the fifth with a homer.

The Phillies tied up the score in their half of the fifth on a walk and a triple by Art Mahan.

This deadlock was broken by Brooklyn with a three-run cluster on four hits in the seventh. Medwick started this, too, with a single.

The victory gave Brooklyn a sweep of the two-game series and an average of .6557. The pace-making Reds went into their night game with St. Louis needing to win to hold a percentage edge with .6562.

Ellerslie To Play Twin Bill Tomorrow

The Ellerslie Merchants of the Allegany County Softball League have booked a doubleheader attraction for the home field tomorrow in connection with the Fourth of July celebration of the P.O.S. of A. lodge.

The Merchants will meet the Bowman Grocers of the City League at 1 o'clock and then will tangle with the LaVale A. A. of the County League in an exhibition contest.

County Loop Clubs In Important Tilts

With the LaVale A. A. and Corriganville clubs in a nose-and-nose dive to the wire, the Allegany County Softball League first half race ends this week.

It's still possible for a third team, the Wilkinson Grocers, to gain a tie in the final standing, but LaVale tossers expect to eliminate the Grocer crew from consideration in a game carded for the LaVale field this evening.

The first half campaign closes Friday and all postponed games, including a very important deferred engagement between the Corriganville and Wilkinson teams, must be played before the close of business on that date. LaVale's half-game margin over Corriganville is due to the fact that the leaders have played and copped one more game than the Corgs.

It is very likely that the outcome of the race will hinge on Friday's battle at LaVale between Corriganville and the current leaders. Corriganville meets Clary Club away today before taking on LaVale in Friday's closing skirmish.

In other Friday games Clary Club plays at Ellerslie, Narrow's Park at Wilkinson and Potomac Valley at Stringtown.

Former Woman Champs In Stride in W. Va. Meet

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—The scores of the main contenders moved down to championship levels today as Fritzi Stifel Quarrier and Ann Hoblitzell easily brushed away the early opposition in the women's state golf tournament.

Mrs. Quarrier, out for a tenth title to add to the nine she already has won, came in from her first match with a breezy two-over-par 77, or four strokes better than the 81 which gave her medal honors in yesterday's qualifying round.

Mrs. Hoblitzell, defending titleholder from Parkersburg, shaved three strokes from her qualifying score of 83 for a sound 80 as she defeated Mrs. M. M. Moorhead of Charleston, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Quarrier had a 9 and 8 margin over Mrs. J. H. Kabler of Bluefield. The Wheeling star, competing in the tournament for the first time in three years, had expressed some fears about her game before play started.

The gallery experts, however, were conceding her the title unless she runs into a bad round against one of the better opponents.

Mrs. E. W. Stifel of Wheeling, tournament veteran, had no trouble in her first round match against Mrs. R. B. Blubaugh of Charleston, winning 7 and 6. Mrs. Henry Payne of Charleston, who was medalist in the 1939 tourney, turned back Mrs. Robert Lowe of Charleston, 6 and 5.

City Loop Meets

A meeting of the City Softball League will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Central Y.M.C.A., President Cliff Fearer announced yesterday. The seassion has been called to outline plans for the second half race which starts next week.

Gomez Comes Out Of "Retirement" To Beat Senators

Wins over Leonard 6-2 as Nats Fumble Five Times

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The New York Yankees sprang Lefty Gomez out of semi-retirement today and walloped the Washington Senators 6 to 2 with a 14-hit offensive.

Gomez had been suffering from a back ailment. During the seven innings that he worked before tiring, he allowed nine hits but was scored upon in only one inning. In the second, Washington tallied twice on two doubles and a single.

Pitcher Dutch Leonard had a perfect day at the plate, if not in the box hitting three for three. He was plagued by the Senators' five fumbles.

Besides the ball game Washington also lost the services of outfielder Gerald Walker for a couple of days. He was struck on the right eye by a foul tip while trying to bunt in the first inning and received a superficial cut.

Lee Goes Route To Beat Pirates 10-0

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Bill Lee, the big right-hander who won 41 games for the Chicago Cubs the last two seasons, went the route for the first time in six weeks today, pitching a 10-0 shutout victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

While Lee was tossing five-hit ball, the Cubs pounded Joe Bowman from the box in the fifth and continued the assault on Dick Lanahan. They sewed up the game in the second with five runs on four hits, three errors and two bases on balls.

Celanese Baseball Meeting Tonight

The baseball team of Celanese Local No. 1874 will hold a meeting in the Union Hall, N. Mechanic street, this evening at 7:30, Manager R. W. Long announced today.

Urbas, Frostburg, Leads in Bi-State

Frank Urbas of the Frostburg American Legion crew surged into first place in the Bi-State Baseball League batting column during the past month, according to averages announced today by Secretary Don Shires.

Urbas, who held the runnerup spot June 4 with a mark of .592, collected nine hits in 25 trips since that time and now is setting the pace with .462. He has stepped to the plate 54 times, has scored 15 runs and has driven out 25 blows.

Steindel Takes Second

Harry Steindel of the Midland Red Sox increased his average from .409 to 451 to climb from eleventh to second place. In his last nine tries, he poled five hits.

"Nebs" George of the Cumberland Colts, who had been tied for seventh with Van Roby of the Dobbins, saw his average drop .031 but his current mark of .441 is good enough for third place. Roby is fifth with .422. Each tosser collected ten hits since the previous release with George having 24 times at bat and Roby 26 since the last tabulation.

"Bee" Scarpelli of Frostburg, Arthur Scalli of Keyser, Joe McGinn of the Colts and "Jobie" Marble of Midland turned in sensational climbs.

Sure Stops Capture Third Straight Win

The Sure Stops bagged their third straight victory in the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Softball League by downing the Kelly crew 14-10 yesterday. It was the second loss in three starts for the Kelly Tossers.

Manager Bob Wade, hurling in the absence of the Sure Stops' regular boxman, Arnold Twigg, held the Kelley crew to ten hits. R. Hoff, who started for the Kellys, gave way to Armbuster in the third after walking three and being nicked for five hits.

The Tubes and Buckeyes meet tomorrow in the other game carded for this week.

Tutwiler's 147 Is Medalist Score in W. Va. Tournament

Defending Champion Puts in Day Practicing Putting

By WALTER MASON

WHITE SUPPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—A field of pretty good amateur golfers just couldn't catch up, leaving bronzed Ed Tutwiler today with medalist honors in the twenty-seventh state tournament and the gallery's guess he can win another title.

The twenty-year-old defending champion from Mount Hope took advantage of a beautiful day to practice on his putting while most of the rest of the amateurs spent their time completing the necessary thirty-six-hole qualifying round.

The 147 which Tutwiler marked up yesterday wasn't even approached by any of the others, although a good half dozen had a chance to do it.

Bobby Lowe of Charleston came the closest with 150.

Two boys in their teens, Ray Vaughan of Lewisburg and Billy Campbell of Huntington, posted 151 each to share third place in the qualifying for match play which starts tomorrow.

One by one the better golfers reported back to the lockers with hard luck stories and oversize scores.

Fred Bannerot of Charleston, champion in 1932-33, had a seventy-four on his first eighteen holes yesterday but struck rough going for a bad eighty today and a total of 154.

Steve Jupinko of Moundsville, who almost made a name for himself in the National open quualifier at Huntington, fell far behind his usual game for a total of 155. Jack Hoblitzell of Parkersburg played all thirty-six holes yesterday for 153.

Bryan Brown, the southern West Virginia truck driver who was runnerup to Tutwiler last year, was well behind the leaders but still certain of a place in the championship flight. Brown, now registered from Beckley, came through with 158.

Playing conditions were much better than yesterday, although a hard breeze was still blowing. The amateurs, however, found the Old White Course as hard as ever to whip. No one came close to par—even Tutwiler's 147 was seven over.

Saturday Open Date In Pen-Mar Circuit

Howard L. Northcraft, secretary of the Pen-Mar League, announced last evening that Saturday will be an open date in the circuit, permitting the playing of games postponed earlier in the season.

The open date was brought about when no decision was made about the All-Star game originally billed for this week, at the last meeting of the clubs.

Northcraft also announced the following players eligible for league games tomorrow: William Thomas and Ralph Brant for Mt. Savage; Gustave Frizzell, George B. Staup and Raymond Cameron for Lonaconing.

River City Club Wins

PARSONS, W. Va., July 2—In the Industrial Softball League the River City Club defeated the Woolen Mill team by a score of 8-2. The River City team is the strongest team in the league and won over the latter team despite the fact their pitcher, Johnny Syrian, was absent.

The line-up is as follows: River City club—pitcher, A. Parsons; catcher, J. Parsons; first base, Butcher; second base, Haines; third base, Gilmore; short stop, Jones; right field, B. Parsons; left field, H. Parsons; center field, Moorman; and short field, Freeman. Woolen Mill—pitcher, Wilfong; catcher, Griffith; first base, Bennett; second base, Bowley; third base, Hovatter; right field, Poling; left field, E. Simmons; short stop, Largent; and short field, Simmons.

Ponton Advances In City Tourney By Win over Dye

Plays Winner Claus-Ort Match Today in Semi-Finals

Russell Ponton winner of the city tennis championship for several years advanced another round nearer winning the S. T. Little Jewelry Company trophy again this year, by eliminating K. R. Dye, his doubles partner, 6-1, 6-1.

Ponton's semi-final match will be played with the winner of the Claus vs. Ort match today. Yesterday on the Dingle courts Claus defeated Van Sant 6-2, 6-3.

In the men's doubles yesterday Robert Pane and Ross Palmer disposed of Jack Evans and J. W. McClure, 6-4, 2-6, 6-0. W. E. Hinkel and Ed. Harvey on the Garlitz courts bested Walter Beetche and Landy Jewell, 6-0, 6-3.

Yesterday in women's singles Mrs. Peyton Brown defeated Betty Flake, 6-3, 6-4. Miss Flake had previously won from Mrs. Arden Lowndes, 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Tom Mills eliminated Judy Jones, 6-2, 6-1. Amelia Ann Claus downed Mrs. R. B. Stantford, 6-4, 6-3. In a second round match Miss Claus lost to Mrs. James Kelly, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. Mrs. Kelly had previously won from Miss Louise Wellington, 6-1, 6-0. Margaret Stewart disposed of Jane Hutston, 6-8, 6-0, 6-1. Elizabeth Watkins won from Helen Twigg, 6-1, 7-5.

Matches in all events will continue today and over the Fourth. Weather permitting the tournament closing this week.

Detroit Beats Chicago, 10-9, To Take Lead

Climax Climb Up Ladder To Prove Flag Contender

Outhit 16 to 11 but Make Ten Bases on Balls

Ralph Kress Hits Homer To Clinch Long Battle

DETROIT, July 2 (AP)—The surprising Detroit Tigers climaxed a steady climb up the American League ladder today by beating the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 9, to move into first place a scant six percentage points ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who lost to St. Louis.

Outhit 16 to 11 in the ragged two hour and 37 minute struggle, the Tigers made the most of ten bases on balls issued by three Chicago pitchers to come from behind four times and score the victory, their second straight over the Sox in the three-game series.

A single by Rudy York scoring Dick Bartell from second put Detriot in front, 9 to 8, in the seventh and in the next inning Ralph (Red) Kress belted the game's only homer for what eventually proved to be the winning run.

This is the first time the Tigers have been serious challengers for the American League pennant in July since they won their last flag in 1935.

Junior A. of C. Defeats Rockingchair Caseys, 5-4

The Junior Association of Commerce defeated Cumberland Council Caseys in their Rockingchair softball league game yesterday afternoon at Community Park, 5 to 4.

With one out in the first frame the Jr. Association of Commerce collected three runs on two singles an error and a walk. Howell grounded out.

Hetzel singled and took second when Cessna was safe on Fretwell's error at second. Pitcher Loibel uncorked two wild pitches, Hetzel scoring and Cessna going to third. Roby walked; advanced to second on a wild pitch. Cessna scored. Mackey flied out to short field; Kauffman doubled Roby home. McAlpine was called out on strikes to end the frame.

Single runs were scored by the Jr. A. of C. in the second and third innings. Lone runs were scored by the K. of C. in the first, second, fifth and seventh innings.

Fretwell circled the bases on Mackey's error in the second stanza. George Chapman stole home in the fifth for the "Knights"

Cronin Should Be Happy His Team Isn't in Lead

NEW YORK, July 2—Many baseball managers will tell you that when they have a team with a chance for the pennant, they like somebody else to make the pace. The strain is on the team in front. The team behind can swing from behind, fully and freely, with nothing to lose.

If such is the case, Joe Cronin, the cerebrum of the Boston Red Sox, should be happier than he looks, for Joe has been relieved of the strain. Maybe the trouble is that Mr. Cronin was relieved too abruptly. They took the strain off him with a terrible jolt.

The Red Sox led the league almost continuously from the start of the season till two weeks ago. It was a strain, all right, but a strain that had its points. No one likes to be relieved the way Cleveland and Detroit relieved Boston.

The American League race figured only one way in April—New York will win sure, but if New York doesn't win, Boston's a cinch. Nobody looked for back talk from Johnny-Come-Latelies like Cleveland and Detroit.

A Race for Third Place?

When this year's schedule was made, experts laid their fingers on a July series between the Yankees and Red Sox and said, "That's gonna be a pip. Maybe it'll settle the race." Now they are saying in Detroit and Cleveland that it will probably settle the race for third place.

Maybe that's all there is to it. Myself, I do not concede the pennant to the Tiger—Indian axis. I think it is still quite possible that the winner of the 1940 flag is mixed up in the seaboard fight between New York and Boston. But both clubs will have to perk up and at least keep even with the leader if they hope to make a stretch run in August and September.

Mr. Cronin, as I said before, does not look happy, but the 'old boy-wonder is still tooting his trumpet and promising big things.

"We've got the Yankees' number, and Cleveland and Detroit haven't shown us anything yet that looks like a pennant club. We'll catch 'em. The load is off our shoulders now. Boy, you can have that early lead. It keeps a ball club worrying all the time.

"We're still the best in the league for hitting and fielding. Maybe we have to concede something in pitching, but don't get the idea our pitchers are hopeless. Hash and Galehouse are going good. Wilson is beginning to find himself. If one more fella steps forward from my mob and shows he can take a turn, then we'll win. We've got the pitchers to do it if they'll buckle down and fight for us.

Sox Need Powder-Train

"I'm not underrating Cleveland and Detroit. I said all along they'd be tough. But neither of them strikes me as having quite what it takes.

"Of course, Cleveland owns one thing that all of us need—two real pitchers who can go in there and win steady. That's Feller and Al Milnar. But Feller and Milnar can't carry that club. Where would they be without Al Smith's wins? And where is Al Smith going to be when this league gets the range on him? You can't stand off a league of hitters all year with a nothing ball. Some day pretty soon that Smith will bust wide open.

"Now, Detroit has good hitting, I grant you, but not as good as ours, and their infield and outfield are spotty compared to my club's. Full of holes. How long can the hitters and pitchers come through to say the defense? Outside of Buck Newsom, what pitchers have they got? Tommy Bridges can still win games, but not the way he used to. They've got two good kids, Newhouser and Gorsica, but they're not ready to win a pennant.

"It takes balance, and with one more winning pitcher, Boston has the balance it takes. The Yanks have balance too. They could still win. But I'm afraid they're wearing out at the edges, just like we figured in the spring."

With this oration, Mr. Cronin moved off to tighten his lines for his doubleheader July 4.

Two wins there could start a powder-train for Boston. And a powder-train is what the Red Sox need. Those local trains that stop dead in Washington and St. Louis will get Mr. Cronin nowhere.

Junior A. of C. To Pass Up Rocking Chair Loop

The Junior Association of Commerce probably will withdraw from the Rocking Chair Softball League at the end of the first half race July 16, Fred Hetzel, president of that organization, announced at a meeting of the league at the K. of C. Home Monday.

Hetzel made his statement after the other three league clubs, Knights of Columbus, B. P. O. Elks and City Police, declined to modify the loop's minimum age rule of 25 years.

The other clubs passed a rule making eligible all players, regardless of age, who participated in games up to and including June 4, the date of which the 25-year regulation was officially adopted.

Any organizations interested in joining the league for the second half race, which will start about July 18, should communicate with President James H. Hill at Hill's Toy Store

St. Louis Browns Knock Cleveland From Lead 5 to 3

All Brown Tallies Made on Home Run Clouts

CLEVELAND, July 2 (AP) — The scrappy St. Louis Browns knocked Cleveland out of first place today. Relief pitcher Nate Andrews, former Brownie, served a ninth-inning home run ball to his rival, Vernon Kennedy, which gave St. Louis a 5 to 3 victory—its second in a row over the skidding Tribe.

All the St. Louis tallies were scored on homers. Harlond Clift got one in the fourth off Mel Harder, Cleveland starter, with the bases empty and George McQuinn slugged out another in the sixth after Roy Cullenbine walked. Johnny Allen went out for a pinch hitter after blanking the Browns for two innings, but with the score tied in the ninth, Kennedy got in his blow to score behind Johnny Berardino, who had singled.

Cleveland made its first run in the fourth on singles by Beau Bell, Chapman and Ray Mack, and its second in the sixth on Mack's single, a walk and Lou Boudreau's double.

BACK TO THE MINORS

Johnny Vander Meer

Two years ago Johnny Vander Meer, above, set the baseball world on its ear by hurling two no-hit triumphs in a row, but now the 24-year-old righthander has been sent back to the minors by the Cincinnati Reds. He is with Indianapolis in the American association on a 24-hour option.

The SPORT TRAIL

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Pinch Hitting for Whitney Martin)

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Patty Berg, the freckle-faced red head from Minneapolis, will receive $7,500 annually for becoming a professional golfer.

That's $145 weekly. Quite a gob of dough for a girl just 22 years old taking her first job.

The story of Patricia's turning professional isn't quite ready, but from inside sources it is learned that she has made up her mind to accept the offer of a Chicago sporting goods company. It won't become official until the lights are turned on and the cameras set up, just like Mike Jacobs does for ballyhoo when his principals sign for a heavyweight championship fight. She plans to attach her signature to the dotted line within 10 days, if she hasn't done so already.

* * *

Playing golf and getting paid for it is a dream of thousands in the sport, at the moment. The golfing sisters ahead of her are Helen Hicks Harb; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City veteran; Helen Dettweiller of Washington; Helen MacDonald, of Chicago, and Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, Los Angeles, the former Olympic star, now the wife of George Zaharias, known to the wrestling game as "the weeping Greek from Cripple Creek, Colo."

Mesdames Hill and Harb and Miss Dettweiller are with the Chicago firm which will engage Miss Berg. Helen MacDonald, former wife of a Chicago pro, has successfully conducted a golf school here for several years.

The "Babe" is on her own. She can drive a golf ball with the best of the male pros and only last Sunday won the women's Western Open at Milwaukee.

* * *

The demand for talented girl golfers in the professional field exceeds the supply. They have become tremendously important and popular, particularly among co-eds, so Miss Berg's duties will become educational, with appearances at summer camps for girls, golf coaching schools and such.

Patty, a sophomore at the University of Minnesota, has won every title of importance since she first became a sensation at 16. She first started major tournament competition six years ago when she made a sensational bid for the women's Western derby, a 72-hole medal test. Later she won it. She also won the women's Trans-Mississippi, the women's Western, a flock of Florida winter tournaments and finally the national championship in 1938. She didn't play much last year because of an appendectomy.

On the golf links, Patricia is described as cute. She's chubby with naturally curly bobbed hair, a million freckles and a captivating grin. She usually plays in slacks and sweater or blouse, and always on top of her red head is a blue beret.

Macks Outslug Red Sox but Split Doubleheader

Rookie Relieves Dean and Is Credited with Victory

BOSTON, July 2 (AP)—Although the Philadelphia Athletics managed to out-slug the hard-hitting Boston Red Sox in both ends of today's double-header, the Mackmen had to share the bill, winning the opener, 4-3, but dropping the nightcap, 15-9.

Rookie Ed Heusser, who retired in the seventh in favor of Chubby Dean, made his first major league start in the opener and was credited with the victory. The A's clinched the game against Denny Galehouse by putting together three singles for a run in the second inning and scoring three more in the fifth on a single and doubles by Wally Moses, Al Simmons and Dick Siebert.

The sockers walloped George Caster for 10 hits, including homers by Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx, for as many runs during his four-innings turn in the second game. Foxx' circuit drive, his 18th of the season, came with two on base in the second inning.

Police Prove Water Does Make Difference And Defeat Elks 7 to 6

While the Cumberland Elks' mainstay moundsman was wording the wonders of the beer industry in Cumberland over the ether, the Cumberland Police oared Pop Reynolds of the Water Department into their lineup and beat the Elks in their Rockingchair League game last evening 7 to 6, proving that water does make a difference, at least water-department worthies who wield a softbal. bat hard.

All Reynolds did (and he did it in his Sunday summer best, having turned out merely as a spectator) was to hoist a healthy homer with two new-found Bluecoat playmates on bases in the fourth frame, just after the Elks had tied the score with three runs in their half of the inning.

Broadbeck of the Elks had three thumps with Gower getting two, one a triple, while Underdonk of the Elks also had two, one a double. The Elks had an even dozen safeties, three more than the Cops got off Wallis who winged them plateward in place of the Elks' mainstay moundsman who was away talking about beer while the Police put a waterman in their lineup to win the game.

War College Nine Seeks July 4th Rival in Section

The War College Baseball team of Washington, D. C., composed of players in training at the college, desires games on or around July 4th in Cumberland. The record for this season stands at eight won and five defeats.

The manager of the college team, Joe Rivers, is especially interested in teams in either Bi-State or Pen-Mar leagues but will also consider others.

Teams in these leagues he considers more in his team's class. There are no professional players on the team as they must belong to the training school to play.

For arrangements and terms kindly write Joe Rivers, c/o War College, Washington, D. C.

Nedayr To Race in Empire on Saturday

DELAWARE PARK, July 2—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, master of Sagamore Farm in the Worthington Valley, notified Racing Secretary Edward J. Brennan, that he has changed the plans for his good handicap horse, Nedayr.

The racer's original itineary called for an appearance in the $10,000 added Sussex Handicap here Thursday, but now Nedayr is to make his next start in the $25,000 added Butler Handicap at Empire City.

Nedayr will meet a much tougher field in the New York race than he would have faced in the Sussex. It now appears that only six horses will face Starter George Palmer in the closing-day feature here.

Donoso Held Almost Sure to Win Watch

When Ruperto Donoso rode three winners here yesterday he practically gained possession of the $500 gold watch being given to the leading rider of the meeting by the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association.

The three victories increased his score to 32 and placed him 6 in front of his nearest opponent, Maurice Peters, for the thirty-day meeting closing Thursday.

After Donoso and Peters, the next eight riders rank as follows: Joe Wagner, 21; Ken McCombs, 18; Jimmy Lynch, 13; Eddie DeCamillis, 11; Eddie Smith, 10; Al Shelhamer, 10; Robert Wholey, 7, and Charley Friedman, 7.

Boston Bees Break Schumacher Spell To Beat Giants 5-3

Homers by Chet Ross and Gene Moore Are Features

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — The Boston Bees broke through the spell of the New York Giants today for a 5 to 3 decision in a lusty hitting affair featured by the home runs of Chet Ross and Gene Moore of the Bees.

The result broke a four-game personal winning streak for Hal Schumacher, who gave way, for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

Each team made 11 hits, but Dick Errickson left ten Giants stranded. His mates took charge of the game in the sixth with successive homers good for three runs and added another tally in the seventh with two singles.

Detroit Beats Chicago, 10-9, To Take Lead

Climax Climb Up Ladder To Prove Flag Contender

Outhit 16 to 11 but Make Ten Bases on Balls

Ralph Kress Hits Homer To Clinch Long Battle

DETROIT, July 2 (AP)—The surprising Detroit Tigers climaxed a steady climb up the American League ladder today by beating the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 9, to move into first place a scant six percentage points ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who lost to St. Louis.

Outhit 16 to 11 in the ragged two hour and 37 minute struggle, the Tigers made the most of ten bases on balls issued by three Chicago pitchers to come from behind four times and score the victory, their second straight over the Sox in the three-game series.

A single by Rudy York scoring Dick Bartell from second put Detriot in front, 9 to 8, in the seventh and in the next inning Ralph (Red) Kress belted the game's only homer for what eventually proved to be the winning run.

This is the first time the Tigers have been serious challengers for the American League pennant in July since they won their last flag in 1935.

Junior A. of C. Defeats Rockingchair Caseys, 5-4

The Junior Association of Commerce defeated Cumberland Council Caseys in their Rockingchair softball league game yesterday afternoon at Community Park, 5 to 4.

With one out in the first frame the Jr. Association of Commerce collected three runs on two singles an error and a walk. Howell grounded out.

Hetzel singled and took second when Cessna was safe on Fretwell's error at second. Pitcher Loibel uncorked two wild pitches, Hetzel scoring and Cessna going to third. Roby walked; advanced to second on a wild pitch. Cessna scored. Mackey flied out to short field; Kauffman doubled Roby home. McAlpine was called out on strikes to end the frame.

Single runs were scored by the Jr. A. of C. in the second and third innings. Lone runs were scored by the K. of C. in the first, second, fifth and seventh innings.

Fretwell circled the bases on Mackey's error in the second stanza. George Chapman stole home in the fifth for the "Knights".

Cronin Should Be Happy His Team Isn't in Lead

NEW YORK, July 2—Many baseball managers will tell you that when they have a team with a chance for the pennant, they like somebody else to make the pace. The strain is on the team in front. The team behind can swing from behind, fully and freely, with nothing to lose.

If such is the case, Joe Cronin, the cerebrum of the Boston Red Sox, should be happier than he looks, for Joe has been relieved of the strain. Maybe the trouble is that Mr. Cronin was relieved too abruptly. They took the strain off him with a terrible jolt.

The Red Sox led the league almost continuously from the start of the season till two weeks ago. It was a strain, all right, but a strain that had its points. No one likes to be relieved the way Cleveland and Detroit relieved Boston.

The American League race figured only one way in April—New York will win sure, but if New York doesn't win, Boston's a cinch. Nobody looked for back talk from Johnny-Come-Latelies like Cleveland and Detroit.

A Race for Third Place?

When this year's schedule was made, experts laid their fingers on a July series between the Yankees and Red Sox and said, "That's gonna be a pip. Maybe it'll settle the race." Now they are saying in Detroit and Cleveland that it will probably settle the race for third place.

Maybe that's all there is to it. Myself, I do not concede the pennant to the Tiger—Indian axis. I think it is still quite possible that the winner of the 1940 flag is mixed up in the seaboard fight between New York and Boston. But both clubs will have to perk up and at least keep even with the leader if they hope to make a stretch run in August and September.

Mr. Cronin, as I said before, does not look happy, but the 'old boy-wonder is still tooting his trumpet and promising big things.

"We've got the Yankees' number, and Cleveland and Detroit haven't shown us anything yet that looks like a pennant club. We'll catch 'em. The load is off our shoulders now. Boy, you can have that early lead. It keeps a ball club worrying all the time.

"We're still the best in the league for hitting and fielding. Maybe we have to concede something in pitching, but don't get the idea our pitchers are hopeless. Hash and Galehouse are going good. Wilson is beginning to find himself. If one more fella steps forward from my mob and shows he can take a turn, then we'll win. We've got the pitchers to do it if they'll buckle down and fight for us.

Sox Need Powder-Train

"I'm not underrating Cleveland and Detroit. I said all along they'd be tough. But neither of them strikes me as having quite what it takes.

"Of course, Cleveland owns one thing that all of us need—two real pitchers who can go in there and win steady. That's Feller and Al Milnar. But Feller and Milnar can't carry that club. Where would they be without Al Smith's wins? And where is Al Smith going to be when this league gets the range on him? You can't stand off a league of hitters all year with a nothing ball. Some day pretty soon that Smith will bust wide open.

"Now, Detroit has good hitting, I grant you, but not as good as ours, and their infield and outfield are spotty compared to my club's. Full of holes. How long can the hitters and pitchers come through to say the defense? Outside of Buck Newsom, what pitchers have they got? Tommy Bridges can still win games, but not the way he used to. They've got two good kids, Newhouser and Gorsica, but they're not ready to win a pennant.

"It takes balance, and with one more winning pitcher, Boston has the balance it takes. The Yanks have balance too. They could still win. But I'm afraid they're wearing out at the edges, just like we figured in the spring."

With this oration, Mr. Cronin moved off to tighten his lines for his doubleheader July 4.

Two wins there could start a powder-train for Boston. And a powder-train is what the Red Sox need. Those local trains that stop dead in Washington and St. Louis will get Mr. Cronin nowhere.

Junior A. of C. To Pass Up Rocking Chair Loop

The Junior Association of Commerce probably will withdraw from the Rocking Chair Softball League at the end of the first half race July 16, Fred Hetzel, president of that organization, announced at a meeting of the league at the K. of C. Home Monday.

Hetzel made his statement after the other three league clubs, Knights of Columbus, B. P. O. Elks and City Police, declined to modify the loop's minimum age rule of 25 years.

The other clubs passed a rule making eligible all players, regardless of age, who participated in games up to and including June 4, the date of which the 25-year regulation was officially adopted.

Any organizations interested in joining the league for the second half race, which will start about July 18, should communicate with President James H. Hill at Hill's Toy Store.

St. Louis Browns Knock Cleveland From Lead 5 to 3

All Brown Tallies Made on Home Run Clouts

CLEVELAND, July 2 (AP) — The scrappy St. Louis Browns knocked Cleveland out of first place today. Relief pitcher Nate Andrews, former Brownie, served a ninth-inning home run ball to his rival, Vernon Kennedy, which gave St. Louis a 5 to 3 victory—its second in a row over the skidding Tribe.

All the St. Louis tallies were scored on homers. Harlond Clift got one in the fourth off Mel Harder, Cleveland starter, with the bases empty and George McQuinn slugged out another in the sixth after Roy Cullenbine walked. Johnny Allen went out for a pinch hitter after blanking the Browns for two innings, but with the score tied in the ninth, Kennedy got in his blow to score behind Johnny Berardino, who had singled.

Cleveland made its first run in the fourth on singles by Beau Bell, Chapman and Ray Mack, and its second in the sixth on Mack's single, a walk and Lou Boudreau's double.

Johnny Vander Meer

Two years ago Johnny Vander Meer, above, set the baseball world on its ear by hurling two no-hit triumphs in a row, but now the 24-year-old righthander has been sent back to the minors by the Cincinnati Reds. He is with Indianapolis in the American association on a 24-hour option.

The SPORT TRAIL

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Pinch Hitting for Whitney Martin)

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Patty Berg, the freckle-faced red head from Minneapolis, will receive $7,500 annually for becoming a professional golfer.

That's $145 weekly. Quite a gob of dough for a girl just 22 years old taking her first job.

The story of Patricia's turning professional isn't quite ready, but from inside sources it is learned that she has made up her mind to accept the offer of a Chicago sporting goods company. It won't become official until the lights are turned on and the cameras set up, just like Mike Jacobs does for ballyhoo when his principals sign for a heavyweight championship fight. She plans to attach her signature to the dotted line within 10 days, if she hasn't done so already.

* * *

Playing golf and getting paid for it is a dream of thousands in the sport, at the moment. The golfing sisters ahead of her are Helen Hicks Harb; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City veteran; Helen Dettweiller of Washington; Helen MacDonald, of Chicago, and Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, Los Angeles, the former Olympic star, now the wife of George Zaharias, known to the wrestling game as "the weeping Greek from Cripple Creek, Colo."

Mesdames Hill and Harb and Miss Dettweiller are with the Chicago firm which will engage Miss Berg. Helen MacDonald, former wife of a Chicago pro, has successfully conducted a golf school here for several years.

The "Babe" is on her own. She can drive a golf ball with the best of the male pros and only last Sunday won the women's Western Open at Milwaukee.

* * *

The demand for talented girl golfers in the professional field exceeds the supply. They have become tremendously important and popular, particularly among co-eds, so Miss Berg's duties will become educational, with appearances at summer camps for girls, golf coaching schools and such.

Patty, a sophomore at the University of Minnesota, has won every title of importance since she first became a sensation at 16. She first started major tournament competition six years ago when she made a sensational bid for the women's Western derby, a 72-hole medal test. Later she won it. She also won the women's Trans-Mississippi, the women's Western, a flock of Florida winter tournaments and finally the national championship in 1938. She didn't play much last year because of an appendectomy.

On the golf links, Patricia is described as cute. She's chubby with naturally curly bobbed hair, a million freckles and a captivating grin. She usually plays in slacks and sweater or blouse, and always on top of her red head is a blue beret.

Macks Outslug Red Sox but Split Doubleheader

Rookie Relieves Dean and Is Credited with Victory

BOSTON, July 2 (AP)—Although the Philadelphia Athletics managed to out-slug the hard-hitting Boston Red Sox in both ends of today's double-header, the Mackmen had to share the bill, winning the opener, 4-3, but dropping the nightcap, 15-9.

Rookie Ed Heusser, who retired in the seventh in favor of Chubby Dean, made his first major league start in the opener and was credited with the victory. The A's clinched the game against Denny Galehouse by putting together three singles for a run in the second inning and scoring three more in the fifth on a single and doubles by Wally Moses, Al Simmons and Dick Siebert.

The sockers walloped George Caster for 10 hits, including homers by Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx, for as many runs during his four-innings turn in the second game. Foxx' circuit drive, his 18th of the season, came with two on base in the second inning.

Police Prove Water Does Make Difference And Defeat Elks 7 to 6

While the Cumberland Elks' mainstay moundsman was wording the wonders of the beer industry in Cumberland over the ether, the Cumberland Police oared Pop Reynolds of the Water Department into their lineup and beat the Elks in their Rockingchair League game last evening 7 to 6, proving that water does make a difference, at least water-department worthies who wield a softbal. bat hard.

All Reynolds did (and he did it in his Sunday summer best, having turned out merely as a spectator) was to hoist a healthy homer with two new-found Bluecoat playmates on bases in the fourth frame, just after the Elks had tied the score with three runs in their half of the inning.

Broadbeck of the Elks had three thumps with Gower getting two, one a triple, while Underdonk of the Elks also had two, one a double. The Elks had an even dozen safeties, three more than the Cops got off Wallis who winged them plateward in place of the Elks' mainstay moundsman who was away talking about beer while the Police put a waterman in their lineup to win the game.

War College Nine Seeks July 4th Rival in Section

The War College Baseball team of Washington, D. C., composed of players in training at the college, desires games on or around July 4th in Cumberland. The record for this season stands at eight won and five defeats.

The manager of the college team, Joe Rivers, is especially interested in teams in either Bi-State or Pen-Mar leagues but will also consider others.

Teams in these leagues he considers more in his team's class. There are no professional players on the team as they must belong to the training school to play.

For arrangements and terms kindly write Joe Rivers, c/o War College, Washington, D. C.

Smith Grocers Win

The Smith's Grocers defeated the Senators in an East Side Loop game yesterday 11 to 3. The Smith's smacked 14 safeties while Twigg limited the Senators to eight.

Nedayr To Race in Empire on Saturday

DELAWARE PARK, July 2—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, master of Sagamore Farm in the Worthington Valley, notified Racing Secretary Edward J. Brennan, that he has changed the plans for his good handicap horse, Nedayr.

The racer's original itineary called for an appearance in the $10,000 added Sussex Handicap here Thursday, but now Nedayr is to make his next start in the $25,000 added Butler Handicap at Empire City.

Nedayr will meet a much tougher field in the New York race than he would have faced in the Sussex. It now appears that only six horses will face Starter George Palmer in the closing-day feature here.

Donoso Held Almost Sure to Win Watch

When Ruperto Donoso rode three winners here yesterday he practically gained possession of the $500 gold watch being given to the leading rider of the meeting by the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association.

The three victories increased his score to 32 and placed him 6 in front of his nearest opponent, Maurice Peters, for the thirty-day meeting closing Thursday.

After Donoso and Peters, the next eight riders rank as follows: Joe Wagner, 21; Ken McCombs, 18; Jimmy Lynch, 13; Eddie DeCamillis, 11; Eddie Smith, 10; Al Shelhamer, 10; Robert Wholey, 7, and Charley Friedman, 7.

Boston Bees Break Schumacher Spell To Beat Giants 5-3

Homers by Chet Ross and Gene Moore Are Features

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — The Boston Bees broke through the spell of the New York Giants today for a 5 to 3 decision in a lusty hitting affair featured by the home runs of Chet Ross and Gene Moore of the Bees.

The result broke a four-game personal winning streak for Hal Schumacher, who gave way for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

Midget Baseball League Schedule Under Way Today

Circuit of Six Clubs To Play Split-Season Ending Aug. 14

The second annual North End Midget Baseball League campaign will get under way this morning at 10 o'clock on the North End Playground field.

This loop, the only junior baseball circuit operating in Western Maryland, consists of six clubs—Indians, Sluggers, Scouts, Cardinals, Comets and Marketeers.

The schedule calls for a total of 30 games with 15 each half. The first half ends July 24 and the final stretch will get under way July 25 and close August 14.

Only boys who were not 16 before June 25 are eligible, and only those who use the North End Playground as their regular place of play can sign with one of the clubs.

Each team will be permitted not more than 15 players, who may not transfer from one club to another without the consent of his former manager and teammates.

Games will be played every day except Saturdays and Sundays but contests may be postponed by mutual agreement at least one day ahead of the regularly-scheduled date.

Contests will be seven innings and four and one-half frames must be completed before a game will go on the records. Umpires may be chosen at game time by mutual agreement.

Rosters

Seven dates have been designated for the playing of postponed games. They are from August 15 to August 23, inclusive. The club rosters and complete schedule follow:

Indians—Robert Price, Charles Snyder, Robert Murray, Gene Shaw, Tommy Blank, George Moody, Mickey Cunningham, Martin Mull, Cloy True, Dick True and George Helmstetter.

Ellerslie Wins

Ellerslie got 11 hits off the slants of Yoder with Myers yielding eight to the losers. Stallman worked behind the plate for Ellerslie with Lewis catching for the Valley.

All-Star Lineups Choice Next Tough Job for Managers

McKechnie and Cronin Do Not Have Flock of Own Players

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, July 2 (AP)—If anybody thinks it was difficult to pick the 25-man squads for baseball's big All-Star game at St. Louis a week from today, just consider the job of narrowing these crews down to two starting lineups.

Last year Joe McCarthy, piloting the American Leaguers, made the thing easy by starting six of his own New York Yankees and Bill McKechnie countered with five of his Cincinnati Reds.

But McKechnie and Joe Cronin have different problems this year. There still will be seven of the World Champion Yankees on the American League squad, but they don't stand head and shoulders above their rivals this time and they won't be playing for their own manager.

The American League again will have an advantage in the batting and pitching records.

Cronin might ease his burden by leading off with the nucleus of the first place Cleveland Indians. He is generally expected to name Bob Feller as his starting pitcher. This would logically lead to the selection of Rollie Hemsley to catch.

He might likewise try for smoothness in his infield by using Ray Mack at second, Lou Boudreau at short and Ken Keltner at third, all from the Indians. Jimmie Foxx is an obvious choice for the first base assignment.

Cronin will have his own outfield available, but likewise will find a spot for Joe DiMaggio. Ted Williams and Lou Finney of the Red Sox probably will round out the outer patrol.

McKechnie will have four Reds on his squad, but can start no more than three. Either Paul Derringer or "Bucky" Walters looms for the first pitching call with Ernie Lombardi catching. Frank McCormick is the leading candidate for first base, but McKechnie might defer to the St. Louis fans by using Johnny Mize. Bill Herman of the Cubs, Bill Jurges of the Giants and Harry Lavagetto of the Dodgers would round out a smart infield.

If the National League is to have a .300 hitter in its outfield, Joe Moore of the Giants will have to be started in left field ahead of Joe Medwick. Terry Moore of the Cardinals is a likely choice for center and Mel Ott probably will hold down right field.

Dempsey To Fight In Detroit July 15

ATLANTA, July 2 (AP) — Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight boxing king who flattened a cumbersome, wrestler, Cowboy Luttrell, in less than two rounds here last night, will make his next ring appearance of this reported "comeback" effort in Detroit on July 15. Max Waxman, Dempsey's manager, said Jack would go against Bull Curry, a Hartford (Conn.) copp who has done a bit of fighting and wrestling. The match will be at six rounds.

Woman on Vacation; for Recreation, Tries Double Wins $4,897 for Trouble

OMAHA, Neb., July 2 (AP)—Mrs. Alta McMahon, head bookkeeper for an Omaha furniture store, won $4,897.80 on the daily double at the Ak-Sar-Ben track today—the last day of her vacation.

Because she liked the names of Billy Skillful in the first race and All Sweep in the second, she bought the $2 ticket with that combination.

It was an all-time record payoff at Ak-Sar-Ben, topping the $4,429.80 won by a Chicago woman last May 30.

Midget Baseball League Schedule Under Way Today

Circuit of Six Clubs To Play Split-Season Ending Aug. 14

The second annual North End Midget Baseball League campaign will get under way this morning at 10 o'clock on the North End Playground field.

This loop, the only junior baseball circuit operating in Western Maryland, consists of six clubs—Indians, Sluggers, Scouts, Cardinals, Comets and Marketeers.

The schedule calls for a total of 30 games with 15 each half. The first half ends July 24 and the final stretch will get under way July 25 and close August 14.

Only boys who were not 16 before June 25 are eligible, and only those who use the North End Playground as their regular place of play can sign with one of the clubs.

Each team will be permitted not more than 15 players, who may not transfer from one club to another without the consent of his former manager and teammates.

Games will be played every day except Saturdays and Sundays but contests may be postponed by mutual agreement at least one day ahead of the regularly-scheduled date.

Contests will be seven innings and four and one-half frames must be completed before a game will go on the records. Umpires may be chosen at game time by mutual agreement.

Rosters

Seven dates have been designated for the playing of postponed games. They are from August 15 to August 23, inclusive. The club rosters and complete schedule follow:

All-Star Lineups Choice Next Tough Job for Managers

McKechnie and Cronin Do Not Have Flock of Own Players

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, July 2 (AP)—If anybody thinks it was difficult to pick the 25-man squads for baseball's big All-Star game at St. Louis a week from today, just consider the job of narrowing these crews down to two starting lineups.

Last year Joe McCarthy, piloting the American Leaguers, made the thing easy by starting six of his own New York Yankees and Bill McKechnie countered with five of his Cincinnati Reds.

But McKechnie and Joe Cronin have different problems this year. There still will be seven of the World Champion Yankees on the American League squad, but they don't stand head and shoulders above their rivals this time and they won't be playing for their own manager.

The American League again will have an advantage in the batting and pitching records.

Cronin might ease his burden by leading off with the nucleus of the first place Cleveland Indians. He is generally expected to name Bob Feller as his starting pitcher. This would logically lead to the selection of Rollie Hemsley to catch.

He might likewise try for smoothness in his infield by using Ray Mack at second, Lou Boudreau at short and Ken Keltner at third, all from the Indians. Jimmie Foxx is an obvious choice for the first base assignment.

Cronin will have his own outfield available, but likewise will find a spot for Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and Lou Finney of the Red Sox probably will round out the outer patrol.

McKechnie will have four Reds on his squad, but can start no more than three. Either Paul Derringer or "Bucky" Walters looms for the first pitching call with Ernie Lombardi catching. Frank McCormick is the leading candidate for first base, but McKechnie might defer to the St. Louis fans by using Johnny Mize. Bill Herman of the Cubs, Bill Jurges of the Giants and Harry Lavagetto of the Dodgers would round out a smart infield.

If the National League is to have a .300 hitter in its outfield, Joe Moore of the Giants will have to be started in left field ahead of Joe Medwick. Terry Moore of the Cardinals is a likely choice for center and Mel Ott probably will hold down right field.

Dempsey To Fight In Detroit July 15

ATLANTA, July 2 (AP) — Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight boxing king who flattened a cumbersome, wrestler, Cowboy Luttrell, in less than two rounds here last night, will make his next ring appearance of this reported "comeback" effort in Detroit on July 15. Max Waxman, Dempsey's manager, said Jack would go against Bull Curry, a Hartford (Conn.) copp who has done a bit of fighting and wrestling. The match will be at six rounds.

Woman on Vacation; for Recreation, Tries Double Wins $4,897 for Trouble

OMAHA, Neb., July 2 (AP)—Mrs. Alta McMahon, head bookkeeper for an Omaha furniture store, won $4,897.80 on the daily double at the Ak-Sar-Ben track today—the last day of her vacation.

It was an all-time record payoff at Ak-Sar-Ben, topping the $4,429.80 won by a Chicago woman last May 30.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

In compliance with the provisions of the Charter of the City of Cumberland and Ordinance No. 1725, passed in pursuance thereof, I hereby give notice that the Commissioners appointed to ascertain the damages and assess benefits, incident to the closing of West Lane from its intersection with Centre Street to its Terminus at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, have filed the following report with the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland and that the 10th day of June, 1940, and any person feeling aggrieved thereby may file an appeal to the Circuit Court of Allegany County, within thirty days after the filing of said report.

We, the undersigned Commissioners appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1725, of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, passed upon the 25th day of May, 1940, providing for the closing of West Lane from its intersection with Centre Street to its Terminus at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, do hereby report, that after notice having been duly given, we the undersigned Commissioners, met upon the premises of the property located along West Lane from its intersection with Centre Street to its Terminus at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, upon the 8th day of June, 1940, and heard the testimony of all the persons who appeared, and after giving due consideration to all of the testimony, and after careful examination of the various properties, we have assessed no damages and no benefits.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN G. WIEBEL
ROBERT E. BARNARD
JAMES A. PERRIN
S. E. GRIMINGER
City Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO. 1732

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND, ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE PARK BOARD OF THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND TO MAKE REASONABLE RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE USE OF PUBLIC PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS WITHIN THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND, AND TO PRESCRIBE PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION OF SUCH RULES AND REGULATIONS."

SECTION 1. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That the Park Board of the City of Cumberland, shall be and is hereby authorized to adopt reasonable rules and regulations governing the use of all public Parks and Playgrounds within the City, the hours of opening and closing the same, and the conduct of persons using the same. Such rules and regulations shall be properly posted throughout the public Parks and Playgrounds in conspicuous places, and it shall be the duty of the Park Guard and Playground Supervisors to direct the attention of all persons to said regulations.

SECTION 2. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That any person violating any of the rules and regulations adopted and posted by the Park Board, shall, upon arrest and conviction thereof, be fined not less than One ($1.00) Dollar nor more than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, for each offense.

SECTION 3. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That this Ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Passed this 1st day of July, 1940.

Attest: (s) S. E. GRIMINGER, City Clerk.

Johnstown Man Held for Jury For Mail Fraud

Dummy Corporations Got Goods Free, Postal Agent Says

Held for Grand Jury

Arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, Bozich waived a preliminary hearing and was ordered held under $2,000 bond for action of a federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud. The bond was posted by a Hagerstown bondsman, and Bozich was released from the county jail, where he had been held since Friday.

The case was complicated by Bozich's fantastic claims that he was a manufacturer of explosives and was seeking contracts with both the United States and British governments to furnish them with a thermite incendiary bomb.

The postal inspector said that Bozich was apparently the head of several companies, supposedly operating "plants" in various Pennsylvania towns. But after a two-day visit to Johnstown, Nanty-Glo and Conemaugh, Pa., Moyer said he could find no trace of any plant whatever. He was able to find only a small one-room office in Bozich's home at Johnstown and a warehouse where a quantity of chemical materials was stored, he declared.

Rents Post Office Box

Bozich's activities came to the attention of postal authorities after he "organized" Maryland Chemicals and rented a post office box in Cumberland in an expansion move.

Other "companies" headed by Bozich included the Pennsylvania Chemical Company, of Johnstown; the Central Manufacturing Company of Johnstown; Thelmar Laboratories, of Nanty-Glo; and the Conemaugh Sanitary and Supply Company of Conemaugh. Some of the companies were supposed to have "branch plants," according to their imposing letter-heads and purchase-order blanks.

It was a remarkable story that the postal inspector unfolded last night.

Caught in Expansion Move

Although Bozich, said to be of Serbian descent, had been operating in Pennsylvania for some months, it was not until he decided to expand into Maryland that the machinery was set in motion that led to his arrest.

Bozich's new firm, Maryland Chemicals, ordered a ton of glycerin, valued at $270, from a Detroit firm in the spring.

At the same time, Bozich notified the B&O that his chemical company was expecting some freight shipments according to authorities. He advised the railroad not to attempt delivery, but to hold the shipments until they were called for and reconsigned.

Sent to Pennsylvania

The Detroit company sought payment for the glycerin, but received no answer to its letters. It sent a representative here, who could find no headquarters for Maryland Chemicals. Persons living at a Union street address given by Bozich when he rented the post office box said they knew nothing about the matter at all.

Postal authorities were finally asked to investigate.

Call for Mail

Moyer was in the mail-room Sunday night, June 23, when someone opened the Maryland Chemicals box to get the mail, including a package card. While the man (who turned out to be Bozich) was getting the package, Moyer slipped around front.

He got a good look at the man, saw him drive off in a light truck bearing Pennsylvania tags and the name, Pennsylvania Chemical Company, Johnstown.

Information was obtained as to the personnel of the company, and warrants were issued. A watch was set for the reappearance of Bozich.

Nabbed Friday

Finally, Bozich reappeared Friday afternoon to pay rent for three more months' use of the box, as well as to get the mail. The postal authorities nabbed him, then picked up his brother, William, who was waiting on the corner outside.

(William was later released when it appeared that he was an innocent dupe of his brother.)

The postal inspector said that Bozich used two other names in addition to his own. He signed the name of T. E. Bowman to the parcel slip, and his own name to the application for extension of his box-lease, according to Moyer. Another name he used was T. E. Sheridan.

Uses Other Names

Moyer said his investigation disclosed that T. E. Bowman was Mrs. Thelma Elizabeth Bowman, of Johnstown. T. E. Sheridan was the same woman, Sheridan being her maiden name. Mrs. Bowman declared she had given Bozich authority to use her name, but denied knowledge of his activities. She was not taken into custody immediately.

The postal inspector said that further investigation revealed that Maryland Chemicals had obtained goods from at least two other companies to bring the total owing to about $750.

Bozich was apparently re-selling the goods he was obtaining, it was stated.

Insecticide Made

The warehouse at Conemaugh was said to be packed with barrels and drums of chemicals, some of which, after Bozich's arrest, were shipped back to the companies from which they were purchased.

Apparently, the Pennsylvania Chemical company did use some chemicals in a small-scale manufacture of an insecticide and disinfectant, according to Moyer. But this operation was carried on in the cellar of Bozich's home, and there were no plants or factories so far as Moyer could learn.

'Wheel Within Wheel'

One of the stunts used by Bozich to get credit, the postal inspector said, was to use the name of one of his other corporations as reference. For example, Maryland Chemicals would give the Pennsylvania Chemical Company as a reference. This Bozich worked frequently, it appeared.

The defendant has virtually no assets, so far as could be learned, Moyer stated.

Operations of the Pennsylvania firms will be investigated more thoroughly this week, it was indicated, to determine the exact status.

ARMY MARCHES ON—Special significance was attached to the outdoor meeting held last night by the Salvation Army under a street light at the corner of Oldtown road and Gay street. It was 75 years ago last night that William and Catherine Booth launched the Army movement by holding their first outdoor meeting in tawdry, brawling East London. Since then the great army of soldiers has spread throughout the world, and has become symbols of kindliness and hope to thousands of outcasts. Last night's meeting honored the memory of the kind, courageous couple who held that first meeting in London 75 years ago.

Convert Won as 'Army' Marks Anniversary

Seventy-five years ago last night a stout-hearted Methodist minister and his loyel wife set up a soap box pulpit in a fog-soaked East London street and started telling people they weren't attending church as often as they should.

Details are meager regarding that initial meeting the lonely-looking couple held on a drab East London street corner. But that night, William and Catherine Booth launched a powerful, driving force for good that has since spread throughout eighty-seven countries and now embraces 104 different languages.

'Army' Marks Birthday

The movement that was started seventy-five years ago was the Salvation Army. And last night thousands of units throughout the entire world held special anniversary outdoor services commemorating the founding of the movement.

It was for this reason that Brigadier B. L. Phillipson and his soldiers marched forth from the Citadel last night in an unusually happy frame of mind. The Cumberland representatives of the army that was "born on a street corner" took its position at the corner of Gay street and Oldtown road.

Clustered under a street light, the band opened its service with a number of spirited hymns accompanied by the customary guitar, cornets and booming drum. A crowd quickly gathered, including a swarm of children, both white and colored, who sat down on the curb to listen. One youngster, soberly sucked on a popsicle while he watched the drummer.

Crowd Gathers

Spruce, alert Sergt.-Major James McNeill, holding his guitar under his right arm, next strode out in front of the line of soldiers, declared he was born in 1865, the year the Booths launched the movement. He was followed by others who spoke briefly.

Convert Made

In the meantime, a short, middle-aged man arrived at the fringe of the crowd which by this time had grown to almost 200. He pushed his way farther into the crowd. When a cocky youngster started to make a racket the middle-aged man told him to hush up and behave.

Eventually, Brigadier Phillipson asked all who desired to come and kneel by the drum. The soldiers started to sing. The middle-aged man pushed all the way through the crowd, kneeled down on the pavement.

The meeting was a success. Brigadier Phillipson reported later the man chucked away a bottle of liquor and promised to stop drinking altogether.

Last night's meeting was much like any other outdoor meeting held by the Army except for the anniversary. Brigadier Phillipson said he was glad it was so well-attended.

Commenting on Booth, Brigadier Phillipson said it was impossible to keep him in a church. Both thought the church should go right to the people and rope them into living the way they should. So he did. And the Salvation Army has been doing that ever since.

Today, millions of people have felt the touch of the Army in one way or another. It extends a helping hand to everyone. Today, the Army stands for kindliness and the helping hand. That is why it is regarded with devotion throughout the world, Brigadier Phillipson said.

Montgomery-Ward Building Program To Cost $121,000

The Montgomery-Ward Company's building program here represents an expenditure of $121,000, it was revealed yesterday by figures furnished the city engineer's office.

According to the permits issued by the city, the four-story-and-basement firesafe building to be erected at the southeast corner of Baltimore and George streets, will cost approximately $115,000. This steel frame structure will have a frontage of seventy feet on Baltimore street and 125 feet on George street.

Cost of the one-story service station building on South George street will be approximately $6,000. The size of this building will be twenty-eight by forty-seven feet on a lot which has a frontage of seventy feet on South George street and seventy-four feet on the sides.

Jr. O. U. A. M. To Install

New and re-elected officers of Queen City Council No. 49, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, will be installed at a meeting to be held tonight.

Officers are:

Robert E. Stallings, councilor; John Lohr, vice-councilor; M. E. Robinette, recording secretary; Harry Blacklin, assistant secretary; Sylvester Schilling, financial secretary; S. A. Gleichman, treasurer; R. L. Shoemaker, conductor; Elmer Shuck, warden; J. L. Huff, inside sentinel; Henry K. Davis, outside sentinel; Philip Keller, junior councilor; John Lohr, W. A. Wagner and J. L. Huff, trustees, and Fred Sine, chaplain.

Man Paroled

Bids for Eagles Home

Bids for the new Eagles building to be erected at the corner of North Mechanic and Bedford streets were opened Monday night at the Eagles Home and are now being tabulated, Henry J. Koelker, chairman of the building committee, has announced.

He indicated that the successful bidder will be announced within the next week.

Charles C. Geunther, of Pittsburgh, representative of the Grand Aerie, is here to approve the awarding of the contract for the new $40,000 structure.

Employment Up Here, Statistics Show

Unemployment in Allegany county has shown a marked decrease in the past year, according to figures compiled by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Employment Service.

Fred Z. Hetzel, manager, announced yesterday that on June 30 the active file contained the names of 3,744 persons, 1,151 of whom were women. This figure represents 2,973 persons less than the total of 6,717 registered at the local office on June 30, 1939.

Last month, 211 persons were placed in private industry by the Maryland Employment Service here. Of this number fifty-two were placed in domestic occupations, fifty-one in clerical and sales, 113 in construction work and five in the junior division. In June a year ago, a total of 205 placements were made.

Vindex Man Held On U. S. Charge

Jobless Miner Faces Liquor Charge

One man was released and another held for grand jury action yesterday when they were arraigned on federal liquor charges.

United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett ordered James Cesnick, 24, jobless Vindex miner, held under $500 bond. He ordered the release of Adam DeCost, alias Samuel DeCost, 38, also of Vindex, ruling there was insufficient evidence to hold him.

Agents of the federal alcohol tax unit said they found an illicit 50-gallon still in the basement of a house at Vindex occupied by Cesnick and owned by DeCost. Both men denied ownership of the still, Cesnick claiming it was in the house when he moved in.

The raid which resulted in the men's arrest last week was made by ATU Agents Charles E. Cushwa, David H. Walker and Arthur E. Roehrer.

Deaths

Mrs. Ralph C. Morgart

Mrs. Bessie Morgart, wife of Ralph C. Morgart, of 402 Fayette street, died last evening at 6:35 o'clock at Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient for twelve days.

She was assistant manager of Martin's women's shop, Liberty street, and for many years she was employed as clerk in the ready-to-wear department at Rosenbaums' store. Mrs. Morgart was a member of Emmanuel Episcopal church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one brother, Abram L. McCullough; a cousin, Mrs. Margaret Maxwell, of Cumberland; two nieces, Mrs. Paul Largent, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Ralph Rice, Cumberland.

Rev. William A. Melvin

The Rev. William A. Melvin, former pastor of First Methodist church, Bedford street, died Sunday in Baltimore of a heart attack. He was 68.

The Rev. Mr. Melvin was pastor of Lowe Memorial Methodist church, Baltimore, at the time of his death, having held that post for twenty-five years.

He is survived by his widow, the former Minnie A. Peregoy, and four daughters, who reside in Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held today, and burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Baltimore.

Personal

Mrs. Minnie Hollen, 165 Bedford street, has returned from Washington, where she visited her son, Harold, who underwent a minor operation at Emergency hospital.

55 Boys Camping On South Branch

'Y' Camp Opens Busy Season

A rollicking bunch of youngsters, fifty-five in all, ranging in age from eight on up, rolled into the Central YMCA camp on the South Branch this week all set to enjoy from one to four weeks of camp life.

Many of the boys are experiencing their first taste of camp life and the older campers as well as the leaders spent a busy day Sunday getting acquainted and showing the newcomers the ropes.

As usual, everybody wanted to do everything in the book, from swimming to pitching horseshoes, and the camp equipment received a thorough workout.

Monday, the first full day of the thirty-second season of the camp, was one filled with activity from start to finish with every boy entering into some phase of the program, either organized or informal.

Teams Are Organized

During the morning recreation period two senior and two junior teams were organized to play a series of both basketball and speedball. The Dragons in the senior section defeated the Wildcats in basketball, 29 to 16, and then defeated the same team in speedball, 6 to 4. In the Junior division the Bees defeated the Hornets, 4 to 0, while the swimming period halted the speedball contest with the score at 6-all.

Teams in both divisions are:

Senior: Dragons — Charles Sizer, captain; Bill Van Fossen, Hume Annan, Gene Shaw, Eddie Gunning, George Gebensleben, Floyd Price, Gilbert Storey, Charley Piper, Robert Stevens and Bobby Guggenheimer. Wildcats — Kenneth Stolte, captain; Clifford Crusan, Jimmy Ruhl, Dan Shupe, Bill Watkins, John Mitchell, Bob Storer, Don Hines, Urner Norris, Stan Hare and Paul Guggenheimer.

First Week's Personnel

Red Men Plan Rally And Class Initiation

The four Tribes of Red Men in Allegany county will participate in a rally and class adoption in the new wigwam of Tonkaway Tribe No. 120, Ruehl building, 35 Bedford street, on Sunday, July 28.

A meeting of the District Advance committee of the Improved Order of Red Men is scheduled for the wigwam of Tonkaway Tribe at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, July 6.

Rotary Installs New Officers At Dinner Event

Roy W. Eves Succeeds Charles A. Richards As Club President

Local Rotarian shifted gears last night at a dinner-meeting at the Ali Ghan Country Club, submitted themselves to the tender mercies of a new administration and heard Charles A. Richards sing his swan song as retiring president.

Richards relinquished the gavel to Roy W. Eves, the newly-elected president, amidst a lot of kindly words that made his ears burn and received a further expression of appreciation in the form of a diamond-studded Rotary pin, such as only past presidents are entitled to wear. The presentation speech was made by Dr. L. J. Lanich, a past president of the club.

Charles S. Catherman, who served the last year as chairman of the program committee, also came in for a share of honors, and a neatly-wrapped package of something or other, which he was afraid to open at once, was presented to him with the declaration that he had given the club an exceptionally fine series of programs during the year. The package looked like a box of cigars.

The figure eleven came in for coincidental repetition in Richards's accounting of his tenure, there having been at the start of the term eleven charter members and eleven past presidents, with all still holding membership, while eleven new members were brought into the club. The year began with seventy-three members and the net gain was six, as five were lost during the year. Two moved away from the city, one resigned and two were taken by death.

In respect to those taken by death, William Milne and Girard Everstine, the members stood for a moment in silent tribute to their memory.

Committee Heads Named

Eves announced his appointment of committee chairmen for the new administrative year, stating that the chairman is each case would select his own assistants.

There will be four members on the program committee, all past presidents, namely, Victor D. Heisey, Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Tasker G. Lowndes, and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin.

Other committee chairmen are Classification, Arthur F. Happe; Membership, Dr. G. Guy Shoemaker; Fellowship, Charles A. Piper; Attendance, Alan F. Eggleston; Music, Dr. Frank U. Davis; Recreation, J. C. Patterson; Rotary Information, Charles L. Kopp; Public Information, Morris Rosenbaum; Community Service, John D. Liebau with W. Howord Reese heading the Boys' Work division, W. Donald Smith the Youth Service and W. H. Johnson the Rural Urban division; Student Loan, Arthur J. Weber; International Service, Cyril Croft, and Vocational Service, Edward R. Allan.

Other Officers

Serving with Eves in the new administration will be Miles G. Thompson, vice-president, succeeding Eves; Ralph R. Webster, secretary, who was re-elected; Frank H. Ankeney, treasurer, also re-elected; and Thomas A. Gilchrist, sergeant-at-arms, succeeding Charles A. Piper.

The board of directors comprises Dr. Frank U. Davis, George Schwarzenbach, Charles S. Catherman, Roy W. Eves and W. Donald Smith, whose terms run until 1942; and Alan F. Eggleston, Arthur F. Happe, the Rev. Edward P. Heinze, John D. Liebau and Miles G. Thompson, whose terms expire next year.

Legion Auxiliary Postpones Election

The Ladies Auxiliary of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, last night postponed electing delegates to the convention to be held here August 21, 22, 23 and 24.

According to Mrs. David Allen, president the election of delegates will be held sometime after July 20. The Legion auxiliary group held a routine meeting last night at the Legion Home. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Rock Breaks Window In Legion Home

The stone crashed through a second-story window from which the post's flag staff is extended. The American flag is flown daily from the staff directly above the entrance.

The stone crashed through the window at approximately 5:50 p. m. While Legionnaires said it might have been a youngster who chucked the stone, the affair seemed to be something of a mystery.

One member said any repetition of the incident would undoubtedly be thoroughly investigated.

Frostburg Judge To Hear Story Of Tavern Brawl

Assault Charge Changed To Disorderly Conduct; Other Charges Dropped

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. yesterday ruled that the Little Ritz beer parlor rumpus of early Monday morning should be tried by a Frostburg magistrate inasmuch as the affair occurred within the city limits and a charge of disorderly conduct should cover the situation.

Joseph Dudek, tavern owner, was acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to kill, preferred by James A. Dundon, president of the Celanese union, while Mrs. Dorothy Dudek, his wife, withdrew a charge of assault against Dundon. Another charge resulting from the affair also was withdrawn, with Mrs. Orpha Toohey dropping her accusation that Mrs. Dudek assaulted her.

At the lengthy hearing yesterday on the assault charges, orchestra members at the tavern testified that Dundon informed them that their playing was "lousy" and called some of them "wops." They said that Dundon was offensive and finally was ejected by Dudek, who admitted hitting Dundon when they came out of the tavern. All of the musicians asserted that Dundon was the only patron who appeared unruly or intoxicated.

Dudek was represented by Edward J. Ryan at yesterday's hearing. Dundon had no counsel.

Knights of Columbus Install Officers

Officers of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, were installed last night at a regular meeting at the K. of C. Home. Edward J. Conway, district deputy and John Uhl, warden, had charge of the installation ceremonies.

Officers inducted were:

Harry I. Stegmaier, grand knight; W. Ambrose Ryland, deputy grand knight; Peter J. Carpenti, chancellor; George F. McDermott, financial secretary; Louis W. Lippold Jr., recorder; Thomas F. Connell, warden; John B. Wolfhope, treasurer; Oliver H. Bruce Jr., lecturer; Frank H. Barley, trustee; August H. Fogtman, advocate; Harold J. Shuck, inside guard; and James Kelley, outside guard.

At Convention

Harry L. Maphis, I. C. Brant, William V. Pratt and George H. McCracken Jr. are attending the fifth national Townsend convention now in session in St. Louis, Mo., as delegates from Townsend Club No. 2, of Cumberland.

Drinkers, Smokers Will Help Foot U. S. Defense Bill

Liquor, Cigarettes Advance in Price; Beer Cost Varies

At a meeting of the Allegany County Retail Liquor Dealers association yesterday at the Windsor hotel an agreement was reached on the increase in liquor prices to comply with the new federal tax now in effect, but it was deemed advisable to hold a joint meeting of the Allegany County Retail Liquor and Beer associations Friday at 2 p. m. at the Fort Cumberland hotel for the purpose of reaching some conclusion on new beer prices.

Under the new setup there will be no raise in the price of bar liquor but it was decided to cut down on the size of the glasses from one and one-half to one and one-quarter ounces.

Increases in the price of package goods will be ten cents on the half-pint, fifteen cents on the pint and about twenty-five cents on the quart.

Before making any definite decision on beer prices it was decided to call a joint meeting of both organizations for Friday afternoon.

Some beer parlors have already raised the price of bottled beer five cents and discontinued five-cent draught beer. Proprietors claim the new tax amounting to one-third of a cent on the bottle, wiped out the small margin of profit they formerly had, some stating they sold beer at a loss. Many establishments are still selling bottled beer at the same price—temporarily at least.

Another luxury hit by the new defense taxes is cigarettes, with prices increasing materially.

While retail dealers said that prices may change, many stores were selling the popular brands at fifteen or sixteen cents per pack, or twenty-nine cents for two packs. Most ten-cigarettes have gone up a cent, while most of the fifteen-cents-straight and twenty-cent brands remain unchanged.

The tax is also slated to hit cosmetics, but price changes in this field were no generally known.

Crash Drivers Held for Trial

Four Slightly Hurt As Cars Collide

Drivers of two cars involved in a crash on Route 40 at Allegany Grove early yesterday morning were cited to appear for trial Friday morning in Trial Magistrates Court following an investigation by State Trooper Austin H. Bickle.

Four persons were injured in the motor collision which occurred in front of The Grove barbecue stand. Both ars were damaged, and broken glass was scattered over the highway.

Driving toward Frostburg, James F. Dunne, of Meyersdale, Pa., attempted to make a left turn from the highway toward the barbecue stand when a car operated by Clyde M. Wilson, of Mt. Savage road, headed toward Cumberland, collided with Dunne's machine.

Those injured, all occupants of the Dunne car, were:

Miss Mary Cage, 17, of 23 West First street, Cumberland, cuts about the face and several teeth knocked out.

Miss Virginia Cage, 19, Mary's sister, and William Austin, 23, of Meyersdale, cuts and bruises.

Hearing Held Yesterday In Cosway Divorce

Efforts to effect a settlement in the partial divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Mary Roman Cosway, of Cumberland, against Guy Cosway, of Baltimore, today were being made, it was learned yesterday.

At a hearing held yesterday in Circuit court, an attempt was made to reach an agreement on alimony and counsel fees. Prior to the hearing, Horace P. Whitworth, counsel for the plaintiff, proposed that the hearing include discussion of the custody of a minor child of the litigants.

William J. McWilliams, Annapolis, attorney for Mr. Cosway, demurred on the grounds that his client had not appeared in court prepared for a settlement of that issue.

Efforts to effect a settlement were started later. The court will pass on the case sometime in the future, Associate Judge William A. Huster said.

Fish Story

While fishing near his cottage on the South Branch last Saturday, Robert F. Schellhaus landed first a three and one-eighth pound black bass and then not more than a half-hour later he hooked a four and one quarter pound black bass. Bob struggled for some time landing the big one and seems well rewarded for his effort as those "big ones" are hard to get.

Shift of Westernport Water Line Asked To Speed Savage Dam Work

The possibility of replacing of part of the Westernport water line and the furnishing of water to the town by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, Luke, for a period of about thirty days was discussed yesterday at a conference in city hall, Westernport, between members of the Upper Potomac River commission, town officials and members of the State Board of Health.

Commission members pointed out that the Westernport water line which runs to the tunnel at the Savage River dam interferes with progress of the work at that point and they were hopeful of gaining permission from Mayor Whitworth and the city council to relocate the line and have the town receive its water supply from the pulp mill until such a time that the pipeline will bring water direct from the new dam to the town.

Westernport receives its water from a small dam on the Big Savage River property and the present source of supply will be submerged by sixty feet of water when the project is completed.

The Upper Potomac River Commission announced that it is hopeful that permission will be granted to make the changes.

Those attending yesterday's conference were: John J. McMullen, chairman, Owen B. Hitchins and George Warnick, of the Upper Potomac River commission; Mayor Donald P. Whitworth and members of the Westernport council; Daniel Pelletier, superintendent of the Savage River Dam; George W. Legge, attorney to the dam commission; George Hall and John McMurray, of the State Board of Health; and Water Superintendent Fazenbaker and City Engineer Widmer, both of Westernport.

Johnstown Man Held for Jury For Mail Fraud

Dummy Corporations Got Goods Free, Postal Agent Says

Federal authorities were to continue their probe today into what they described as one of the most remarkable frauds uncovered in this section in many years.

Postal Inspector Keith E. Moyer said that Michael J. Bozich, 31, of Johnstown, Pa., had set up several "dummy" corporations in an apparent attempt to obtain goods from chemical manufacturers without making payment for them.

Held for Grand Jury

Arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, Bozich waived a preliminary hearing and was ordered held under $2,000 bond for action of a federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud. The bond was posted by a Hagerstown bondsman, and Bozich was released from the county jail, where he had been held since Friday.

The case was complicated by Bozich's fantastic claims that he was a manufacturer of explosives and was seeking contracts with both the United States and British governments to furnish them with a thermite incendiary bomb.

The postal inspector said that Bozich was apparently the head of several companies, supposedly operating "plants" in various Pennsylvania towns. But after a two-day visit to Johnstown, Nanty-Glo and Conemaugh, Pa., Moyer said he could find no trace of any plant whatever. He was able to find only a small one-room office in Bozich's home at Johnstown and a warehouse where a quantity of chemical materials was stored, he declared.

Rents Post Office Box

Bozich's activities came to the attention of postal authorities after he "organized" Maryland Chemicals and rented a post office box in Cumberland in an expansion move.

Other "companies" headed by Bozich included the Pennsylvania Chemical Company, of Johnstown; the Central Manufacturing Company of Johnstown; Thelmar Laboratories, of Nanty-Glo; and the Conemaugh Sanitary and Supply Company of Conemaugh. Some of the companies were supposed to have "branch plants," according to their imposing letter-heads and purchase-order blanks.

It was a remarkable story that the postal inspector unfolded last night.

Caught in Expansion Move

Although Bozich, said to be of Serbian descent, had been operating in Pennsylvania for some months, it was not until he decided to expand into Maryland that the machinery was set in motion that led to his arrest.

Bozich's new firm, Maryland Chemicals, ordered a ton of glycerin, valued at $270, from a Detroit firm in the spring.

At the same time, Bozich notified the B&O that his chemical company was expecting some freight shipments according to authorities. He advised the railroad not to attempt delivery, but to hold the shipments until they were called for and reconsigned.

Sent to Pennsylvania

The glycerin was brought here and reconsigned to the Pennsylvania Chemical Company at Johnstown, it was said.

The Detroit company sought payment for the glycerin, but received no answer to its letters. It sent a representative here, who could find no headquarters for Maryland Chemicals. Persons living at a Union street address given by Bozich when he rented the post office box said they knew nothing about the matter at all.

Dunn and Bradstreet were called on for aid, but could get no information.

Postal authorities were finally asked to investigate.

Call for Mail

Moyer was in the mail-room Sunday night, June 23, when someone opened the Maryland Chemicals box to get the mail, including a package card. While the man (who turned out to be Bozich) was getting the package, Moyer slipped around front.

He got a good look at the man, saw him drive off in a light truck bearing Pennsylvania tags and the name, Pennsylvania Chemical Company, Johnstown.

Information was obtained as to the personnel of the company, and warrants were issued. A watch was set for the reappearance of Bozich.

Nabbed Friday

Finally, Bozich reappeared Friday afternoon to pay rent for three more months' use of the box, as well as to get the mail. The postal authorities nabbed him, then picked up his brother, William, who was waiting on the corner outside.

(William was later released when it appeared that he was an innocent dupe of his brother.)

The postal inspector said that Bozich used two other names in addition to his own. He signed the name of T. E. Bowman to the parcel slip, and his own name to the application for extension of his box-lease, according to Moyer. Another name he used was T. E. Sheridan.

Uses Other Names

Moyer said his investigation disclosed that T. E. Bowman was Mrs. Thelma Elizabeth Bowman, of Johnstown. T. E. Sheridan was the same woman, Sheridan being her maiden name. Mrs. Bowman declared she had given Bozich authority to use her name, but denied knowledge of his activities. She was not taken into custody immediately.

The postal inspector said that further investigation revealed that Maryland Chemicals had obtained goods from at least two other companies to bring the total owing to about $750.

Bozich was apparently re-selling the goods he was obtaining, it was stated.

Insecticide Made

The warehouse at Conemaugh was said to be packed with barrels and drums of chemicals, some of which, after Bozich's arrest, were shipped back to the companies from which they were purchased.

Apparently, the Pennsylvania Chemical company did use some chemicals in a small-scale manufacture of an insecticide and disinfectant, according to Moyer. But this operation was carried on in the cellar of Bozich's home, and there were no plants or factories so far as Moyer could learn.

'Wheel Within Wheel'

One of the stunts used by Bozich to get credit, the postal inspector said, was to use the name of one of his other corporations as reference. For example, Maryland Chemicals would give the Pennsylvania Chemical Company as a reference. This Bozich worked frequently, it appeared.

The defendant has virtually no assets, so far as could be learned, Moyer stated.

Operations of the Pennsylvania firms will be investigated more thoroughly this week, it was indicated, to determine the exact status.

ARMY MARCHES ON—Special significance was attached to the outdoor meeting held last night by the Salvation Army under a street light at the corner of Oldtown road and Gay street. It was 75 years ago last night that William and Catherine Booth launched the Army movement by holding their first outdoor meeting in tawdry, brawling East London. Since then the great army of soldiers has spread throughout the world, and has become symbols of kindliness and hope to thousands of outcasts. Last night's meeting honored the memory of the kind, courageous couple who held that first meeting in London 75 years ago.

Convert Won as 'Army' Marks Anniversary

Seventy-five years ago last night a stout-hearted Methodist minister and his loyal wife set up a soap box pulpit in a fog-soaked East London street and started telling people they weren't attending church as often as they should.

Details are meager regarding that initial meeting the lonely-looking couple held on a drab East London street corner. But that night, William and Catherine Booth launched a powerful, driving force for good that has since spread throughout eighty-seven countries and now embraces 104 different languages.

'Army' Marks Birthday

The movement that was started seventy-five years ago was the Salvation Army. And last night thousands of units throughout the entire world held special anniversary outdoor services commemorating the founding of the movement.

It was for this reason that Brigadier B. L. Phillipson and his soldiers marched forth from the Citadel last night in an unusually happy frame of mind. The Cumberland representatives of the army that was "born on a street corner" took its position at the corner of Gay street and Oldtown road.

Clustered under a street light, the band opened its service with a number of spirited hymns accompanied by the customary guitar, cornets and booming drum. A crowd quickly gathered, including a swarm of children, both white and colored, who sat down on the curb to listen. One youngster, soberly sucked on a popsicle while he watched the drummer.

Crowd Gathers

A number of adults gathered back of the children, others sat in upstairs windows or stood in doorways nearby.

Brigadier Phillipson briefly sketched the history of the Army, told his steadily-growing audience why last night's meeting had a particular significance.

Spruce, alert Sergt.-Major James McNeill, holding his guitar under his right arm, next strode out in front of the line of soldiers, declared he was born in 1865, the year the Booths launched the movement. He was followed by others who spoke briefly.

Convert Made

In the meantime, a short, middle-aged man arrived at the fringe of the crowd which by this time had grown to almost 200. He pushed his way farther into the crowd. When a cocky youngster started to make a racket the middle-aged man told him to hush up and behave.

Eventually, Brigadier Phillipson asked all who desired to come and kneel by the drum. The soldiers started to sing. The middle-aged man pushed all the way through the crowd, kneeled down on the pavement.

The meeting was a success. Brigadier Phillipson reported later the man chucked away a bottle of liquor and promised to stop drinking altogether.

Last night's meeting was much like any other outdoor meeting held by the Army except for the anniversary. Brigadier Phillipson said he was glad it was so well-attended.

Commenting on Booth, Brigadier Phillipson said it was impossible to keep him in a church. Both thought the church should go right to the people and rope them into living the way they should. So he did. And the Salvation Army has been doing that ever since.

Today, millions of people have felt the touch of the Army in one way or another. It extends a helping hand to everyone. Today, the Army stands for kindliness and the helping hand. That is why it is regarded with devotion throughout the world, Brigadier Phillipson said.

Bids for Eagles Home

Bids for the new Eagles building to be erected at the corner of North Mechanic and Bedford streets were opened Monday night at the Eagles Home and are now being tabulated, Henry J. Koelker, chairman of the building committee, has announced.

He indicated that the successful bidder will be announced within the next week.

Charles C. Geunther, of Pittsburgh, representative of the Grand Aerie, is here to approve the awarding of the contract for the new $40,000 structure.

Montgomery-Ward Building Program To Cost $121,000

The Montgomery-Ward Company's building program here represents an expenditure of $121,000, it was revealed yesterday by figures furnished the city engineer's office.

According to the permits issued by the city, the four-story-and-basement firesafe building to be erected at the southeast corner of Baltimore and George streets, will cost approximately $115,000. This steel frame structure will have a frontage of seventy feet on Baltimore street and 125 feet on George street.

Cost of the one-story service station building on South George street will be approximately $6,000. The size of this building will be twenty-eight by forty-seven feet on a lot which has a frontage of seventy feet on South George street and seventy-four feet on the sides.

Jr. O. U. A. M. To Install

New and re-elected officers of Queen City Council No. 49, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, will be installed at a meeting to be held tonight.

Officers are:

Robert E. Stallings, councilor John Lohr, vice-councilor; M. E. Robinette, recording secretary; Harry Blacklin, assistant secretary; Sylvester Schilling, financial secretary; S. A. Gleichman, treasurer; R. L. Shoemaker, conductor; Elmer Shuck, warden; J. L. Huff, inside sentinel; Henry K. Davis, outside sentinel; Philip Keller, junior councilor; John Lohr, W. A. Wagner and J. L. Huff, trustees, and Fred Sine, chaplain.

Man Paroled

Employment Up Here, Statistics Show

Unemployment in Allegany county has shown a marked decrease in the past year, according to figures compiled by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Employment Service.

Fred Z. Hetzel, manager, announced yesterday that on June 30 the active file contained the names of 3,744 persons, 1,151 of whom were women. This figure represents 2,973 persons less than the total of 6,717 registered at the local office on June 30, 1939.

Last month, 211 persons were placed in private industry by the Maryland Employment Service here. Of this number fifty-two were placed in domestic occupations, fifty-one in clerical and sales, 113 in construction work and five in the junior division. In June a year ago, a total of 205 placements were made.

Vindex Man Held On U. S. Charge

Jobless Miner Faces Liquor Charge

One man was released and another held for grand jury action yesterday when they were arraigned on federal liquor charges.

United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett ordered James Cesnick, 24, jobless Vindex miner, held under $500 bond. He ordered the release of Adam DeCost, alias Samuel DeCost, 38, also of Vindex, ruling there was insufficient evidence to hold him.

Agents of the federal alcohol tax unit said they found an illicit 50-gallon still in the basement of a house at Vindex occupied by Cesnick and owned by DeCost. Both men denied ownership of the still, Cesnick claiming it was in the house when he moved in.

The raid which resulted in the men's arrest last week was made by ATU Agents Charles E. Cushwa, David H. Walker and Arthur E. Roehrer.

Deaths

Mrs. Ralph C. Morgart

Mrs. Bessie Morgart, wife of Ralph C. Morgart, of 402 Fayette street, died last evening at 6:35 o'clock at Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient for twelve days.

She was assistant manager of Martin's women's shop, Liberty street, and for many years she was employed as clerk in the ready-to-wear department at Rosenbaums' store. Mrs. Morgart was a member of Emmanuel Episcopal church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one brother, Abram L. McCullough; a cousin, Mrs. Margaret Maxwell, of Cumberland; two nieces, Mrs. Paul Largent, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Ralph Rice, Cumberland.

Rev. William A. Melvin

The Rev. William A. Melvin, former pastor of First Methodist church, Bedford street, died Sunday in Baltimore of a heart attack. He was 68.

The Rev. Mr. Melvin was pastor of Lowe Memorial Methodist church, Baltimore, at the time of his death, having held that post for twenty-five years.

He is survived by his widow, the former Minnie A. Peregoy, and four daughters, who reside in Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held today, and burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Baltimore.

Personal

Mrs. Minnie Hollen, 165 Bedford street, has returned from Washington, where she visited her son, Harold, who underwent a minor operation at Emergency hospital.

55 Boys Camping On South Branch

'Y' Camp Opens Busy Season

A rollicking bunch of youngsters, fifty-five in all, ranging in age from eight on up, rolled into the Central YMCA camp on the South Branch this week all set to enjoy from one to four weeks of camp life.

Many of the boys are experiencing their first taste of camp life and the older campers as well as the leaders spent a busy day Sunday getting acquainted and showing the newcomers the ropes.

As usual, everybody wanted to do everything in the book, from swimming to pitching horseshoes, and the camp equipment received a thorough workout.

Monday, the first full day of the thirty-second season of the camp, was one filled with activity from start to finish with every boy entering into some phase of the program, either organized or informal.

Teams Are Organized

During the morning recreation period two senior and two junior teams were organized to play a series of both basketball and speedball. The Dragons in the senior section defeated the Wildcats in basketball, 29 to 16, and then defeated the same team in speedball, 6 to 4. In the Junior division the Bees defeated the Hornets, 4 to 0, while the swimming period halted the speedball contest with the score at 6-all.

Teams in both divisions are:

Senior: Dragons — Charles Sizer, captain; Bill Van Fossen, Hume Annan, Gene Shaw, Eddie Gunning, George Gebensleben, Floyd Price, Gilbert Storey, Charley Piper, Robert Stevens and Bobby Guggenheimer. Wildcats - Kenneth Stolte, captain; Clifford Crusan, Jimmy Ruhl, Dan Shupe, Bill Watkins, John Mitchell, Bob Storer, Don Hines, Urner Norris, Stan Hare and Paul Guggenheimer.

First Week's Personnel

Red Men Plan Rally And Class Initiation

The four Tribes of Red Men in Allegany county will participate in a rally and class adoption in the new wigwam of Tonkaway Tribe No. 120, Ruehl building, 35 Bedford street, on Sunday, July 28.

A meeting of the District Advance committee of the Improved Order of Red Men is scheduled for the wigwam of Tonkaway Tribe at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, July 6.

Rotary Installs New Officers At Dinner Event

Roy W. Eves Succeeds Charles A. Richards As Club President

Local Rotarian shifted gears last night at a dinner-meeting at the Ali Ghan Country Club, submitted themselves to the tender mercies of a new administration and heard Charles A. Richards sing his swan song as retiring president.

Richards relinquished the gavel to Roy W. Eves, the newly-elected president, amidst a lot of kindly words that made his ears burn and received a further expression of appreciation in the form of a diamond-studded Rotary pin, such as only past presidents are entitled to wear. The presentation speech was made by Dr. L. J. Lanich, a past president of the club.

Charles S. Catherman, who served the last year as chairman of the program committee, also came in for a share of honors, and a neatly-wrapped package of something or other, which he was afraid to open at once, was presented to him with the declaration that he had given the club an exceptionally fine series of programs during the year. The package looked like a box of cigars.

The figure eleven came in for coincidental repetition in Richards's accounting of his tenure, there having been at the start of the term eleven charter members and eleven past presidents, with all still holding membership, while eleven new members were brought into the club. The year began with seventy-three members and the net gain was six, as five were lost during the year. Two moved away from the city, one resigned and two were taken by death.

In respect to those taken by death, William Milne and Girard Everstine, the members stood for a moment in silent tribute to their memory.

Committee Heads Named

Eves announced his appointment of committee chairmen for the new administrative year, stating that the chairman is each case would select his own assistants.

There will be four members on the program committee, all past presidents, namely, Victor D. Heisey, Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Tasker G. Lowndes, and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin.

Other committee chairmen are Classification, Arthur F. Happe; Membership, Dr. G. Guy Shoemaker; Fellowship, Charles A. Piper; Attendance, Alan F. Eggleston; Music, Dr. Frank U. Davis; Recreation, J. C. Patterson; Rotary Information, Charles L. Kopp; Public Information, Morris Rosenbaum; Community Service, John D. Liebau with W. Howord Reese heading the Boys' Work division, W. Donald Smith the Youth Service and W. H. Johnson the Rural Urban division; Student Loan, Arthur J. Weber; International Service, Cyril Croft, and Vocational Service, Edward R. Allan.

Other Officers

Serving with Eves in the new administration will be Miles G. Thompson, vice-president, succeeding Eves; Ralph R. Webster, secretary, who was re-elected; Frank H. Ankeney, treasurer, also re-elected; and Thomas A. Gilchrist, sergeant-at-arms, succeeding Charles A. Piper.

The board of directors comprises Dr. Frank U. Davis, George Schwarzenbach, Charles S. Catherman, Roy W. Eves and W. Donald Smith, whose terms run until 1942; and Alan F. Eggleston, Arthur F. Happe, the Rev. Edward P. Heinze, John D. Liebau and Miles G. Thompson, whose terms expire next year.

Legion Auxiliary Postpones Election

The Ladies Auxiliary of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, last night postponed electing delegates to the convention to be held here August 21, 22, 23 and 24.

According to Mrs. David Allen, president the election of delegates will be held sometime after July 20. The Legion auxiliary group held a routine meeting last night at the Legion Home. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Rock Breaks Window In Legion Home

Members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 of the Legion were at a loss to explain who would pull such a stunt or why.

The stone crashed through a second-story window from which the post's flag staff is extended. The American flag is flown daily from the staff directly above the entrance.

The stone crashed through the window at approximately 5:50 p. m. While Legionnaires said it might have been a youngster who chucked the stone, the affair seemed to be something of a mystery.

One member said any repetition of the incident would undoubtedly be thoroughly investigated.

Frostburg Judge To Hear Story Of Tavern Brawl

Assault Charge Changed To Disorderly Conduct; Other Charges Dropped

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. yesterday ruled that the Little Ritz beer parlor rumpus of early Monday morning should be tried by a Frostburg magistrate inasmuch as the affair occurred within the city limits and a charge of disorderly conduct should cover the situation.

The local magistrate made the ruling after hearing a score of witnesses give their versions of an altercation at the Frostburg beer parlor.

Joseph Dudek, tavern owner, was acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to kill, preferred by James A. Dundon, president of the Celanese union, while Mrs. Dorothy Dudek, his wife, withdrew a charge of assault against Dundon. Another charge resulting from the affair also was withdrawn, with Mrs. Orpha Toohey dropping her accusation that Mrs. Dudek assaulted her.

A charge of violating the motor vehicle law, preferred by Dudek, against Dundon, is scheduled to be tried here Friday.

At the lengthy hearing yesterday on the assault charges, orchestra members at the tavern testified that Dundon informed them that their playing was "lousy" and called some of them "wops." They said that Dundon was offensive and finally was ejected by Dudek, who admitted hitting Dundon when they came out of the tavern. All of the musicians asserted that Dundon was the only patron who appeared unruly or intoxicated.

Dudek furnished $500 bond Monday for action of the October grand jury on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor without a license. Toohey preferred the charge following the altercation.

Knights of Columbus Install Officers

Officers of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, were installed last night at a regular meeting at the K. of C. Home. Edward J. Conway, district deputy and John Uhl, warden, had charge of the installation ceremonies.

Officers inducted were:

Harry I. Stegmaier, grand knight; W. Ambrose Ryland, deputy grand kniht; Peter J. Carpenti, chancellor; George F. McDermott, financial secretary; Louis W. Lippold Jr., recorder; Thomas F. Connell, warden; John B. Wolfhope, treasurer; Oliver H. Bruce Jr., lecturer; Frank H. Barley, trustee; August H. Fogtman, advocate; Harold J. Shuck, inside guard; and James Kelley, outside guard.

At Convention

Harry L. Maphis, I. C. Brant, William V. Pratt and George H. McCracken Jr. are attending the fifth national Townsend convention now in session in St. Louis, Mo., as delegates from Townsend Club No. 2, of Cumberland.

Legge, attorney to the dam commission; George Hall and John McMurray, of the State Board of Health; and Water Superintendent Fazenbaker and City Engineer Widmer, both of Westernport.

Drinkers, Smokers Will Help Foot U. S. Defense Bill

Liquor, Cigarettes Advance in Price; Beer Cost Varies

At a meeting of the Allegany County Retail Liquor Dealers association yesterday at the Windsor hotel an agreement was reached on the increase in liquor prices to comply with the new federal tax now in effect, but it was deemed advisable to hold a joint meeting of the Allegany County Retail Liquor and Beer associations Friday at 2 p. m. at the Fort Cumberland hotel for the purpose of reaching some conclusion on new beer prices.

Under the new setup there will be no raise in the price of bar liquor but it was decided to cut down on the size of the glasses from one and one-half to one and one-quarter ounces.

Increases in the price of package goods will be ten cents on the half-pint, fifteen cents on the pint and about twenty-five cents on the quart.

Before making any definite decision on beer prices it was decided to call a joint meeting of both organizations for Friday afternoon.

Some beer parlors have already raised the price of bottled beer five cents and discontinued five-cent draught beer. Proprietors claim the new tax amounting to one-third of a cent on the bottle, wiped out the small margin of profit they formerly had, some stating they sold beer at a loss. Many establishments are still selling bottled beer at the same price—temporarily at least.

While retail dealers said that prices may change, many stores were selling the popular brands at fifteen or sixteen cents per pack, or twenty-nine cents for two packs. Most ten-cigarettes have gone up a cent, while most of the fifteen-cents-straight and twenty-cent brands remain unchanged.

The tax is also slated to hit cosmetics, but price changes in this field were no generally known.

Four Slightly Hurt As Cars Collide

Drivers of two cars involved in a crash on Route 40 at Allegany Grove early yesterday morning were cited to appear for trial Friday morning in Trial Magistrates Court following an investigation by State Trooper Austin H. Bickle.

Four persons were injured in the motor collision which occurred in front of The Grove barbecue stand. Both ars were damaged, and broken glass was scattered over the highway.

Driving toward Frostburg, James F. Dunne, of Meyersdale, Pa., attempted to make a left turn from the highway toward the barbecue stand when a car operated by Clyde M. Wilson, of Mt. Savage road, headed toward Cumberland, collided with Dunne's machine.

Those injured, all occupants of the Dunne car, were:

Miss Mary Cage, 17, of 23 West First street, Cumberland, cuts about the face and several teeth knocked out.

Miss Virginia Cage, 19, Mary's sister, and William Austin, 23, of Meyersdale, cuts and bruises.

Wilson was cut on the head, but Dunne was uninjured.

Hearing Held Yesterday In Cosway Divorce

Efforts to effect a settlement in the partial divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Mary Roman Cosway, of Cumberland, against Guy Cosway, of Baltimore, today were being made, it was learned yesterday.

At a hearing held yesterday in Circuit court, an attempt was made to reach an agreement on alimony and counsel fees. Prior to the hearing, Horace P. Whitworth, counsel for the plaintiff, proposed that the hearing include discussion of the custody of a minor child of the litigants.

William J. McWilliams, Annapolis, attorney for Mr. Cosway, demurred on the grounds that his client had not appeared in court prepared for a settlement of that issue.

Efforts to effect a settlement were started later. The court will pass on the case sometime in the future, Associate Judge William A. Huster said.

Fish Story

While fishing near his cottage on the South Branch last Saturday, Robert F. Schellhaus landed first a three and one-eighth pound black bass and then not more than a half-hour later he hooked a four and one quarter pound black bass. Bob struggled for some time landing the big one and seems well rewarded for his effort as those "big ones" are hard to get.
